DRAMATIC TALENT OF PRISON INVITES YOU

Will Give Concert and Vaudeville to Advertise Need of New Prison

The musical and dramatic talent behind the bars at the penitentiary has often demonstrated its ability to entertain the public in a very acceptable way, and when it is inspired by a particularly interesting cause its efforts are more enthusiastic and successful than ever. There will be a band concert and vaudeville show Monday evening, in a cause that has engaged the best efforts of all the prisoners and they have made extra preparations to attract and entertain a large crowd.

The campaign for the new penitentiary buildings has the hearty sympathy and assistance of practically all of the inmates and this entertainment is given to raise funds for the circulation of literature and the sending out of verbal and written facts in support of the proposition. A man who was recently released from the prison is devoting his time and paying his own expenses as far as he is able, going around setting forth the conditions which demand that new buildings should be provided, but his means are very limited and there being no funds to support such a campaign, the men inside the walls, who know and feel the bad conditions, took up a subscription among themselves, raising $50.00, which they sent to him, and then they organized this concert and vaudeville show to raise another fund for the same purpose.

The band is in fine shape and supplied with good instruments and good modern music, and the concert will be supplemented by lively skits along to anything of the kind on the stage, so that all who attend will be well repaid for the small expenditure of 25c, while at the same time aiding a noble cause. "The boys" hope the people of Salem will exhibit their usual liberality and encouragement.

Remember, Monday evening; curtain rising at 7:30 o'clock, with fun and pleasure until the final ring-off.

TERRIFIC BRITISH

waves of the Franco-British offensive. Necessity of interposing some check to the steady advance of the allied forces on the west front is being desperately felt by the military chiefs, who realize the growing discontent in Germany, manifest in various strikes, in socialist peace propaganda, in dissatisfied over shrinking rations, in agitation for greater participation in governmental affairs by the people.

Information received here from Germany via Holland indicated this condition in the central empire today.

German Army Largest

Dispatches now indicate that Germany is opposing the Franco-British advance with forces superior to the attacking armies. And still these divisions do no more than slow up the advance. Today it appeared that the whole strength of the French and British attacking armies was being made ready for another hot to be hurled at the German line next week in a resumption of the concerted offensive.

After a lull on the French front early in the week, made necessary by the bringing up to newly won positions of the French artillery and consolidation of gains won in the first week of Nivelle's general attack plan, the army under the tri-color was apparently in motion again.

To the north, Haig's guns roared all along the line while his Tommies pushed ahead yard after yard. The greatest pressure was apparently being exerted along the Arras-Domni roadway.

Take Prisoners and Guns

Paris, April 28.—Since April 16 General Nivelle's advancing French troops have taken 20,780 prisoners and 175 guns—including many of the heaviest calibers, 412 machine guns and 119 trench mortars, today's official statement declared.

Of today's fighting the war office reported French raids in several sections and numerous German counter-attacks all along the fighting front.

"We raided trenches in the region of Hill 204," the statement said. "West on the Meuse during the night we brought back prisoners."

"German troops attacked east of Aulnois, but were repulsed."

"Artillery was very active between St. Quentin and the Oise and in the Champagne."

Today was the second day of the German effort to relieve pressure of the French troops encircling St. Quentin by tremendous artillery fire and vain attacks.

Margaret Mason Writes of Gotham Fads and Fashions

(By Margaret Mason.)

You can't escape a cape, my dear. This summer you must wear the pelt of some four footed beast. When you do take the air, And hide your shapely shoulders, 'neath some creature's hide and hair.

New York, April 28.—You have to go for to see the Cape of Good Hope but you don't have to go far to see the cape of god style, although it is fur all right. It maybe gopher too at that but the chances are its koonsky or ermine or mink or sable or mole or Hudson seal. All the really smart fur capes are made up of one or a combination of two of these six soft silky skins selected suitably sartorially for summertime showing.

As one little sable pelt is a big hit you may be sure a full ripply cape of sable is some knockout. Such a one falling to the waist line in front and running to a deep point below the waist in back has a broad rolling collar of unspotted ermine fastening in a low V shaped front.

