Saturday is Orange day everywhere and the national event is backed by the California Orange Growers' association. Anyhow, now is the time to eat oranges as the wholesale prices in Salem will be advanced next week to place them on a par with the Portland market.

The "divider" and the "nixie" man of the local postoffice are pretty important cogs in the machinery of the office, yet the public knows very little of their troubles. They are the men to whom all mis-directed letters are referred. For instance, if a letter is directed to the "Secretary of the Early Risers' association," when the "divider" comes to the letter, he passes it on to the "nixie" man. It is then his duty to find out from some member of the association who and where the secretary happens to live. All of which means that the secretary of any lodge in Salem will do a favor to the postoffice by sending in his address. There are more than 30 lodges or associations in the city and the secretaries change. Hence the troubles of the "nixie" man in trying to keep track of these secretaries.

PERSONALS

F. F. Davis was in Salem yesterday, from Albany.

C. S. Clark was a Salem visitor Thursday from Stayton.

A. A. Monck and wife, of Medford, were in the city Thursday.

F. D. Potter, of Mikato, registered yesterday at the Capital hotel.

Colonel W. F. Wright, the Turner auctioneer, is in the city on business.

L. A. Jones, of Gervais, was in the city yesterday registered at the Bligh.

Mrs. Frank L. Buck and daughter, Dorris, of Portland, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Webb.

A. E. Blomquist, of Seattle, who has been in the city several days on business matters, returned to his home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wicks and two children left yesterday for Havre, Montana, where they will make their home.

G. C. Eksman left yesterday morning over the Oregon Electric for Lusk, Saskatchewan, where he has farming interests and where he will make his home.

Like Mr. Dooley, whose fame was celebrated in song several years ago, the student body of the high school marched up a hill and then marched down again. In other words, after passing resolutions favoring the holding of a jitney dance in the high school gymnasium, the student body held another meeting and passed some more resolutions rescinding their former action. The committee appointed to confer with the school board and superintendent soon discovered they were barking up the wrong tree and that the best thing for them to do was to have the student body meet and pass resolutions to the effect that a jitney dance in the high school was not exactly the best way to raise funds for the general treasury. The matter will probably not be brought before the board of directors, and there will be no dancing in the public schools unless it be under the name of folk dances and gymnastic exercises.

The auction sale yesterday of George Lemons on the slough road was well attended notwithstanding the rainy weather. Everything was sold and brought good prices. Mr. Eyrie bought 25 shoats for $500 and one team of mares sold for $385, and everything else in proportion. The total sales amounted to something over $2,600. This was $600 more than Mr. Lemons expected to realize and for this reason he feels especially kindly towards the auctioneers, Woody & Greer. It was a record breaking sale as the time required was only four and one-half hours.

It is more than probable that about six money orders sent from Salem were in the mails of the Cunarder steamer, the Laconia, when it was sunk a few days ago by a German submarine. The steamer was carrying mail for Great Britain, Holland, Ireland, Greece and Italy as well as Sweden and Norway. The mails on the Laconia was unusually heavy as the St. Louis did not sail when the submarine warfare was announced to begin February 1. Hence all the foreign mail that had collected in New York between January 27 and February

TRIAL WILL LAST FOR MONTH SAY LAWYERS

Jury of Fourteen To Try I. W. W.'s for Raid on Everett Is Completed

Seattle, Wash., Mar. 9.—In a court room bedecked with miniature models of the Everett dock, where the steamer Verona attempted to land on what the I. W. W.'s term as the "bloody fifth" of November, 1916, the taking of testimony in the trial of Thomas Tracy, the first of 74 I. W. W.'s to face prosecution for the killing of Jefferson Beard, was to start today. The state's opening statement marks the beginning of the trial today.

The model of the dock and a number of large maps and charts were piled in the court room by the state for the purpose of visualizing the shooting for the jury.

The jury was completed yesterday afternoon after days of grueling examination in which more than 60 witnesses were called.

The trial is unique in that 14 jurors, instead of 12, sit in the jury box. Two alternate jurors were drawn according to a new law enacted by the state, especially for these cases, providing for two extra talesmen. These jurors are to remain throughout the trial but will take no part at arriving at a verdict unless a member of the original jury becomes too ill to serve.

Mrs. Jefferson Beard, wife of one of the citizen deputies killed at Everett, was slated as the state's first witness, but was unable to attend court, the strain of the approaching trial having resulted in her collapse.

Attorneys for both sides declare the trial will extend over a period of a month at least.

It was placed aboard the Laconia. It is probable that repayment will be made by the postal authorities as was done when money orders went down with another steamer torpedoed last year.

The bridge situation is about like this: The supreme court mandamus proceedings directed to the county courts of Polk and Marion counties, to show why they should not proceed at once to construct a bridge across the Willamette, will not come up for a hearing before Tuesday, March 27. In the meantime, work is being done on the Polk county side towards building a satisfactory ferry landing and plank has been taken from the west approach of the bridge to build a roadway to the landing. On this side of the river, excavating is going on and sometimes there will be a landing ferry built, large enough to accommodate two ferries. In the meantime, foot passengers are using the old bridge and the only ferry is working regularly from the foot of Trade street.

DIED

BRYAN—In the city, March 8, 1917, Mrs. Anna Bryan, at the age of 31 years.

She is survived by a daughter, who was adopted several years ago by Mrs. Stella E. Blackerby.

The body is at the undertaking parlors of Webb & Clough. As yet no funeral announcements have been made.
