Lake County Examiner: Suit was filed in the county clerk's office Tuesday to restrain the collection of taxes for the rabbit bounty. The plaintiff in the case is L. A. Carraker, prominent stockman and rancher of the West Side and Mrs. Lucy A. Carraker, his wife. W. Lair Thompson is handling the case for the plaintiff. The defendants named in the suit are Lake county, E. H. Smith, county judge; J. P. Duke and E. D. Lutz, county commissioners; W. B. Snider, sheriff, and F. W. Payne, county clerk. Papers were served on the defendants Tuesday.

Fort Rock Times: An ice vein has been discovered in the well which Mr. Denning is drilling on the homestead belonging to Mabel E. Cleveenger. Mr. Denning has been engaged in the business for a great many years but says he has never before heard of anything of a like nature. The ice vein shows in several places at depths from 16 to 53 feet. The well is now at a depth of 81 feet.

An irrigation system is scheduled to be installed in the Crane section, the water to be diverted from Malheur lake, five miles southwest of Crane. Surveyors are being made for the ditches and a pumping plant on the shore of the lake, electric power to be developed on the Malheur river above Drewesey.

Marshfield Record: Frank Smith, superintendent of the Coos river and Coquille river hatcheries, who was in the city today, said that salmon are hatching faster now than for some time past and there are about 2,000, 000 fry in the troughs. He expects the two hatcheries will have over 7,000,000 about two and a half million on the Coquille river being included in the total.

Klamath Falls, Ore.: Need of increased acreage for the Grants Pass sugar factory is evidenced in a letter received here by Charles W. Eberline, asking if it will be possible to secure 200 or 300 acres for beet production this year in Klamath county for the factory. Rates from Klamath Falls to Grants Pass have been applied for from the Southern Pacific by Manager Nibley of the Grants Pass factory. The company pays $5.50 per ton delivered.

Albany Herald: Yesterday afternoon 15 wool growers of Linn county met in the First National bank building in Albany for the purpose of studying co-operative marketing. No organization was formed, but the matter of forming a pool of the wool of Linn, Lane, Marion, Benton and Josephine counties was discussed.

Salem Journal: It was decided at a meeting of the state board of control this morning to award the contract for the erection of the new $60,000 wing to the Oregon state receiving hospital to Edgar W. Lazarus & Co., of Portland, with provisions concerning a weekly visit of the architect for supervising purposes.

State House News

The Ochoa Irrigation project, consisting of about 20,000 acres near Prineville, for the development of which a bond for $1,000,000 has been favorably voted on, will probably be the first project to come under the new act permitting irrigation districts to bond. As the act goes into effect on May 20, the state engineer is of the opinion that the bonds will be effective on May 21.

The act as passed by the legislature provides for a bonding board which consists of the state engineer, the attorney general, and the state superintendent of banks, which board is to examine into the feasibility of the project, the value of the securities, the water supply. Should the report be acceptable, the secretary of state certifies the bonds which are then available as securities for savings banks, trust companies, etc.

The building committee appointed by Governor Withycombe to look after the building work at the Oregon State Normal school has appointed John B. Bennis of Portland, architect to prepare the plans for the addition authorized by the late legislature. The addition to the school is to cost $25,000. The committee appointed by Governor Withycombe consists of J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of public instruction; H. G. Starkweather of Albany, and C. L. Starr of Portland, formerly tax commission secretary; W. C. Bryant, of Moro; and Miss Cornelia Marvin of Salem, state librarian.

According to the report of Parole Officer Keller of the Oregon state penitentiary, the 245 paroled prisoners earned for the month of February an average sum of $52.97 each. This is declared to be the most favorable showing of any month since the parole law became effective. The report states that only 167 violations of parole have been made out of a possible 846.

Chief Clerk Drager, Calendar Clerk Erskine, Journal Clerk Moores, and Representative Charles Elgin, who have been revising and correcting the house journal will finish their work today. They have been engaged the past 22 days in getting the journal in shape for the printer. Speaker Stanfield will have to come to Salem for a short time to sign the necessary papers, and then the work of the session will be finally completed.