Another one of mink with a shawl collar of ermine has ruffled front and a full deep ringle back for all the world like an old-fashioned dolman. Little short shoulder capes of Hudson or mole are quaint and charming and a graceful wrap is one of chiffon three banded, once at neck, midway and again around the edge with kolinsky.

Oh where are the white foxes of yesterday? Last summer the foxiest of summer furs was white fox. This summer some are fox, but most are not. To be sure foxes, red, white or silver are not to be shrugged off too disdainfully by summer shoulders but they are seldom seen in comparison with their last seasons omnipresence, and the fur cape really is the thing.

Long felt broad stoles of the seal, mole and ermine are the greatest rivals of the cape for favor with the summer girl and the cape may yet run the day that a stole stole its first place in Miss Summer's wardrobe and affections. The ermine stoles are almost always finished on the ends with a row of the tiny tails and indeed on both the capes and stoles of the other furs the tail trimming is very often used. Indeed these oft repeated tails are an older story but always good.

Of all the summer furs ermine best lends itself from an artistic and adaptable standpoint to summer toilettes. It sets off a frock of silk Georgette crepe or a lingerie gown with equal perfection.

and has a more light and fluffy effect and a less beautiful appearance than the other furs. In an ermine cape you may be at white heat when it is 200 in the shade but you'll never look it.

As a dress trimming as well as a wrap ermine is a most effective summertime fur and a white Georgette frock banded in it is the white of perfection. A white organdie gown with a band on of ermine must needs be greeted also with joy and abandon as the summit of summer sartorial art.

As a compromise with going to fur this summer maribou is again putting forth its fine feathers in wide bands around the neck, sleeves and full skirts of charmeuse coats in the same manner that the wide bands of fur were used on the fur coats this last winter. After all perhaps it were safer to stick to maribou if we want to be sure what we are wearing. When it is marked down we know it is down but no matter what mark is on fur we feel we are the mark if we buy it. When you are simply dying to buy a mink collarlette the furrist is probably simply dyeing a pussy cat to sell it to you. Indeed the fur trade is a double skin of both you and some other poor animal. Perhaps it's just as well you can't split hairs too finely in the fur buying for it is so much more comfortable not to know that the ermine hair you think you are wearing is just plain hare.

Fox Film Makers Hold Up a Train for Arts Sake

Pursue Train 50 Miles and Then Persuade Conductor to Back One Mile Into Tunnel.

It is only because railroad trains are not equipped with wireless that several executive members of William Fox's June Caprice company were not jailed in Flintstone, Ga., as would-be train robbers.

The scenario of "A Child of the World," which was being filmed in that state, required a scene of a train coming out of a tunnel. Tunnels around Flintstone are many, but trains rather scarce.

Consequently when Director Adolff, who was cruising around in his auto when a train for a train, spotted one he gave chase.

At Last Train Yields. After a pursuit of some 50 miles the film men's machine at last ran up along the train. Director Adolff outlined his proposition to the conductor through a megaphone.

"There's $25 for you if you back your train into the next tunnel as we can photograph you coming out," shouted the director.

While the astonished passengers peered their heads out of the windows the train backed up almost a mile into the tunnel. There was more than one frightened passenger on that train when the film makers scrambled out of their auto and rushed to the train. Their fears were only allayed when the train started forward again and they saw their bandits calmly standing beside the track grinding their camera.

This remarkable film will be at Ye Liberty theatre Sunday and Monday.

CONFERENCE HAS

United States. "It would mean that Germany would be fed, supplied and equipped for endless war and that the allied blockade to starve Germany out would have gone for naught."

Of Tremendous Import. "It would mean that 11 army corps, about a million and a half fighting men would be swung into the balance against the British and French fronts."

"You can readily see how this would menace the remaining European allies. Then there could be only one answer for the United States. That answer would be millions and millions and millions of men."

"Upon America would depend the success or failure of the war on Prussianism."

"You would have to feed, equip, munition and otherwise maintain your gigantic army in Europe."

"Nor would that detract one jot or tittle from your present problem of feeding and equipping Europe under its present fighting conditions."

