

FLYING TEACHERS BALK AT WORK
THEIR LEADER CALLS NECESSARY

INSTRUCTION AT MINEOLA AVIATION SCHOOL

Captain J. E. Carberry who is in command of the station, said: "If these men refuse to do work they are asked to do and which is in no sense menial, but work that I or any one else might put his hands to, they can quit, and have been told so. We are short of help, our funds are limited, and we can't let them stand around when there is work to be done to get this place in shape. We have suspended flying to overhaul the machines, which has to be done periodically, and also we are desirous of getting our new buildings in order. We have road building and sidewalk building to do also, and we shall expect these men to fall to it that when ordered to do so. They are employed as civilians, and we have no recourse when they refuse to obey orders except to let them go."

Because they want to be regularly at the hazardous business of flying and not intermittently at safe, prosaic employments, such as painting a ceiling or sweeping out a room, a sharp issue has arisen between the student instructors in aviation at the United States signal corps aviation station at Mineola, N. Y. and the army officers in charge of the station. The aviators, it was learned, contend that the very nature of their calling requires concentration and steady application in order to attain the greatest possible efficiency and that when they are not in the air they should be permitted to rest in their time working over the airplanes. "You can't call it a strike," one aviator instructor said, "because we don't want to quit. We want to go ahead and qualify as junior instructors in aviation, who receive $300 per month instead of the $100 we are getting now, but we don't think we are being given a square deal."

Chicago Triumph
For Cadman-Tsianina

Indian Folkmusic Specialists Score Heavily With the Chicago Critics and Musicians of That City

Charles Wakefield Cadman and Princess Tsianina Redfeather have added one more success to their increasing list of large cities. Their New York debut was fraught with undoubted success and now comes the Lake City with its commendation. They appeared on the Carl Kinsey Artist Course, November 15. Following are just a few extracts from a unanimous and favorable press:

Fascinating to live with for an hour or two. Not only did he perform this music with admirable effect, but the music itself was worthy of his skill. Heally more than ordinarily poignant. The princess proved a great success. While it may be true that this descendant of the original Americans may not be a vocalist who learned all that the schools of singing can teach her, it is also true that her efforts were vastly more interesting than those of many pale faces whose technic is superior to hers. Cadman's lecture is greatly to be desired, but the girl's singing about the square's babies and the lovers that languish to the sound of flutes is the jewel in his setting.—The "Herald."

Governor Withycombe's veto ax fell on the heads of two bills this morning—house bill 21, by the committee on education, making the boundaries of school districts and municipalities coincide because it "seems to work needless hardship on a school district already established, and because the existing statute provides for the re-adjustment of school district boundaries by the county board when local conditions justify the action."

Senate bill 242, by Senator Wilbur, was the other measure to fall before the gubernatorial ax. This bill increased the salaries of the county officials of Hood River county.

On house bill 594, providing for the payment of claims against the state, he approved all the items excepting the one appropriating $228,45 to reimburse P. E. Moloney for expenses incurred in the pursuit, arrest and capture of Toy Yoko and Wong Wah. It was stated by Moloney that the money for the chase was supplied by Ah Wong, who thereafter withdrew the complaint and was not entitled to the return of his money.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Juniors entertained themselves at a Hardtimes party in the high school gym, Friday evening. No one was allowed to enter who was dressed up. The gym was decorated with the class colors, yellow and gold, and was scattered on the floor and the gym in general was made to resemble a barn.

The committee in charge dressed as farmers and showed the guests around the barn.

During the evening the school quartette composed of Charles Huggins, Geo. Doust, Wm. Harris, and Frank Zinn sang several songs.

After refreshments had been served the guests danced the Virginia Reel and then departed for home.

The basket ball team will go to Corvallis next Tuesday to play the Corvallis team. Salem defeated Corvallis on the home floor earlier in the season and believed they can even in Corvallis also.

Owing to other duties Floyd McIntyre tendered his resignation as leader of the improvement committee to the student council. The resignation was accepted and Kenneth Powers was elected to fill the vacancy created by Mr. McIntyre.

BUILDING A "SUBMARINE CHASER"

Building small boats of high power and speed for use in patrolling harbors and as possible "submarine chasers" is proceeding with haste at all plants equipped for such work. Such boats as the one pictured may prove formidable antagonists for submarines of size superior to their own, as a surface power boat may mount a gun or guns of caliber sufficient to sink submarines, and their speed exceeds that of the submarines.
