Court House News

The final account of Harvey Wells, state insurance commissioner, as receiver for the Oregon Merchants Mutual Fire Insurance association was approved yesterday by the circuit court. There are no more funds of the company in the hands of the receiver, according to the order.

Confirmation of the sale of real property sold pursuant to a writ of execution issued in the case of W. H. Hobson against Candace Brown and her husband was made yesterday by Judge Bingham.

One hundred and five acres of land near Silverton were sold recently to William A. Schreiber and wife by Ed Wood and Misamri Small for the consideration of $11,000. County Recorder Brooks filed the deed yesterday.

Suit to clear title to land was brought.

THE MAGIC FLUID

Few drops and corns or calluses loosen and lift off with fingers. No pain!

A noted Cincinnati chemist discovered a new ether compound and called it freezeone and it now can be had in tiny bottles as here shown for a few cents from any drug store.

You simply apply a few drops of freezeone upon a tender corn or painful callus and instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can just lift it off with the fingers.

No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying freezeone or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate skin.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also toughened calluses just shrivel up and lift off so easy. It's wonderful! Seems magical. It works like a charm. Genuine freezeone has a yellow label. Don't accept any except with the yellow label.

State House News

Amortization tables, letters of instruction, and application blanks for the working of the rural credit law were sent out yesterday by G. G. Brown, clerk of the state land board, to the attorneys in the various counties. The amortization tables have been arranged on a basis of $1000. It is urged that loans be made for the thirty year and thirty six year periods, as on them the payments are smaller than on the short time loans. The rules require that applications must be made for even hundred dollar amounts. The borrower is required to pay for recording the mortgage. Interest runs at five per cent and payments must be made on or before the date they are due.

After hearing the case of the proposed increased rate on cigs from 3 to 16 cents by the Southern Pacific and the Oregon Electric companies yesterday, the Public Service commission went to Portland today to hear the valuation case of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company. This is one of the important cases to come up before the commission as it involves a great deal of property.

According to information received yesterday by Insurance Commissioner Wells from John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the currency at Washington, D. C., national banks in towns with a population that does not exceed 5000 are permitted to represent insurance companies as agents. The requirements are set forth as follows:

The bank may receive for services so rendered such lawful fees or commissions as may be agreed upon between the bank and the insurance company for which it may act as agent. The bank is prohibited from assuming or guaranteeing the payment of any premium on insurance policies issued, through its agency, by its principal.

The bank is prohibited from guaranteeing the truth of any statement made by an assured in filing his application for insurance.

The agent bank must not assume

Seattle, Wash., Mar. 21.—The Seattle Metropolitans, after being beaten in the first game of the ice hockey world's series Saturday, eight to four by the Canadiens of Montreal, winners of the National Hockey association championship, came back last night and beat the Canucks six to one, and at their own brand—eastern style, six to one—at that.

A five thousand ton British cruiser, disguised as a collier, was the bait. Three days passed without any sign from the raiders then two appeared. Suddenly the cruiser dropped her mask and opened fire with a six inch battery. Two other cruisers, one the Amethyst, answering radio calls, joined the fight and both raiders were sunk.

Another raider, believed to be proceeding to the scene, escaped.

Salem Grange Had Interesting Meeting

Salem Grange held its regular meeting Saturday, March 17, the worthy master in the chair. A class of twelve was initiated into the order bringing the membership to over a hundred with three more to be voted on at the next meeting. Dinner was served at the noon hour to about forty. At the lecture hour Miss Lenta Patton gave a reading, Miss Hilda Witzel a solo, Brother Wagner of Turner creamery demonstrated the value of sweet cream to the farmer, saying it was worth about four cents more a pound than sour cream and telling how to keep it sweet. A. Staughton spoke on butter making. W. H. Stevens of North Howell and J. Barber of Portland were present.

The next meeting will be the third Saturday of April when it will be Brother Day, every man is expected to bring a well filled basket and prepare the dinner and fill all offices, the ladies being guests of honor. A committee consisting of Bros. Townsend, Sellwood, Howell, McDonald, Yates, Taylor, McGilchrist, Brown, Teeters, Carpenter was appointed to attend to the Whenever the Canadiens did take a shot at the goal, Holmes was on the job. His work was sensational.

