Missionary Work of Evangelical Association

Monmouth, Or., May 18.—Reports from seven of the largest cities of Oregon and Washington that the missionary work at home during the past year had been successful despite difficulties. A report that money had been raised to cover 1917 missionary work, the granting of diplomas to teachers completing the Bible training course, and a recommendation that teachers be educated for Bible teaching featured the third day's session of the 34th annual Oregon conference of the Evangelical association in this city.

Miss Della Brent and Cleore Childs, of Monmouth, were given diplomas certifying their ability to teach from the Bible properly.

The missionary fields of Seattle, Portland, Tacoma, Bellingham, Milwaukie, Albany and Oregon City were described and reports showed that missionary work during 1916 in these cities was fruitful.

THE MARKETS

The following prices for fruits and vegetables are those asked by the wholesaler of the retailer, and not what is paid to the producer. All other prices are those paid the producer. Corrections are made daily.

The story on wheat is as follows: The market has been dropping ten cents a day and no one is buying to any extent either in Salem or Portland. So there is practically no established market and will be none until the market steadies. When the government officials frowned at the speculators many of them took to the woods and the market since then has been readjusting itself.

Veal is weak. In fact, there is hardly an established price for veal as it changes about so often every week.

The egg situation figures around 30 cents a dozen. Some pay and some don't. There is no established price on sugar and flour, as there is no combination among the retailers. The prices quoted are those that should prevail if the dealers bought on today's wholesale market.
