D. A. R. Closes Session at Eugene Saturday

Eugene, Or., March 12.—The Daughters of the American Revolution in Oregon at the close of a two days' patriotic and business session Saturday afternoon adopted a resolution approving the course of President Wilson in placing the country in a state of armed neutrality for the preservation of American rights, liberty and property at sea.

The resolution, which was adopted by unanimous vote of the delegates, follows: "The Daughters of the American Revolution go on record as pledging support to our president and adopt the following resolutions:

"That the president was justified in asking from congress support in protecting American rights, liberty and property at sea; that the president is justified in taking protective steps without waiting action of congress, and that it is our duty and that of all loyal citizens to tender to the government all the services of which we are able."

Road Bond Issue Favored

$6,000,000 Road Bonding Issue to be Submitted to the People of the State at an Election to be Held in June; Indorse the Movement to Change the Name of Mount Rainier to Mount Tacoma or Mount Tacoma; urge the designation by the state of Washington's birthday as an official holiday; pledge support to the movement in charge of Dr. K. A. J. MacKenzie of Portland, for the organization of the Red Cross movement in Oregon.

The conference, after enthusiastic discussion of plans for a woman's building at the University of Oregon, pledged the state society to contribute $500 toward the building, to be raised by a committee representing the chapters in the state.

In view of the fact that the legislature will not meet for two years, the state society will circulate petitions asking Governor Withycombe to proclaim Washington's birthday, 1918, as a holiday.

Albany was selected by the conference as a meeting place for the next annual state conference.

Washington, Mar. 12.—Revival of reports that Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, is engaged to marry Frank R. M. Compton, of Chicago, met with the customary denial here today.

RAYMOND ROBINS TALKS AT WILLAMETTE

Points Out Great Changes To Be Made in Coming Thirty Years

That the next 30 years will be the most critical in the history of the civilized world was the basis of Raymond Robins' initial lecture to the student body of Willamette university this morning.

The college man of today faces the greatest problems, individual excellence must be best, and this will be the most constructive 30 years in all history. This is a period of transformation, all domestic life is going through a period of reconstruction. The old individual control is gone, and the new social control has not come. To illustrate this Mr. Robins contrasted his life on a southern plantation with his experiences among the Chicago tenements. In the former the parents had complete control over every phase of the youth's life, while in the city the parents have practically no control over their children's lives.

Politics is changing, it is coming to mean more, not party politics, but social control over life. The idea as stated by Jefferson that the "best government is the least government" used to be efficient but can not work today. Democrats vie with republicans to extend law over life. "From the cradle to the grave you are touched by law." Politics deal with every aspect of each life, so get interested in politics. One must see life with a greater sense of responsibility.

The great war in Europe has called English, German and French leaders from the frontiers of civilization, as a result the responsibility of the world's enterprises falls on the students of America. They are the only ones on whom it can fall, within the next 30 or even 100 years. The most tremendous generation is facing American students. Develop the "greatest capacity for social co-operation. The days of Napoleon and Caesar are gone never to return." "It takes privates to fight the battles of human freedom as well as generals."

Governor Withycombe In Stayton Address Ask People to Support Wilson

(Capital Journal Special Service) Stayton, March 12.—Greeted with outbursts of applause when he urged all to rally to the president, and with marked approval of other passages of his address on "Fragility" at the Methodist Episcopal church of this city Governor Withycombe addressed a capacity house and following the speech, upon invitation of the pastor, Mr. Lockhart, the people were given the privilege of meeting the governor.

The service was the special feature of the Community citizenship Sunday night addresses being given at this church and the chief executive was accorded a magnificent reception by the citizens of this community. The main auditorium of the church was filled and the crowd overflowed that and occupied every seat in the Epworth League room adjoining, thus giving the distinguished visitor a fine audience.

Following the scripture lesson and prayer by the pastor W. C. Gaunt, principal of the high school, introduced the governor.

Two automobiles came over from the Capital city, Dr. R. E. Lee Steiner bringing the governor, and Miss Lulu Walton, who sang delightfully and gave a recitation, and Dr. R. W. Walton in his machine bringing Mrs. Walton and her sister, Miss Grace Smith, Mrs. Walton on the organ accompanying Miss Smith, who rendered a solo.

Mrs. J. Walter Mayo and Stanley Starr of this city sang a duet. The American

Jack Barton and the Shubert Sisters was the sandwich on the bill, and they kept the audience in an uproar from start to finish and left them all saying "Get the idea," which was the closing words for all the jokes, the two sisters in the act were real pretty and graceful and furnished the dancing and singing. "Miss Levan & Co." is the trade name of the whirlwind comedy aerobatic act; that closed the show. They costume the act as soldiers and vivandieres and call it, "Regimental Frolics." A Bluebird picture, featuring Dorothy Phillips in Mrs. Wilson Woodrow's story, "The Piper's Price," depicting the divorce question approached from a new and interesting angle, and a L-Ko comedy in two reels full of good clean laughter, went to make up what we would call an A-No. 1 show.

Jamacia Ginger Is Latest Jag Course

On account of the fact that a number of drug stores in Salem have been selling Jamaica ginger to young men, it containing about 85 per cent alcohol, the police officers are contemplating asking the district attorney to investigate the matter with a view of refusing permits to import alcohol for manufacturing purposes.

The selling of alcohol in Jamaica ginger does not come under the prohibition law but under the pure food act. The alcohol is imported by the manufacturing druggist and the Jamaica ginger, and flavoring extracts that require alcohol, prepared. The police officers have come in contact with some of the effects of a "Jamaica ginger jag" and believe that the only way to stop it is to have the privilege of importation refused to those druggists who continue the sale to young men.

The officers point out that under the new law the state board of pharmacy has control also and that it has authority to restrict the sale of the ginger in the same manner that it can regulate the sale of poisons, cut down to 10 cents worth each day.

Hip Vaudeville Extra Good at Bligh Yesterday

An extraordinary good bill of Hippodrome vaudeville was seen at the Bligh theatre yesterday, full of novelty music, clever comedy and real laughter, the show drew much more applause than usual and was greeted by packed houses on all three shows, matinee and evening. "George Nagabara," a Japanese doing a novelty musical act was the first to appear, this clever original has certainly created a new number in vaudeville as the instruments used by both Chinese and Japanese are not built as a rule to play ringtones or for that matter any music except the weird discords called music by the orientals. Nagabara has succeeded, however, in playing any
