"Hip" Vaudeville Is a Winner at Bligh

The audience which packed the Bligh theater yesterday afternoon and evening went away with the wholesome and satisfied feeling that they had been not only royally entertained but hilariously amused by the jolly bunch of players selected by Mr. Bligh for the Sunday performance. There was not a number on the program but what elicited the hearty approval of all those who "Eastered" at the Bligh, while the Fox feature film, selected especially for Easter Sunday, answered for itself as being a rare photoplay and one replete with interest and gaiety.

To round out his program nicely with just enough music, Mr. Bligh selected Nina & Schuster, two "regular fellows" in the vaudevillian world of musicians. There was no one particular feature of the best act, but at the same time the players coaxed some astonishingly beautiful music out of a violin and a piano accordion and included all the latest and most popular selections during their twelve minute act.

A novelty posing act by the Garrison Sisters elicited most liberal admiration and applause from the audience. These young ladies, both splendidly formed, presented true art in poses representative of modern and ancient statuary and famous pictures recognized in both this country and abroad. Unpopular, though they may be just at the present, white doves, representing what is now not "peace" did a fair share in making the act a pleasing success. The pretty bits performed their respective parts as promptly and perfectly as did their admirable mistresses.

20,000 Leagues Under Sea Big Feature

It is seldom if ever that the ordinary person has an opportunity of witnessing scenes from high heaven to the very bottom of the sea, but such has been made a possibility by the wonderful submarine photo drama, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," which is now being exhibited at the Ye Liberty theater here under the supervision of L. L. Cohen, a prominent film representative from Portland.

There have been undersea films exhibited before, but the picture play at the Ye Liberty this week is the first and only time a submarine photo play has ever been staged on the bottom of the ocean and up in the clouds. Jules Verne's wonderful book, written over fifty years ago but, astonishing to state, predicting almost to an unquestionable certainty just what is really happening today on the wide seas with the submarine as the chief actor, is reproduced in the living drama. From the time Captain Nemo, the mighty wizard of the deep, began his famous 20,000 league search for a sire-ency until he at last tasted the much sought revenge he depicted in the reels of film at the Liberty, interesting in the plot is the story of the "Mysterious Island."

As what the flickers tell in a few feet of film take thousands of written words to convey intelligently, it is more than useless to attempt a description of this great success in limited space. Something of the enormity of the undertaking in producing the pictures however may be gleaned from the fact that the dangerous denizens of the southern sea were braved by men who staged a funeral on the ocean bed, tramped about in the sea gardens and all but tickled the snouts of the "Sea Tiger," or man-eating sharks. The beautiful living growths on the sea bed are displayed as they actually are, age old hulks of vessels and a thousand and one other scenes are depicted which have never before been brought to the light of day.

Taking it all in all, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," is a most powerful picture. It is highly educational and at the same time it contains just sufficient dramatic action to render it very exciting and interesting. This picture will be shown at Ye Liberty for the last time next Tuesday night.

Marriage License Office Swamped by Chicago Slackers

Chicago, April 9.—Caustic denunciation as "slacker-wards" had no effect upon hundreds of license seekers who stormed the doors of the marriage license bureau here today. In two hours 302 applications had been filed. The doors were then closed to prevent rioting. County officials estimated that fully one thousand marriage licenses would be issued by night. Nearly 500 permits to marry were issued in three hours Saturday.

Scores of curiosity seekers watched the mad rush today. Tens of boys in khaki with girls on their arms had no visible effect on the stampede. "Busted!" was the deft one young woman, accompanied by a soldier boy, hurled at the struggling mass. "If they were as true to their flag as they will be to their wives, then God pity the United States."

WOULD SEND TROOPS BY WAY OF SIBERIA

Army Officer Says This Would Be Ideal Way of Attacking Germany

St. Paul, Minn., April 9.—The United States should send one million troops to Russia instead of France, if it wishes to do the most good to the allies, declared Major George Hoole, U. S. A., in command at Fort Snelling today. "The addition of this force would improve the morale of the Russian troops and instill a real fighting spirit in them," Major Hoole said. "Transportation of troops to Russia would not be difficult, as there are no submarines operating in the Pacific ocean and the trans-Siberian railroad recently has been double tracked. Germany is prepared to carry on a very long defensive warfare on the western end and the addition of American troops to French or British forces would mean little. "On the eastern front, which is 1,200 miles long, the Germans have never been called upon to meet an attack from an efficient army. Russians are in need of machinery and efficient officers and men who are able to handle the equipment of modern warfare. "The addition of one million American troops to the Russian forces would result in one of the biggest offensives that the world has ever seen."

Abandoned by Crew Wreck Towed Into Port

Seattle, Wash., April 9.—The fate of the crew of at least ten, which was missing when the brigantine Harriet G. was picked up by the halibut schooner Sumner and being towed down the straits today was an unsolved mystery late this afternoon. A report from the Neah Bay coast guard station at 2 o'clock this afternoon said that no persons were on board the Harriet G. when she was picked up by the fishermen. That the crew took to the lifeboats when the Harriet G.'s masts went overboard, or perhaps before, was the belief at the merchants' exchange here today. The Harriet G. was very old and shipping men believe that the attempt to take her last cargo of lumber to Honolulu was too much for her. No word has been received of the missing crew of which Captain C. Anderson was master.
