All Choked Up With Catarrh?
Why Continue Makeshift Treatment?
 Sprays and douches will never cure you.
 Catarrh is annoying enough when it chokes up your nostrils and air passages, causing painful and difficult breathing and other discomforts. But the real danger comes when it reaches down into your lungs.
 This is why you should at once realize the importance of the proper treatment, and lose no time experimenting with worthless remedies which touch only the surface. To be rid of Catarrh, you must drive the disease germs out of your blood. Splendid results have been reported from the use of S. S. S., which completely routs from your blood the Catarrh germs, for which it is a perfect antidote.
 S. S. S. is sold by all druggists. If you wish medical advice as to the treatment of your own individual case, write to-day to Chief Medical Adviser, Swift Specific Co., Dept. B, Atlanta, Ga.

For Economy's Sake Buy Advertised Goods

When you buy sugar you pay less per pound when you buy it by the dollar's worth. You pay still less per pound when you buy it by the hundred-pound sack or by the barrel.

The same is true of the manufacturer and the merchant. The larger quantities of anything that he can buy the less he has to pay for it. It costs less to handle it in large quantities than in small lots. It costs less per pound to ship in solid carload than it does to ship a carload in separate shipments of 100 pounds each. Just as it costs you less to buy a hundred pounds of sugar at one time than it would to buy a hundred pounds a quarter's worth at a time. Less in money. Less in time. Less waste—less in every way.

The manufacturer and merchant who advertise are enabled to buy and to sell in larger quantities. By doing a "quantity" business they cut expenses and save waste on every hand. They can sell better quality—pay the small advertising cost—and SELL FOR LESS than if they were doing business in a small way.

In these times of advancing prices carefully compiled statistics prove that the advertised brands of merchandise have advanced much less in proportion than those which are not advertised.

In the interest of economy buy advertised merchandise from merchants who advertise.

Senator Chamberlain Would Hang German Spies

Washington, July 4.—"Hang the German spies without ceremony!" This was the demand of Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the senate military committee today. Simultaneously, he declared he had no doubt that spies in government departments in Washington are constantly sending information to Berlin.

Following revelation that German army and navy headquarters are getting a steady flow of military secrets from the United States, as evidenced by Berlin's war moves and publications in German newspapers, opinion in Washington resolved itself into a concerted demand for exposure and execution of enemy agents.

Recently it was openly charged on the senate floor that there are 100,000 German spies actively working in America.

"It is my belief that information in this country is sent to Germany through wireless stations on the east coast of Mexico and in Venezuela," declared Chamberlain today. "The navy department has the facts about these stations. When the traitors are found they should be strung up without the formality of trial by jury."

It is known that one powerful radio plant is working in Yucatan. It is one of the strongest on the continent. Military secrets smuggled over the border could easily be flashed the German war boards in Berlin if the kaiser controlled the station in Mexico.

AUSTRIANS BADLY

Semi-official dispatches from Petrograd indicated capture of Brzezany, fifty miles southeast of Lemberg is imminent. The enemy has apparently abandoned the city. A steady stream of prisoners is still pouring in behind the Russian lines.

The greatest admiration for the thoroughness of the job now being done by General Brusiloff was expressed here today by military experts. The only apprehension was based on the astonishingly rapid progress achieved by the Russian troops. One of Hindenburg's favorite tricks—which he pulled once before on the Russians—is to permit penetration of his lines and then after an enemy has progressed for a considerable distance through the break, to attack at the point of penetration in an effort to isolate the advanced troops.

For that reason the hops was expressed here that the Russians are consolidating all their newly won positions. The great number of prisoners taken in the Russian offensive, more than 17,000 to date, is significant, in the opinion of military observers here, of a breakdown in the Teutonic morale.

The Austrians for the most part, hold the line through which the Russians have penetrated. They were greatly stirred by the success of the Russian revolution and by unrest at home.

Probably also they have been confident of the success of Germany's intrigues for separate peace in Russia and hopeful of a continuation of the fraternization which has long been in vogue on this front. In this frame of mind, to be called upon suddenly to face a foe reinvigorated by knowledge that Russia's new found freedom must be fought for, may have been too much for the Austrian morale.

German Attacks Pierce

Paris, July 4.—Undismayed by their terrific losses, the German army commanders throughout last night hurled great forces into battle in another titanic effort to break the French grip on the Calais plateau. The French official statement today detailed the heaviest sort of fighting, but repulse agencies in eastern Oregon for the Oregon Life Insurance company and came to Oregon about three years ago as representative of the Mutual Life of New York.

Why worry about returning or not returning stale bread? Why not make arrangements with those who are fond of bread pudding?

The plan to build a great military highway clear around the rim of the United States has a great appeal in it. At any rate, should there never be another war, there will always be peace.

"They Also Serve" Who Stay Behind—and Work.

By Marian Bonsall Davis.

"The Red Cross," said the mother of three young men who have just put on the khaki "is my training camp. It is for me my military duty. It gives me a chance to be a soldier with my sons.

"Sometimes a company from the army or a band of boy scouts marching with life and drums passes my window. Looking at them I see in my mind all our boys at all our training camps, learning their new lessons, testing their endurance. And we mothers can't take one of them. They've gone into their own world."

"I think I can imagine some of the mothers that are being born in them. They are so young, their eyes are misty sometimes, as they march. Already they must look sometimes like the soldiers' immortality at guard mount—taps on last Memorial Day."

"It is hard to be a woman. 'Tis, if it were not for me these three dear boys, with their straight backs, their flushed, damp faces at their passion, at your idealism would not exist. Because of me there are three soldiers serving the colors."

Red Cross Workshop. Are the Men in Training. Women Are Doing a Bit Comparable in Importance to That of the Men in Training.

It is difficult to be a woman. I take up my sewing, soap and sew little red cross on the jacket of the pajamas I am making and wonder who will wear it and what the red cross will make him think of. Curiously, even if my boys are in the hospital to which this garment goes, I want it to be worn by some other mother's boy; and I want my boys to wear the things made by some other mother. Some way it seems to me to make motherhood go deeper.

"Perhaps it will be worn by some black man or some black boy from Africa who will think it is funny; perhaps some young French officer; perhaps some Italian peasant, like my Italian; perhaps some wounded German prisoner; and I have the privilege of giving to the soldiers of the world.

"It glorifies the material I work with. Thrillingly it glorifies money. Think! One cent buys iodine to disinfect a wound. If the iodine shouldn't be there but it won't fail. Mothers and fathers won't let it fail, now they know."