While a $100,000,000 loan to Italy and a $200,000,000 loan to France was being arranged for between President Wilson, Secretary McAdoo and the French and Italian representatives and probably will be consummated within a few days, and while such international questions as the prevention of the threatened world famine and the details of America's active part in the war deeply engaged the war conferees in the war capital of the world today, the Russian situation overshadowed them all.

CONSCRIPTION BILL

to begin the great work of mobilization of the country's military manpower.

Features of Dent Bill. The bill before the house, known as the Dent bill and favored by a majority of the military committee provides for raising of the national army and national guard to war strength, first by volunteers as at present and then, if necessary, by draft and authorizes the president to call for a separate volunteer army of five hundred thousand.

The army census preparatory for a selective draft system is to be begun at once.

If, when the census is completed, the 500,000 men have not been obtained by volunteers, then the president may institute the draft. The committee minority, headed by Representative Kahn, favors the selective draft recommended by the war department and the president in the original general staff.

Harry Bowers President Willamette Student Body

According to the results of the annual student body election of Willamette University Harry Bowers is the choice for the presidency during the 1917-18 year. His opponent was Warren Booth. The vote was 121 to 77.

Mr. Bowers has always been a consistent, hard worker in student body activities. At present he is manager of the 1918 Wallulah, and a member of both the varsity quartet and the men's glee club.

In the administration of the student body's affairs he will be assisted by Lola Cooley, vice-president; Helen Goltra, secretary; and Harold Nichols, treasurer.

Miss Cooley was the only nominee for the vice-presidency and received a total of 197 votes. Miss Cooley is the present president of the junior class. The vote cast for Helen Goltra was 100, as opposed to her opponents, Evelyn Reigelman, 36. Mr. Nichols received 124 votes for treasurer, and Elaine Reed, 73.

The Willamette Collegian, the official organ of the associated student body, will be edited by Donald Matthews and managed by Lyle Bartholomew.

This is Mr. Matthews second year on the Collegian's editorial staff. He has served both as feature editor and city editor. His ability as a journalist is marked. A total of 198 votes were cast for him. He had no opponent.

Lyle Bartholomew is one of the newest members of the student body having entered the second semester. However he has efficiently demonstrated his business ability, and the students may be assured that he will make the Collegian a paying proposition. He has been of great assistance in getting ads this semester. Earl Cotton, the present manager, was also a nominee but a late announcement that he did not wish the position gave Mr. Bartholomew a strong lead. The vote was 120 to 73.

The fact that only 20 votes were cast is explained by the large number of men being away in the army. Several students were out of town, and a majority of the law students did not vote. The tellers were: Grover Gates, Sam R. King, Violet Maclean, Fannie McKennon, Rosamond Gilbert and Gertrude Cunningham.

Representative Kahn proposed an amendment to the bill as it now stands in the house eliminating the authority for volunteers and providing for immediate institution of the draft system.

The senate bill is virtually the same as submitted by the army war college. The house bill, as amended, the amendment being acceptable to the war department, makes men from 21 to 40 eligible to service. The senate bill ages are from 19 to 25.

Acting on Amendments. Early this afternoon under unanimous consent the senate began consideration of amendments.

Five minutes was allowed each senator for discussion.

Several amendments embodied provisions for trial of the volunteer system, changing the whole intent of the bill. Upon these changes the real fight will be centered.

LaFollette's amendment would provide for a referendum vote of the nation on conscription.

In the house the Moore amendment was defeated 96 to 6. This would have stricken out the word "selective," making the bill a straight draft.

The house also defeated an amendment by Representative Austin, Tennessee, providing that no troops be sent to Europe, but those who volunteered for foreign service.

The house defeated amendment by Representative Sloan, of Nebraska, to raise the maximum eligible age limit from 40 to 60 by a vote of 117 to 63.

An amendment by Representative Norton, of North Dakota, to raise the maximum limit to 50 years was also defeated 118 to 52.

The house defeated by a vote of 207 to 6 an amendment by Representative Miller, Minnesota, which would have given the age limit for military service from 19 to 29 years, instead of from 21 to 40, as the army bill specifies.
