The meeting this evening of the Business Men's league at the Commercial club promises to be of more interest than the average monthly meeting. There is considerable dissatisfaction on the bridge proposition and also as to what is being done whereby teams can get across the river and several members of the league are billed to express some candid opinions. tf

Along with the announcement of so many things being scarce this spring comes the startling news that garden seeds are not so plentiful as in the years gone by. In fact, seed for those good old garden standbys such as cabbage, rutabaga and carrots are scarce, as the big American seed houses imported them from Holland and Denmark and these countries have now forbidden their export. Turnip seeds, beets, carrots and cauliflower seeds are included in those that are scarce this year, but there is some satisfaction in the fact that seed is plentiful for beans, peas, lettuce and radishes as these are home grown and the supply does not depend

Patrons of rural route Nos. 1 and 2 in Polk county, or at least a part of them, missed their mail yesterday and there was no ferry running and there was no means by which the carriers could get their teams across the river. Until there is some river service, the two carriers will be obliged to drive to Wheatland to cross and this will hardly give them time to serve their entire routes. This condition will hold good until next week as there seems to be little prospect of the ferry running for several days. tf

Captain White, adjutant general of the Oregon National Guard, who was in command of Troop A on the Mexican border, is in Salem this afternoon to confer with the citizens relating to methods to be pursued in securing enough recruits out of the 500 to 1,000 eligible young men of military age in Salem to fill up the ranks of Company M and so save that organization for the Capital City. Plans were discussed at the meeting held this afternoon with representative citizens present. STEAMSHIP COMPANY WINS DAMAGE SUIT

Sinking of Steamer Due To Fault of Others—Five Other Opinions

Two Marion county cases were handed down by the Oregon supreme court this morning. In the case of T. Rosenwald, as T. Rosenwald & Company, appellant, against the Oregon City Transportation company, respondent, appealed from Marion county, an action for damages to hops sunk in the Willamette river when the steamboat Oregon was sunk in a collision with the United States government dredge "Changoep." December 26, 1913, Judge Burnett affirmed the decision of the lower court. The opinion states that on December 26, 1913, the plaintiff delivered to the defendant as a common carrier a certain number of bales of hops for transportation to Portland but that during the voyage the ship sank and the hops were damaged. The defense set up that the plaintiff signed a contract which exempted the "dangers of navigation, fire, leakage, rats, etc." The defense also set up that the fault of the sinking was not due to the carelessness of the company but the government employees operating the dredge. They assert the hops came to their damage through the neglect and carelessness of the dredge engineers, who caused the position of the dredge to be changed. The decision of the lower court was sustained. The other Marion county case was that brought by Britt Aspinwall, respondent, against John S. Dunlavy, appellant, appeal from decision of the court under Judge Gallaway, controversy concerning a strip of land 18.42 chains long and 16 links wide at one end and 18 1-2 links at the other end. According to the statement of the case, the plaintiff and the defendant bought certain tracts of land from M. L. Jones and wife that a difficulty arose later concerning a line fence. The question at issue concerns "whether or not by mutual mistake the land in controversy was omitted from the deed to the respondent." Careful reading of the record, says the opinion of Justice Harris, convinces that there was no mistake and that Aspinwall received what he agreed to purchase. The decree of the lower court is reversed and the suit dismissed without costs to either party. Justice McBride, Benson, and Burnett concurred. The other decisions were as follows: John Wilson Estate Co., respondent, against Daumeier Investment company, et al., appellants, appeal from Multnomah county, Judge McGinn; action on a promissory note; affirmed by Justice Benson. Theodore Hagenberger, respondent, against town of Milwaukie, and Samuel Riley, fire marshal, appellants, appeal from Clackamas county, Judge Campbell; suit to reform deed from title; affirmed by Judge Burnett. William C. Grogan, respondent, against the Northwestern National Insurance company of Milwaukee, Wis., appellant, appeal Multnomah county, Judge Belt; suit to reform policy of fire insurance; affirmed by Justice McCannamant. Metropolitan Investment and Improvement Co., appellant, against M. E. Schenewiller and T. M. Hurlbut, respondents, appeal suit to enjoin sale of lot on execution; reversed by Justice McCannamant. tf

