TERRIFIC INDICTMENT OF THE KAISER

of the central German empire, absorbed and dominated by the same forces and influences that had originally cemented the German states themselves. The dream had its heart at Berlin. It could have had a heart nowhere else. It rejected the idea of solidarity of race entirely.

The choice of peoples played no part in it at all. It contemplated binding together racial and political units which could be kept together only by force—Czechs, Magyars, Croats, Serbs, Romanians, Turks, Armenians—the proud states of Bohemia and Hungary, the stout little commonwealths of the Balkans; the indomitable Turks, the subtle peoples of the east. These peoples did not wish to be united. They ardently desired to direct their own affairs, would be satisfied only by undisputed independence. They could be kept quiet only by the presence or the constant threat of armed men. They would live and under a common power only by sheer compulsion and await the day of revolution. But the German military statesmen had reckoned with all that and were ready to deal with it in their own way.

And they have actually carried the greater part of that amazing plan into execution!

As Things Stand.

"Look how things stand. Austria is at their mercy. It has acted, not upon its own initiative or upon the choice of its own people, but at Berlin's dictation ever since the war began. Its peoples now desire peace, but cannot have it until leave is granted from Berlin. The so-called central powers are in fact but a single power. Serbia is at its mercy, should its hands be but for a moment freed. Bulgaria has consented to its will and Romania is overrun. The Turkish armies which Germans trained, are serving Germany, certainly not themselves, and the guns of German war ships lying in the harbor at Constantinople remind Turkish statesmen every day that they have no choice but to take their orders from Berlin. From Hamburg to the Persian gulf the net is spread.

"Is it not easy to understand the eagerness for peace that has been manifested from Berlin ever since the snare was set and sprung? Peace, peace, peace has been the talk of the foreign nations. Lester Sennett was killed near Bend Wednesday, when the team he was driving ran away, throwing him from the wagon in such a manner that it passed over him.

for now a year and more; not peace upon her own initiative, but upon the initiative of the nations over which she deems herself to hold the advantage. A little of the talk has been public, but most of it has been private. Through all sorts of channels it has come to me and in all sorts of guises, but never with the terms disclosed which the German government would be willing to accept.

That government has other valuable pawns besides those I have mentioned. It still holds a valuable part of France, though with slowly relaxing grasp and practically the whole of Belgium. Its armies press close upon Russia and overrun Poland at their will. It cannot go further; it dare not go back. It wishes to close its bargain before it is too late and it has little left to offer for the pound of flesh it will demand.

The military masters under whom Germany is bleeding see very clearly to that point fate has brought them. If they fall back or forced back at inch, their power both abroad and at home will fall to pieces like a house of cards. It is their power at home they are thinking about now more than their power abroad. It is that power which is trembling at their very feet; and deep fear has entered their hearts. They have but one chance to perpetuate their military power or even their controlling political influence. If they can secure peace now with the immense advantages still in their hands which they have up to this point apparently gained, they will have justified themselves before the German people; they will have gained by force what they promised to gain by it: An immense expansion of German power, an immense enlargement of German industrial and commercial opportunity. Their prestige will be secure and with their prestige their political power. If they fail, their people will thrust them aside! A government accountable to the people themselves will be set up in Germany as it has been in England, in the United States, in France and in all the great countries of modern times except Germany.

Succes Would Ruin World. "If they succeed they are safe and Germany and the world are undone; if they fail Germany is saved and the world will be at peace. If they succeed, America will fall within the mencee. We and all the rest of the world must remain armed, as they will remain, and must make ready for the next step in their aggression; if they fail, the world may unite for peace and Germany may be of the union. "Do you not now understand the new intrigue, the intrigue for peace, and why the masters of Germany do not hesitate to use any agency that promises to effect their purpose the deceit of the nations? Their present particular aim is to deceive all those who throughout the world stand for the rights of people and the self government of nations; for they see what immense strength the forces of justice and of liberalism are gathering out of this war. They are employing liberals in their enterprises. They are using men, in Germany and women as their spokesmen, whom they have hitherto sought to silence. Let them once succeed and these men, now their tools, will be ground to powder beneath the weight of the great military empire they will have set up; the revolutionists in Russia will be cut off from all succor or co-operation in western Europe and a counter revolution fostered and supported; Germany herself will lose her chance of freedom; and all Europe will arm for the next; the final struggle.

"The sinister intrigue is being no less actively conducted in this country than in Russia and in every country in Europe to which the agents and dupes of the Imperial German government can get access. That government has many spokesmen here, in places high and low. They have learned discretion. They keep within the law. It is opinion they utter now, not sedition. They proclaim the liberal purpose of their masters, declare this is a foreign war which can touch America with no danger to either or her lands or her institutions; set England at the center of the stage and talk of her ambition to assert economic dominion throughout the world; appeal to ancient tradition of our isolation in the politics of the nations and seek to undermine the government with false professions of loyalty to its principles.

The False Betray Themselves. "But they will make no headway. The false betray themselves always in every action. It is only friends and partisans of the German government whom we have already identified who utter these thinly disguised disloyalties. The facts are patent to all the world, and nowhere are they more plainly seen than in the United States, where we are accustomed to deal with facts and not sophistries; and the great fact that stands out above all the rest is that this is a people's war, a war for freedom and justice and self government amongst all the nations of the world, a war to make the world safe for the people who will live upon it and have made it their own, the German people included; and that with us rests the choice to break through all these hypocrisies and patent cheats and masks of brute force and help set the world free, to stand aside and let it be dominated by a long age through by sheer weight of arms and the arbitrary choices of self constituted masters, by the nation which can maintain the biggest army and the most irresistible armaments—a power to which the world has afforded no parallel and in the face of which political freedom must wither and perish."

ANNUAL CONVENTION

But now the election is over and a majority of the voters were in favor of the bonds, it is now the duty of every good citizen to assist in getting the best results possible for our dollars, regardless of our personal opinion in the matter.

Need Law on Oleomargarine. "Another attempt was made at the last session of congress to remove the 10 cents per pound tax on colored oleomargarine and thus give an unfair competition with butter, as it might thus be sold as butter. This move was defeated by the concerted action of the farmers and dairy organizations. This oleomargarine question will not be settled until it is made unlawful by act of congress to color any other substance, such as also, in imitation of butter. I hope this state senate will endorse strong resolutions on this subject and inform our representatives and senators of our desires in this matter.

"Now, perhaps, more than ever, the senate should guard the interests of the farmer, for under cover of the excitement of the hour, legislation or ruling may slip through that would not be permitted in ordinary times. Special privileges may be granted and advantages obtained under the guise of patriotism or because of a supposed emergency, that we may have cause to regret in the future."

State Lecturer Makes Report. The report of State Lecturer Bond was then read, in which Mrs. Bond stated that she had visited 31 subordinate granges the past year and had attended 49 grange meetings in 11 counties. The report of the chaplain, Cyrus H. Walker, of Albany, oldest living white person born west of the Rockies, was of a reminiscent nature, as Mr. Walker visited Astoria during the winter of 1874.
