RED CROSS FUND IS GROWING RAPIDLY

Total Subscribed in Oregon Up to Last Night Is Over $300,000

Oregon's Red Cross spirit took a giant stride Wednesday. The total of subscriptions from the state outside Portland leaped from the $98,464.75 reported Tuesday evening to $179,615.14. The total of reports received during the day was approximately $71,000. Yet 10 of Oregon's 36 counties were not heard from in any way, and all reports are incomplete.

How Money Came.

Here are the district reports of the day: Clatsop county, $10,000; Springfield, $1,400; Cottage Grove, $2,000; Eugene (Lake county), $10,000; Condon, (Gilliam county), $3,000; Silverton, $2,000; Aurora, $300; Stayton, $1,000; Salem (Marion county), $7,425.31; Albany (Lincoln county), $1,183; Union county and La Grande, $5,000; Grant county, $340; Baker county, $4,000; Dallas (Polk county), $2,500; Roseburg, $1,473.50; Forest Grove, $3,500; Hillsboro, $2,000; Vale, $928; Marshfield, $1,441.25; Myrtle Point, $880; Coquille, $2,251; Bandon, $581; North Bend, $3,235; Powers, $1,118.75; Oregon City and Clackamas county, $3,000; Medford, $2,493.58.

"We will probably get $5,000 in Condon," said A. B. Robertson, making his report by long distance telephone.

Lower Columbia Alive.

"Ten thousand dollars in two days; you may depend on our raising the quota for this county and then some," telegraphed J. S. Delaney from Astoria, campaign manager for Clatsop county.

Marion county's gain for Wednesday alone was $4,000, stated O. B. Gingrich, Marion county campaign manager.

Without mentioning the amount secured, W. B. Dennis sent to State Chairman H. L. Corbett the following message from Carlton: "Pleased to inform you that the first day's work by Carlton committee resulted in over-subscriptions of our allotment; we anticipate at least 50 per cent over-subscription by end of week. Many subscribers have doubled the amount asked for by the committee. Of the hundreds called on yesterday, only one man able to give refused."

State to Post Quota.

State Campaign Manager L. G. Nichols believes that it is only necessary for every member of every committee to "stay on the job early and late until the end of the campaign" in order to insure the over-subscription of the $400,000 quota assigned the state outside Portland.

"But all our committees must realize that we are up against a $100,000 job," he said. "It will be necessary for every Red Cross campaign organization to keep in mind that the work is not done until every person in every district has been canvassed. Every campaign head has been supplied with the rules of the campaign. These should be followed implicitly."

"Friday is Capital and Labor day. Employers and employees should work together to make sure of a subscription from each. National Red Cross campaign leaders are beginning to think that Oregon's quota was made too small; I hope we will be able to show them that it was."

Inspired to greater efforts as a result of the first day's Red Cross drive, 23 team captains Wednesday added $45,777 toward the $200,000 goal in Portland, making the grand total $138,526.

John Chamberlain, a resident of Siletz Basin, was brought to Dallas by Sheriff Orr Monday charged with not registering at the recent registration for persons of prescribed military age. After ascertaining the cause of the young man's failure to comply with the law Sheriff Orr took the matter up with Attorney Rooms, of Portland, who advised the sheriff to let the boy register and turn him loose. The boy lives with his parents in the heart of the Siletz Basin.

Kay Files Answer In Suit for Accounting In the Kay Estate

A detailed statement of the distribution of the estate of Ann Kay, mother of State Treasurer Thomas B. Kay and Mrs. Fannie K. Bishop, is made by Mr. Kay in answer to the complaint filed against him by Mrs. Bishop, who is suing for an accounting. The answer has been filed with the clerk of the circuit court.

Mrs. Bishop, as administratrix of the estate of her mother, brought suit against the state treasurer for an accounting of the estate during the time he handled the affairs of his mother as her trustee. Mr. Kay, in his answer, relates the various steps that have been taken by the heirs in settling up the estate and declares that a final and satisfactory settlement was made among the heirs after Mrs. Bishop had employed a firm of Portland accountants to investigate the affairs of the estate. The accountants submitted their report and the final settlement was made in accordance with their recommendations, Mr. Kay asserts.

The heirs include five children, namely: Mrs. Bishop, Mr. Kay, Libbie Coshov, Lenora K. Roberts and Bertha K. Fisher. Each inherited of the estate share and share alike. One hundred shares of stock in the Thomas K. Woolen mill was divided among the heirs, and a certain amount of cash.

After the settlement was made, it was necessary to appoint an administrator in order to perfect title to certain real property owned by the estate in Lin county, says Mr. Kay. It was mutually agreed among the heirs, he says, that J. K. Weatherford, of Albany, should be appointed, but he refused to serve, and then on petition of Mr. Kay the court appointed Mrs. Bishop as administratrix "for the sole purpose of carrying out the understanding of the said heirs and of administering upon said estate for the sole and only purpose of perfecting said title."

