SOME LAWS THAT GO INTO EFFECT TODAY

Many Local Measures, But These Are the More Important of the New Grist

Of the 431 laws passed by the 1917 legislature and now known as the 1917 session laws, 352 go into effect today. Between 75 and 80 carried the emergency clause which put them into effect on signatures of the governor, while two are held in abeyance by the referendum petitions until the election of November, 1918, when they will be voted on by the people. These bills are the Rogue river fishing measure and the Willamette river fishing bill. Some of the bills go into effect today while others have certain specified time for taking effect.

Some of the important measures are as follows:

An act to require any new public utility to secure a certificate of public necessity from the public service commission before it can commence work in competition with an already established utility, with the exception of municipal plants.

All navigable streams of the state are declared common carriers and placed under the jurisdiction of the public service commission, and no one can engage in the business of booming logs without a license.

The public service commission is also given added jurisdiction over the establishment of warning signs and signals at grade crossings and also of the elimination of grade crossings.

County Tubercular Sanatoriums.

General laws supplementary to the road code that went into effect some time ago are effective today:

A law extending the minimum school term from six to eight months, the recall of school directors, and the reducing of the term of school directors from five to three years in districts of the first class.

An act making a "small claims court" an adjunct of the justice of the peace's office, the claims not to exceed $20.

An act creating the county "tubercular sanatoriums" where tubercular patients of the county are to be kept, and designating the state tuberculosis sanatorium as a place where patients learn the principles of self-care.

An act regulating the handling of dairy products, requiring pasteurization of butter, butter inspections, etc.

A law restricting the sale of revolvers and requiring registration of purchasers.

New Mothers' Pension Law.

Amendment of the mother's pension law, limiting the distribution of money to bona fide cases.

A law making changes in the irrigation code, and allowing the formation of irrigation districts.

A law creating the state lime board to dispose of lime to farmers at cost.

A law placing grain inspection under the supervision of the public service commission.

An act granting counties the right to appoint an apiary inspector.

It is now a misdemeanor to overdraw an account at the bank, according to an act that goes into effect today.

Provisions in the prison laws reducing the number of members of the parole board, amending the indeterminate sentence, and making the minimum sentence optional with the court.

The Lazy Husband Law.

A change has been made in the inheritance tax, increasing it considerably.

The state industrial accident commission has been given greater leeway in expenditure of its funds.

Administration of department of weights and measures given greater force by new regulations.

An act creating a new insurance code.

An act making it a felony for a husband not to support his wife.

Protection given to illegitimate children by making the father support them until they are 16 years old.

Changes made in the military code of the state.

Changes made in the administrative part of the election laws.

Enlargement of the motor vehicle laws.

Besides many other minor laws relating to local portions of the state.

Oregon City, 119; Albany 119.
La Grande, 121; Astoria, 117.
Salem remaining idle.

Next Sunday's Schedule

Salem versus Pendleton.
Oregon City versus Astoria.
La Grande versus Albany.
Woodburn remaining idle.

Woodburn managed to keep in the lead in the race for The Oregonian trophies and the championship of the Willamette-Columbia Trappshooters' association as a result of yesterday's competition, but the La Grande Gun club slipped to second place in the team standings.

Woodburn defeated Pendleton 120 to 113, and Astoria lost to La Grande, 117 to 121, while the only other match of the day resulted in a 119 to 119 tie between the Canemah Gun club of Oregon City and the Albany Gun club. This was the second time that the Oregon City delegation has run into a tie. Yesterday the Papermillers shot off an existing tie with La Grande, and the Eastern Oregon Nimrods won by two birds, 121 to 119.

All the scores made yesterday were comparatively high, not one club going below the 113 out of 125 mark. The high team of the competition was the La Grande contingent with 121, one more bluerock than the mark turned in by the league leaders.

Among the individuals eight managed to break 25 out of the 25 thrown to each. H. J. Stillman of Pendleton; Oscar Wirkkala of Astoria; P. B. Dodele of Albany; Charles Gates of Oregon City; Lou Rayburn and J. Beaver of La Grande, and Charley Leith and Peter Whitney of Woodburn, were the lucky nimrods to scatter 25 our of 25 targets.

The Capital City Gun club of Salem remained idle yesterday, and next Sunday Woodburn is without a match. The day Woodburn is without a match. The bany versus La Grande, Oregon City versus Astoria and Pendleton versus Salem. The Canemah Gun club of Oregon City and the Albany Gun club will shoot off their existing tie next Sunday as well as their schedule competitions.