The Adhucine Manufacturing company with a capital of $100,000 filed articles of incorporation to deal in real estate. The office of the concern is in Portland and the incorporators are Fred W. Rodolf, George W. Roberts, and E. K. Brown.

Supplementary articles were filed by the Portland Automobile Trade Association, Inc., to add the additional enterprise of assembling and distributing used motor cars. The stock is also increased from $100 to $1000.

The Federal Machinery Company filed supplementary articles and changed its name to the Bolton Service Company.

The Old People's Home, with an estimated valuation of $300,000, filed supplementary articles for the purpose of establishing one or more homes for the aged in Multnomah county.

During the first 13 days of March the state insurance commissioner has received $43,852 from the insurance companies doing business in the state. The tax is on the premiums received by the companies and amounts to two per cent. The money was turned over this morning to the state treasurer. Between $75,000 and $80,000 are expected to be collected by the insurance commissioner in all.

Western Players Took All But One Tennis Match

Los Angeles, Cal., March 13.—The victory scored by the West when the University of Oregon defeated the University of Pennsylvania at football New Year's was followed by another overwhelming victory for the West when western players took all but one match in the four day East-West tennis tourney here. Today the stars of the East are vying their way homeward, preparing to tell their supporters that they were outclassed.

Maurice McLoughlin, formerly world's champion, staged another great comeback yesterday when he decisively beat Harold J. Throckmorton, national junior champion, 6-4, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. He had the edge on the easterner throughout.

In the closing singles event, Mary K. Browne, West, defeated Molla Bjurstedt, East, national champion, 7-5, 6-0. To make the defeat even more complete, Miss Browne and McLoughlin defeated Miss Bjurstedt in mixed doubles 6-2, 6-2.

To Wrestle Romanoff Los Angeles, Cal., March 13.—Joe Stecher today signed an agreement for a wrestling match with Constantine Romanoff, Russian grappler, at Shrine auditorium March 23.

Activities of Braun Arouse Suspicion

New York, Mar. 13.—Questioning of seamen regarding Gustav Braun, secretary of the Atlantic district, International Seamen's Union of America, led marine circles here to the belief today that the department of justice is taking an active interest in the strike for a 75 per cent wage bonus by seamen who were to have taken the Atlantic transport freight ship Manchuria from New York to London.

Unknown men appearing on the docks have thoroughly questioned the seamen regarding the activities of Braun and his connections with the union. Braun has threatened to call out other seamen when efforts are made to move other American-owned ships. Braun declares he is a naturalized American citizen from Sweden and that he has voted in this country for 14 years. He frequently receives mail addressed to Gustav Braun.

ORDERS ARE READY FOR GUNNERS ON SHIPS

Rules of Conduct for Navy Men On Merchant Ships Adopted

By Carl D. Groat (United Press-staff correspondent)

Washington, March 13.—Instructions to American navy gunners regarding their conduct in defending United States armed merchantmen from German submarines in Germany's barred death area, are completed and approved, and will be issued "whenever needed."

Secretary of the Navy Daniels drew the orders and then in two conferences with Secretary of State Lansing, made some changes believed to be minor. Daniels, who announced today completion of the instructions, declared they would be secret and said he had control of the situation so that the contents would not be made public from any source.

There will be little delay in forwarding the instructions, it is assumed. Daniels, however, declined to give the exact time on the ground that this would serve as a means of showing the sailing dates of the armed ships.

President Wilson, it is understood, saw the orders when they were completed and with secretary Lansing approved them.

Secretary Daniels made the specific request that newspapers refrain from any speculation or inference as to the contents of the order.

The United States government is not placing armed guards aboard the merchant men to protect contraband cargoes.

The official announcement to the world yesterday, confirming the armed guard plan, specifically omitted mention of protection of the cargo, saying only that the guards were placed aboard to protect lives and property.

This was taken to be a notification that the government wishes it clearly understood that it recognizes the right to destroy contraband, but insists that this be done in accordance with international law—not through unwarned attacks.

