

Stop Rheumatism Before It Takes Hold

You can do it by keeping your blood clean. The kidneys filter about 500 grains of uric acid and other salts from the blood every 24 hours. When there is more than the kidneys can remove, it is deposited in muscles and joints, and painful rheumatism follows. S. S. S., for 50 years the most efficient of all blood tonics, will keep the blood pure and prevent disease. At your druggist.

MISS ALINE THOMPSON

Mrs. John A. Carson has gone to Seattle for a few weeks visit and is the guest of relatives.

Miss Jeannette Meredith, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meredith of North Lakima, formerly of this city, is expected to arrive in Salem during the week and will be the guest of friends and relatives. At present Miss Meredith is visiting in Portland.

Miss Lucile Atwood of Toppensish, Washington, is the house guest of Mrs. Lloyd L. Utter, and will be here for the remainder of the summer.

Miss Atwood arrived in Salem last week, accompanying Dr. and Mrs. Utter, who motored to Toppensish and other places of interest on a pleasure trip.

Of interest is the marriage of Mrs. Hallie Parrish Hinges, "the Oregon nightingale," to O. Benjamin Durdall, which was solemnized yesterday at the home of the bride, on Summer and Chemsota streets.

Mrs. Durdall who has an attractive soprano voice, is well known in musical circles of the northwest, having since her girlhood been called "the Oregon Nightingale."

Mr. Durdall who has only been in Salem for the past two years, is the proprietor of the Farmers Cash Store. He has two sons, Burton Durdall, who is waiting for a call from the U. S. navy, and Victor Durdall who makes his home on a ranch near this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Durdall will go north for a few days wedding trip and upon their return will be at home to their friends.

The aid society of the Englewood United Brethren church will meet on Wednesday afternoon for a business session at the home of Mrs. Alonzo Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Millard of 2011 D street are being congratulated upon the arrival of a baby girl, born Saturday night at the Salem hospital. She will be called Evangeline.

A group of classmates of Miss Ruth Rosebraugh gathered at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Rosebraugh, on D street, Thursday afternoon to celebrate the anniversary of her birthday.

A color scheme of pink was carried out in the decorations and refreshments, and the rooms were attractive with garden flowers. Later the afternoon was closed with refreshments.

Those asked to participate in the celebration were Miss Eulalie Lindley, Miss Lucile Tucker, Miss Norma Wechter, Miss Martha Wickberg, Miss Frances Rhubetz and Miss Edith Bailey.

Miss Abbie S. Davis left Saturday for Portland where she will take a course in the primary methods of teaching.

Miss Davis will be away for about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Moore and family have returned from a motor trip to Portland and the Columbia highway. They were accompanied home by Miss Wallie Bieson who will be their guest for a few days.

At the residence of Mrs. Thomas Carriek Burke tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, Miss Lela Slater, formerly of Salem, and the daughter of Judge and Mrs. W. T. Slater, will appear in piano recital. Miss Slater has been an earnest student for several years. She is gifted with an earnestness of purpose that has carried her on in the development of her musical gifts, until she easily ranks among the best of the younger professionals of the city. Her playing at the MacDowell club a few weeks ago was commented upon with enthusiasm because of its exceptional brilliancy. Miss Slater will be assisted by Miss Dorothy Louise Blais, soprano. —Portland Oregonian.

PRESIDENT WILL

ate fight for food control without compromise.

Friends of the administration measure are in complete accord with this and declared today that opposition in the senate, numerically, at least, is confidently expected to prove to be no greater than in the house, where only five votes were cast against the bill.

Inclusion by the house of a "bone dry" section may split opposition to the bill in the senate. That amendment and others adopted in the lower branch served to scatter antagonism in the senate to a point where some confusion is noted in their ranks today.

The senate will probably retain some prohibition section, but sentiment is more inclined to favor the discontinuance of distilled spirits manufacture, but not stoppage of beers and wines.

Retention by the senate of this feature of the bill, however, is bound further to intensify some isolated opposition to the food control bill and threaten its final passage this week.