Aged German Gives 50 Cents, His Wife Adds Pennies to Double It

If the Red Cross drive in Salem did nothing more than to bring to light some hundreds of instances of genuine, self-sacrificing patriotism it would still be distinctly worth while. It would be worth the price and the effort of the whole campaign just to know that Salem contains some of the real salt of the earth, and that the breed of patriots is not extinct. The circumstances touching some of the small contributions received by the Red Cross workers are so appealing in their heart interest that they ought to be committed to immortal type. Here, for instance, is a sample of the sort of Red Cross donation that really means something:

It fell to the lot of the captain of one of the prize Red Cross teams yesterday, to call upon an old German and his wife. The old man is a veteran of the Franco-Prussian war. He got his fill of kaiserism in the late '70's, immigrated to the United States, and became a 100 per cent American citizen. His son was killed in the Spanish-American war. His three grandsons are volunteers in the United States army, and are now in their mobilization camps. He is too feeble now to do much work, but he and his wife together somehow manage to earn enough to live on.

The captain didn't ask for a contribution, and he didn't intend to. But the venerable sire ratched down into his pocket and pulled out a 50-cent piece. "This is all I have," he said, as if apologizing for the smallness of his gift, "but I like you please to take it for der Red Cross. I do my bit for Uncle Sam and der grandchildren in der army."

Since the old man would stand for no refusal of his gift the captain took the money. As he was about to leave, the wife, who had been silent for several minutes, called the captain back. "We should make it a dollar," said the white-haired frau. "I have enough to make it." Whereupon she left the room and straightway returned with an ancient tobacco box, the contents of which she gravely emptied upon the table. The box contained exactly 50 cents—in nickels and pennies. She counted over the coins to make sure the amount was correct, and handed them to the astonished captain. "We make it a dollar for der Red Cross," she said, and a smile of wonderful pride spread over the wrinkled face. "Sure," echoed the old man, "We make it a dollar," and the same proud smile came into the eyes of the patriarch. The captain wanted to renege, but he felt an uncomfortable lump in his throat and with what grace he could he left the withered couple in the happiness of their sacrifice to the cause of liberty and humanity.

Have you done your bit towards helping to raise that $35,000—Salem's share of the national Red Cross fund? Has your money helped to put any red point on the flag in front of the Derby building? Are you wearing one of the tags which says: "I've done my bit. Have you?" The president has called upon you for a contribution to the $100,000,000 Red Cross fund. It is your duty to give what you think you can afford, whether it is one dollar or a thousand, and if you don't do it you are just as much of a slacker as a man who dodges the military registration.

Red Cross Campaign Booms In Polk County

(Capital Journal Special Service.)

Dallas, Ore., June 21.—The Red Cross campaign that was launched in Dallas with a rousing meeting Monday night is on in full swing now and before the end of the week the amount of money end of the week the amount of money to be collected. Since the Monday meeting B. E. Williams, of Portland, who headed the list with a subscription of $100, has sent an additional $150, making his total contribution $250. The Knights of Pythias lodge, Marmion, No. 96, also donated the sum of $25 for the cause and at last night's meeting of the Dallas Commercial club, a sum of $50 was pledged. Besides these several amounts other donations have been made by business men and citizens of the community. The real soliciting of the city proper will begin today when a house to house canvass will be started.

Polk Has Timber Fires.

Two small timber fires are burning in the woods above Falls City caused by a fire which mysteriously destroyed old Mill No. 1 of the Falls City Lumber company Sunday night. District Fire Warden W. V. Fuller was in Dallas last night after a two days' absence at the scene of the blaze and reported that the flames were under control. At 9 o'clock he was in communication with the lookout station on Bald mountain and learned that a heavy mist was falling and that rain was expected every minute. Mr. Fuller stated that a light shower would practically extinguish the flames around the old mill site, and lessen the danger of fire in other parts of the country. Camping parties are being cautioned to put out all fires before leaving camp and to be careful with cigarettes and matches.

Commercial Club Meets.

The regular monthly meeting of the Dallas Commercial club was held in the club rooms on Mill street last evening with President W. V. Fuller presiding. Several matters of importance were taken up and discussed among which was the proposed route of the West Side highway through Polk county and also the repairs to the Dallas armory. The amusement committee of the club which had the handling of the proposed Fourth of July celebration reported that after interviewing the business men of the city they had decided to drop the matter this year as the celebration would come too near the dates set for the chauntiqua. The matter of providing entertainment for the Jewellers' convention which will be held in

Market Was Stagnant and Prices Unchanged

New York, June 21.—The New York Evening Sun financial review today said:

Such news developments as there were over night and in the course of the day which could be construed as of market-wide influence tended little to aid the bear position and the result was a rather lazy short covering movement through a good part of the session.

This imparted a firm tone to the general list. Trading was more subdued than for a fortnight or more past, stocks were not readily offered and, in consequence, price fluctuations bore but scant significance outside the circle of professional traders.

The entire list today held substantially above yesterday's close. Steels and some of the coppers gained one to two points. The munitions and equipment shares, still under the leadership of crucible steel, made good gains.

The railroad list was quiet but firm. Prices moved sluggishly in the afternoon but the main held closely to the top.

Bonds were quiet and steady.