University Notes

"College Men and Community Leadership" was the gist of Raymond Robbins' address to men only in the university chapel last night. In part he said: "We are going to do things with folks in the future." The action of the community will condition a life even if lived on the most secluded ranch in eastern Oregon.

As an illustration of his theme, the purification of America's life he gave a vivid account of his experiences cleaning up the seventeenth ward in the west side of Chicago. He characterized a foreign community in a great industrial center as a point where stress is greatest in the breakdown of the social welfare.

The fight in this was chiefly directed against "Buck" Servern, the political boss of the ward. To fight him the reformers did not need to tell the people that he was a ruffian, they knew it, but honored him all the same. In this the Christian method was used. The little band, that initiated the reform, found some vital point in the life of the people, where good work would mean the most. "It won't do any good to talk about things, guess about things, you must know things."

With this idea in mind the party conducted a scientific investigation of the ward's food and sanitary conditions. While discovering that the milk and meat was rotten, and that the garbage was seldom hauled away, they found that the ward was honeycombed with graft. Realizing that actions speak louder than words, means were provided that the poor could get pure milk for their babies. After cleaning up one thing another was attacked, until Robbins and his co-workers entered politics to get control of the social life that modern society demands. After a hard bitter fight, that was greeted first only by defeats, the corrupt political machine of the community was broken.

Another lecture for men only has been arranged for tonight at 7:30 in the chapel. Robbins farewell address will be at a mass meeting in the Methodist church, Wednesday night.

Wheat's Snow Blanket Fails to Check Rise

Chicago, March 13.—The threat of a railroad strike, which influenced the grain markets at the opening, lost its bear features later and good gains were registered. Reports of heavy snows which means millions to wheat growers over the grain belt also failed to cause any slump in the market. May opened down 1-8 but later gained 2-8, going to $1.81 7-8. July opened down 1-4, subsequently gaining 3-4 to $1.55. September wheat opened down 1, but gained 2, later, going to $1.44.

Corn exhibited a fairly steady tone. On the opening a break became noticeable, but later it followed wheat to higher levels. May opened down 3-4, later gaining 1-8 to $1.08 3-8. July opened down 1-2, subsequently gaining 1-4 to $1.07 1-2.

Oats started lower, but made a full recovery. May oats opened down 1/4, but later gained 3-4, going to 58 1-8. July opened down 1/4, later going to 56 1-8.

Provisions displayed weakness during the trading, pork showing a loss. Lard and ribs remained steady.

SUICIDE AT MARSHFIELD

Marshfield, Ore., Mar. 13.—Thomas Madden, former St. Paul politician, is dead today with self-inflicted bullet wounds in his head and chest. He committed suicide rather than face trial on a charge of bootlegging. Madden first sent a bullet into his breast then shot himself in the temple.

Luther Burbank, His Life and Work. This is the title of a new book by Henry Smith Williams which has just been added to the shelves at the public library. The book is less biographical than descriptive of the work accomplished in the plant world. It is suggestive of gardeners. Three chapters are devoted to "the human plant," showing how the principles of biology apply to the improvement of the human race.

Books for Sunday School Workers. The public library is putting out a shelf of books on Sunday school work of various kinds. Other volumes are to be added in the near future. Superintendents and teachers will do well to look them over. Save the list.

Albany Herald: The announcement today of the reorganization of the Albany Fruit Juice company with solid financial backing gave the community substantial visions of an enormous manufacturing industry in the community within a few years. It has been known that the loganberry could be grown here in large quantities, and of a good quality, and that there was a great demand for the juice when properly prepared for the market and that the Albany company had the proper process, so the building of a large industry in the community depended only on getting plenty of capital back of the company, which has now been accomplished by men of Albany and vicinity.

Has Winter Left You Miserable?

ARE you dull, tired, achy all over, bothered with a bad back? Do you feel all out of sorts? Do you lack the energy you need for the day's work? Don't worry so much about it! This is a common condition in March. So many of us neglect our exercise in winter, eat too heavily, indulge our desires too much, and get slow, lazy and half-efficient. Then, with the organs working badly, comes a chill, a cold or a grip attack and it weakens the kidneys. To get started right again, help the kidneys. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that has done so much for Salem people.