Friends of the bill will not remove any of the "teeth" left in it by the house. They will, in fact, attempt to add some.

Call it Unconstitutional

Opponents of the measure will fight it to the end on the ground that it is unconstitutional. They will say the only thing necessary is regulation of food speculators.

It has been agreed to eliminate all reference in the bill to control of "food consumption"—entrance into the home and dictating what shall and shall not be served.

It has further been agreed specifically to exclude farmers from restrictions under the bill, making it apply essentially to the distributors.

The measure will be broadened so as to include foods, feeds, fuels and, under "other necessities," steel, iron, oil, all petroleum products, aluminum and farm machinery.

Price fixing and commandeering features will remain.

There will be some minor changes beyond the ones mentioned, but the "teeth" will be left intact.

The bill went to the senate today from the house and was to be sent to the agriculture committee for these amendments.

Friends of the bill say there will be a majority report favoring it from the committee, but probably a minority report too. It is hoped to present both to the senate tomorrow and every effort will be made to get a vote by Saturday.

Lincoln People Are Awake to Opportunities

(Capital Journal Special Service.)

Lincoln, Ore., June 25.—Good coming out of the inter-county bridge controversy. "It is an ill wind that blows no other good," is a proverb that has not lost its charm with some of the Polk county farmers. As a result of the closing of the Salem bridge, the farmers around Lincoln and Spring Valley have come together with the law of self preservation in their teeth, and don't intend to always be handicapped by having a bridge condemned and then to rely on the service of a jitney car and an inefficient ferry to get their wares to a suitable market; indeed they

Where American Forces May Hold Battle Line

Washington, June 25.—American expeditionary forces on the French firing line may occupy a position between the British and French sectors.

At first it is estimated that the American expedition will occupy only about four miles of trenches.

From official sources it became known today that the French mission to this country had recommended such a position for Pershing's troops.

At present General Pershing is conferring with General Paine upon the exact point in the 350 mile front that the Americans are to hold.

In official quarters it was pointed out that the American forces would necessarily be placed in such a position as to insure an independent line of communication.

think this is a day of progress and a land of great cities to turn to when occasion requires. These farmers have built a modern warehouse and dock at the boat landing at Lincoln and by the first of July there will be an agent in charge to receive freight. The dock will be free for all shippers both for goods sent and received. The warehouse has cost a neat little sum of money but it is small as compared with the probable loss they sustained by the closing of the bridge. In earlier days Lincoln was one of the big shipping points on the river and an immense amount of business was transacted. But with the coming of the west side railroad and other means of transportation, Lincoln gradually lost its prestige as a shipping point and about the time the paving got under good way at Salem it seemed that Salem was in the market for almost all the output from the farms. For the last four years Lincoln has almost been off the map as a shipping point. About two years ago the store and warehouse was destroyed by fire. It occurred to the farmers that the time had come for the pendulum to swing to the other side and new starts are visible on the horizon of the commercial world and Portland is chief bidder for their commodities. These farmers feel that when such a time comes that they cannot get to Salem they can have their supplies shipped in a boat as well as to ship their produce to a suitable market. For the last few months the boats have made almost regular stops at Lincoln both to receive freight and to land other freight and much more would have been sent and come by boat had the warehouse been installed. With it all comes rumors of other enterprises. A good blacksmith shop is expected in the near future, and while Lincoln supports a first class grocery store, it is rumored that a general merchandise store is contemplated. As the wind blows now it seems that Lincoln was in a good way to come back to its former record as a shipping and business point.

Sportsmen's Tourney of Northwest Opens

Portland, Ore., June 25.—The 33d annual registered tourney of the Sportsmen's association of the northwest opened today on the grounds of the Portland Gun club at Jenne Station with trophies from every state west of the Rockies present.

Fifty-nine dollars was sent today to the American Amateur Trapshooters' association by the officers of the club as the result of a practice day yesterday. One-half cent on each target went toward the Red Cross fund.

High amateur yesterday was G. L. Becker, of Ogden, Utah, who dropped only two birds out of 100 thrown him. Lee H. Randall, Seattle, topped the professionals with 97 out of 100.
