WAS SILVERTON MAN

Information has been received here that Phillip Millen, the young man killed by a train near La Grande last week, formerly lived at the home of Martin Hanson, near Silverton, and was well known to many citizens here. He left Silverton has summer to go east, fleation imperative at this time. where he expected to remain permanent-He has been in constant comn eation with members of G. G. Evens' family during his absence, and a letter was received by some one in that family after the young man lost his life. It seems that he had mailed a letter stating that he was en route to Silverton Evening Sun financial review today and requested no answer, as he would enid. likely be here before a letter could reach his address. Before the letter reached its destination Millen, it is believed, fell from a train on which he was stealing a ride, and his body was mangled almost beyond recognition. People who knew the young man are inclined to discredit the story that he was stealing a ride. He is said to have been a good worker and always had money to pay his way. Lester Sayre, of Silverton, who was engineer on the train that picked up the 'Dealers throughout the northwest are taking contracts for wool on the sheep's back, when the growers are willing to sell, at prices ranging from 33e to 35e for fine wools and 40e to 45e for medium and cross-bred wools. These prices, at the moment, would not appear out of line with asking clean prices, Boston. The fact remains however, that the entire market at the present is purely speculative. Grades and qualities seem to be a remote consideration, as it is an evident fact that both dealers and producers are contenting themselves with the thought that 'wool is wool,' and that the real merits of the trade will not be known until the wools are prepared and ready for market,"