ONION IRON WORKS WILL CROSS THE BAY

Owing to Strike Work at Oakland To Be Sent to San Francisco

Oakland, Cal., March 13.—Government ship contracts aggregating more than $12,000,000, which were to have been filled at the East Bay plant of the Union Iron Works on Oakland estuary, within the next two years, have been transferred to the San Francisco plant of the same concern on account of the unsettled labor conditions, according to an announcement made by the corporation today. The transfer affects eight submarines to cost $250,000 each; six torpedo boats to cost $1,000,000 each and several smaller craft. The decision of the Union Iron Works directorate is a direct result of the importance of the navy contracts and turbulent conditions which made their possible fulfillment a matter of speculation. This decision follows the walkout of nearly 2500 skilled and unskilled laborers at the Union Iron Works shops last week and the strike of six hundred unskilled laborers at the Moore and Scott plant. Many of their employed laborers who have quit their employments have been compelled to do so through a scarcity of unskilled helpers who took part in the general walkout. In the meantime efforts are being made by city health and public safety Commissioner F. F. Jackson to bring about a settlement. He held a conference with representatives of the labor organizations and expects there will be a meeting this afternoon of representatives of the labor unions and the Union Iron Works and of the Moore and Scott yard. Commissioner Jackson said today that he believes the trouble will be settled, temporarily at least and that the men will go back to work pending final adjustment of the dispute. tf

WANT BOYS TRAINED BUT WITHOUT GUNS

Mothers Generally Opposed to Putting Muskets in Boys' Hands

How to keep a musket out of a high school boy's hands, and yet at the same time give him the physical advantages of military training is the problem that is facing not only the Salem school board, but many others in the state. All agree that the youth as well as the maid should receive patriotic physical training and that the young man should be given extensive training to the West Point ideal. All agree that the average youth is flat chested, stoop shouldered and his walking is lacking in the virtues attributed to a live man. And all directors here as well as elsewhere are agreed that something must be done to give that training. How to do it and keep out the military spirit is the question. Women object to the word "military." If the youth would drill with a broom stick, the question would be easily solved. But the average youth has some real blood in him and prefers a musket, while his mother is opposed to anything of the kind. The high school boys are willing and sent a committee of two last evening to attend the meeting of the school board to discuss, not military training, but patriotic physical exercise. Chairman A. A. Lee and Director Max O. Buren expressed themselves in favor of the physical patriotic training, camp instruction and other things the boys scouts know but to make a soldier of the youth met with no favor. The mental training a boy gets in the way of quick thinking, willingness to accept discipline and comradeship all agreed was among the advantages of the proposed training. As two of the directors were absent, E. T. Barnes and H. O. White, no definite action was taken on the proposal of the young men who met with the board to organize. At an early meeting the board will take up the problem how to give the youth the advantages of the West Point physical training and at the same time keep out the military idea. The last legislature passed a law regarding military training in the public schools but failed to set aside any funds for the purchase of equipment. tf

Rev. Harry Marshall Home From Bremerton

The Rev. Harry E. Marshall is home from a successful series of evangelistic meetings held at Bremerton telling of the patriotic feeling in that part of the world that would surprise the average citizen of this community. With the Bremerton navy yard on almost a war footing, with factories making thousands of shells for the navy and the thousands of naval cadets and enlisted men from the navy coming and going, Mr. Marshall says the people just feel more patriotic than those in the interior. He reports Seattle as having the greatest ship building boom ever known, with contracts already let for $50,000,000 worth of ships. Mr. Marshall has just closed his third engagement at Bremerton. All the churches in the city joined in his services resulting in 110 converts during the twelve days he was there. He will start in Seaside until Friday evening when a series of meetings will begin at Independence, holding forth there until April 1. From Independence Mr. Marshall will go to Bend, then to Grass Valley, Or., then to Portland and Marshall before the summer vacation. Before leaving Bremerton, arrangements were made for a return engagement next fall. tf