It was in the third period that the fighting took place. Roy Rickey, substitute, taking Bobby Rowe's place and Coutre mixed Harry Mummery, the biggest man in hockey, doing penance on the fence straddled the wall and mixed in it. He was hoisted back to the bench and given 10 minutes of suspension and a $5 fine.

A little later Cully Wilson and LaLonde tangled. Referee George Irvine, working with Mickey Ian tried to separate the men and was hit below the belt by LaLonde with his stick. The game was called while Irvine was revived. Each player was benched for 10 minutes. LaLonde was nicked for $25 and will probably be barred from further play in the series.

Bernie Morris started the scoring for the locals, nine minutes and 44 seconds after the game started. He led off again in the second period and assisted to put over two more scores in the last chapter.

As the result of the showing made last night by Seattle, the eastern style of play has become very popular. It seems faster and gives more room for action than the seven men style.

By putting over two goals unaided and helping in scoring two more, Morris is the leading point maker of the series.

The next game will be played under western rules with seven men Friday night.

Bears Are Back
San Francisco, Mar. 21.—The Portland Beavers left for Marysville today where they will finish off their training, having arrived from Honolulu yesterday aboard the steamer Great Northern. Manager McCredie is enthusiastic over the islands as a training ground and no bad effects are anticipated from the sea trip.

It was originally intended to close the training season at Stockton but on arrival, Marysville looked better to the Beavers bosses and Stockton lost out.

Sunday School Basket Ball Tournament

The Sunday school basketball tournament to be held at the Y. M. C. A. commencing tonight is attracting considerable attention from the several Sunday schools of the city, particularly from those which have teams representing them. It is expected that large delegations from the various Sunday schools will attend in a body and be seen cheering for their teams. Already some of the schools are organized into rooting squads and there is no doubt but that there will be plenty of enthusiasm for the tournament.

The tournament is the first of its kind attempted in this city and with the impetus which the event has already been given it promises to be an annual event.

The several teams entered have been hard at work and every available moment not taken up by other activities on the Y. M. C. A. floor has been given over to the teams for practice. Every team has had its period of practice and while it is not expected to see extraordinary team work on the part of any of the teams there is no doubt but that sufficient basketball ability will be demonstrated to make the contests interesting.

The first game tonight will be between the Baptists and the Presbyterians and will be played at 7:30. The second game will be between the Methodists and the Christians and will be played at 8:15 sharp.

Coach B. L. Matthews, of the Willamette university, has been selected as referee for the several games.

The program for tomorrow night's game will be announced later.

Washington, Mar. 21.—The American government intends to undertake negotiation of a new commercial treaty with Russia after the new government of that country has been recognized.

The first steps toward recognition came today when Ambassador Bakhmeteff presented to the state department formal notice that the new regime has been created—amounting to a request for recognition.

The Panacea for All Evil

Mental Laziness.
But the greatest drawback today and age are suffering from is mental laziness.

A man who is physically lazy has a very poor standing in the estimation of his neighbors. The day will certainly come when the man who is mentally lazy will be looked down upon by the general public in the same manner the physically lazy man is today.

The average child dislikes to work and would grow up shiftless if permitted. But constant persuasion urging and compelling and in later years self-ride finally develop at least a semblance of ambition. The world as a whole is in its infancy mentally. It is very far yet from reaching the stage in its development when there will be a general desire for, or a sufficient influence to compel, an advanced education. When instead of one out of every thousand attaining a college education, or as reliable a substitute, there will be one thousand out of every thousand. There is not yet sufficient influence.

We have in the world a small class of what we call self-made men and women; men and women who are, or have been, achievers and hard pushers on the wheels of advancing civilization.

Nobody will dispute that Abraham Lincoln stands at the head of this class. But with Lincoln's fervent ambition to gain an education, who is there who will question the statement: "If Lincoln had had the facilities to acquire an advanced education he would have utilized them to the limit, and would have stood before the world even a brighter star than he is today." Instead of the small volume of his worthy sayings we possess we probably would have volumes of his writings that would compare well in depth and wealth of logic with those of our illustrious Emerson.