FOOD SITUATION IN GERMANY IS NOT BAD

Traveler Says Conditions Not Nearly So Bad As Reported —Crop Outlook Good

Washington, May 21.—That an exaggerated impression regarding the scarcity of food in Germany was inspired by the Tavy and Agrarian party in Germany, was stated in authentic dispatches reaching here today.

The dispatches were from "a reliable observer" who traveled through the country late in April. He declared that the food situation is much better than generally supposed.

The cablegrams state that pessimistic reports were spread to impress the German people of the necessity of submarine warfare and to cover up the fraudulent issuance of $5,000,000 worth of bread cards.

The observer was unable to find any serious shortage of food except in the larger cities. Even in the big cities conditions are mending, owing to improvemen in distribution and acquisition of fresh sources of supply.

The information confirms statements by Herbert Hoover, new food administrator. As a result of improved food transportation facilities the potato ration has been increased and the meat and fat ration practically doubled. One million children have been transported from the cities to the country districts, where they can get better food.

From conversations with all classes, the observer states a general impression is gained that the government and the people are on the whole optimistic regarding food conditions. The prospects for the new harvest appear to be greatly improved.

Training Camp Students Begin Second Week's Work

San Francisco, May 21.—While reserve officers' training camp students began their second week's work today, the enlisted men's training school, which opened April 15, completed its first period. The coast artillerymen of this school were ordered to Fort Winfield Scott, non-commissioned officers in the staff departments were ordered back to Station and the infantrymen, cavalry and field artillery were held at the Presidio for the next period.

Recruiting of two regiments for the regular army was started today with the two battalions of the twelfth infantry, which arrived yesterday from Nogales, as the nucleus.

COURT HOUSE NEWS

County Clerk Boyer has four stenographers busy getting the voters lists and poll books ready for the coming special election on June 4. Three of these are extra to the office force. According to the law, which he is following, if a person had registered and did not vote at the last election, which was November 7, 1916, and has not responded to the notice sent out by the county clerk after that election, he or she will have to swear in their vote on election day. And the only person who can swear in the vote on election day will be one of the two judges in the precinct in which the elector resides.

Marriage licenses issued Saturday by the county clerk are as follows: Mark M. Aspinwall, a farmer of Brooks, and Gladys Mary Van Cleave of Hazel Greene; Carl H. Mason, a bookpeeper of Salem, and Anna M. Hampton, a telephone operator of Salem. Licenses issued today are to Henry G. Juhnke, a farmer of Foster, and Mabel Olive Jarvis, of Aumsville; and Alice E. Estes, a school teacher of Scotts Mills.

In the matter of the estate of Martin Faukald, Edward Nelson was Saturday appointed administrator by County Judge Bushey. The estate is valued at $1500 and John Bonner, Marsh Ramsby, and Andrew Quall were appointed appraisers.

Max Gehlhar, district attorney, was appointed executor, and Emil Graber, Jesse M. Turner, and Samuel Dingee appraisers of the estate of J. S. Harris by County Judge Bushey, Saturday. The value of the estate is estimated at $15,000.

June 25 has been set by the county court as the date for the final hearing of the final account of F. A. Wanless, administrator of the estate of Eldridge Wanless. There is the sum of $3,057.40 to be divided among the heirs, according to the administrator's report.

State House News

Governor Withycombe is at Hillsboro visiting his son.

In all probability Governor Withycombe will not issue a proclamation setting aside June 5 as a legal holiday in this state on account of the fact that June 3 is Sunday, June 4 the special election day, so that if he made June 5 a legal holiday it would tie up business for three full days, which, in these times, is not deemed to be wise.

Governor Withycombe had planned, before the date of the registration day had been set, to make the day a legal holiday, but on account of the situation he will probably only ask that it be celebrated as a holiday without interrupting business by making the day a legal holiday.

The Portland Evaporating company filed articles of incorporation Saturday with a capital of $5,000 to dry, cure, and sell, fruit, vegetables and game. The place of business is Portland and the incorporators are George Root, B. M. Hurst, and H. Breitbarth.

The Bend Holding company filed with a capital of $5,000 to do a general real estate business. The incorporators are Carl Johnson, H. J. Overturf, and H. E. Allen. The place of business is at Bend.

Certificate of increase of capital stock of the Coos Bay Grocery from $10,000 to $40,000 was filed.

The board of directors of the Central Oregon Irrigation company has requested the state desert land board to take steps to procure from the Secretary of the Interior an extension of time with which to complete the reclamation of the land in segregated list No. 6, which the state of Oregon undertook to reclaim under the Carey Act. The letter states that the original time for the work and the extension granted expires in February, 1918. The company wishes the board to take up this matter at once so as to secure an extension in ample time.