La Grande Woman Shot in Tong War

La Grande, Or., March 13.—One man was killed and a woman wounded in an outbreak of tong warfare here this afternoon. Billy Eng, president of the Chinese Young Men's Christian Association was chased down Adams avenue by a gunman flourishing a revolver, overtaken and murdered in front of the postoffice. Mrs. C. E. George was hit in the ankle by a stray bullet. The slayer escaped. A gang mob of white men is surrounding the Chinese quarter. The police are maintaining order with difficulty. Several shots were fired at Eng before he fell at the postoffice steps. Half a dozen people stood watching as the gunman pressed the muzzle of his revolver against Eng's head and fired four times. The spectators still stood helpless as the murderer started away, returned and calmly snapped the trigger several times at Eng to make sure all his cartridges were used. Then he ran across the street and disappeared in a Chinese shop. The Salem public an opportunity to hear one of America's really great men of the hour. tf

LOS ANGELES FIRE NOT UNDER CONTROL

Los Angeles, Cal., March 13.—The biggest downtown fire Los Angeles has had in years, which began in the basement of the Wilson building early today, was still burning early this afternoon, threatening the buildings on the west side of Broadway between Fourth and Fifth streets and spreading back to Hill street. The Broadway department store was for a time endangered. The Occidental hotel, Boos Brothers cafeteria, Pin Ton Sweet shop and F. W. Woolworth company, were all menaced. Eleven firemen have been injured or over one by smoke and twenty women were rescued from the Occidental hotel by firemen and police. Frank J. Krichner, a fireman, was saved from drowning in several feet of water in the basement by the bravery of Lieutenant William Hingewood, who descended into the inferno to get him out. The fire was started by Noma Tom, a Japanese employed by the Weaver Jackson company, hair dealers, who was cleaning some wigs and hair goods with gasoline. Friction exploded the gasoline. Business was almost at a standstill in the downtown district all morning as the crowds stormed around the roped off areas for a view of the blaze. The loss is placed at $125,000. tf

BILLINGSLEY STORY IS CORROBORATED

Seattle, Wash., Mar. 13.—Federal prosecutors speeded up their work of corroborating various points in the amazing testimony given by Logan Billingsley, king of bootleggers in America's largest dry city, when the booze-traitor conspiracy trial of Mayor Gill, Chief of Police Beckinham, ex-Sheriff Rhoad and City Detectives Doom, McLennan, Poolman and Peyser was resumed today. By a stipulation entered into late yesterday by the defense, the government will not have to spend two weeks proving that the liquor ships involved in the case were of an interstate character. Attorneys for the defense started their cross-examination of Arthur R. Hutton, a bookkeeper for Logan Billingsley this morning. Hutton had testified he heard Logan quarreling with his brother Fred over money, in the Planter's hotel here August 30, and that Logan said he was "going down to see the old man." That was the day Logan Billingsley claims he paid a $4,000 bribe to Mayor Gill. Steve Allen, night clerk at the Washington apartments where Logan Billingsley lives, and who followed Hutton on the stand, told of calling the mayor's residence on the telephone at 2 a. m., Christmas day for Billingsley, and of hearing a man's voice answer the call. He said he had given records of that call and another to the county jail, to Mrs. Logan Billingsley as part of her bill. The first marked discrepancy in Logan Billingsley's story of how he bribed Mayor Gill with $4,000 August 30, was developed by a government witness shortly before noon today. J. H. Davis, proprietor of the Hotel Washington Annex, confirmed Billingsley's statement that the latter got a large roll of currency from him about noon the latter part of August but said it was the 29th instead of the 30th as Logan had testified. Astorian: The spring cottage building season has opened at Gearhart with the promise of more than the usual activity in that line. During the past week a $3,000 house was started on the north ocean front for an Astoria party. W. D. Walker is the builder. Mrs. R. A. tf