While only three out of a thousand of our college graduates succeed in getting their names down in the register of the world's great achievers only one in one hundred thousand of the rest of the adults in our country receive that honor. And they reach a high place in the realm of achievers in spite of the lack of educational advantages not on account of them.

We have in the United States today about eight hundred bright lights. If all our adult population were college graduates at the rate of three per thousand we would have about eighteen thousand unto whom would be opened the door of fame, or nearly twenty-three times as many as we have now.

The great drawback to the advanced education of today is its ornamental nature. Its lack of being a stimulus to original thinking. Instead of three out of every thousand college graduates creating anything original mentally or physically that places them among the peers of our country we should have scores of them and lessen the multitude who content themselves with learning and repeating the teachings of the few advanced thinkers and researchers who have existed in the past or are living today.

We will admit there are some to whom a college education seems to be a detriment. But who is able to pick them out and say which ones shall not go to college. It is a more pitiful sight to see a man or woman with the promise of being able to reach a high standing in life trying to get along without an education than it is to see a college tending to bring the world in general to desire an education to counteract the influences destructive to such desire, by alone overcoming the mental laziness that is so predominant. The result is the brain of the average man is as flabby and incapable of a strong continuous exertion as the muscles of a physically lazy man who never did an honest day's work in his life. Almost without exception is this lazy-mindedness apparent in children and there is so little influence brought to bear against it that added age makes but little difference.

When a child in the course of its studies runs across a puzzling proposition instead of trying to solve the difficulty for itself it immediately seeks for assistance. Show me the boy or girl who always says: "No! No! I want to work it out by myself," and then keeps at it till it succeeds, then you will have shown me the making of a future man or woman who will be an achiever, a leader in the world.

If a man tells you he never puts in a garden because he doesn't like gardening you can not help but feel a good deal of contempt for him. Yet the average man will look you square in the eyes and tell you he doesn't read certain kinds of literature because it is too dry and hard to understand and makes him sleepy. He admits he would gain a good deal of benefit by reading it, but still expects you to accept his excuse as a reasonable one. His excuse is just as absurd as that of the man who cut cordwood for one day. The next morning he said he would not cut any more cordwood for it made his muscles sore.

Even among college graduates there is a very small per cent who sit and read with pleasure heavy philosophical or technical works. Most anybody can sit and read for hours some light novel. But how many are there who can sit and read understandingly the heavy works of Emerson and his like for an hour without their brains becoming so weary and confused they no longer know what they are reading about.

You must first become a capable reader of heavy literature before you can even dream of giving new logical thoughts and ideas to the world. Anybody who is unwilling to weary their brain time and time again can never hope to become a capable reader of heavy literature. It requires mental ambition of the highest order.

Self Made.
We have in the world a small class of what we call self-made men and women; men and women who are, or have been, achievers and hard pushers on the wheels of advancing civilization.

Nobody will dispute that Abraham Lincoln stands at the head of this class. Evil Tendencies.
With few exceptions when a man reaches the height in his mental development that he becomes an independent thinker he is no longer over-mastered with the desire to commit degradation on the body of his fellow man just for love of the act. Most of the evil-such men do is for the purpose of material gain.

The intellectual class make a practice of hiring some one of low mental ability to do their dirty work. One of the illiterate class who used to fill the amphitheatres with their countless thousands to watch the gladiators spill one another's blood for very love of the sight. And the conquering gladiator was more often given the signal to finish his victim than to spare him.

These days have long since passed. The duel, a trailer of the old gladiator days, was a matter of very frequent occurrence fifty years ago, but now is prohibited on over half the earth. Today a man who makes a practice of using fustian methods to avenge his hurt feelings has great difficulty in retaining the respect of his neighbors. All this refinement is due to universal education and enlightenment working among the masses.

The millionaire, who is hiring laborers by the thousands and letting them live under conditions unfit for dumb brutes, which leads to unnecessary suffering and premature death for untold numbers of them, is usually kind and considerate in his own home, and among his own class. He feels if he pays his employees higher wages they will only debauch themselves that much more; and such we must admit is only too frequently the case. He gains no satisfaction in watching his employee's degraded condition. Where he falls down is in failing to realize he is his brother's keeper, and it is his duty to compel him to live under more sanitary and thrifty conditions for the sake of the rising generation as well as for the financial welfare of his employer.
