One important piece of business transacted at the last meeting of the board of directors of the Commercial club, was that of electing a man to succeed John J. Roberts, who resigned from the chairmanship of the social department on account of business which took him from the city. His successor is W. A. Marshall, a member of the Industrial Accident commission.

Rev. John Ovall arrived home yesterday from a trip around the Puget Sound country, where he attended a ministerial conference and an Epworth League convention. He reports a lively time in Sound cities and the people are optimistic about the war. He will preach in his church, corner South Fifteenth and Mill streets, next Sunday at usual time.

How can he do it? Such an expensive show, Liberty theatre Sunday only. Fifteen cents evening and matinee.

Salem lodge No. 4, A. F. & A. M., stated communication tonight (July 6) at 7:30 p. m. A short business session, which will be the last meeting before the summer vacation, will be followed by an address by Bro. Horace N. Aldrich. A most cordial invitation is extended to all visiting brothers.

Passers-by along High street near the city hall this morning paused, looked, and then looked again. High overhead, apparently without any control whatsoever, floated four toy balloons. Now float away. The more curious pedestrians investigated and found that the balloons were held by a thread the end of which was in the hands of a 12-year-old boy, but grown man. Wishing something to relieve the ennui of inactivity, the members of the fire department were playing kite flying with balloons.

Chas. Gueffroy, son of John Gueffroy residing on North Church street, left yesterday for Fremont, Neb., where he is employed by the Nye-Schneider-Fowler company. He has been here on a 10 days' visit with relatives and friends. He enlisted in Indiana and received a non-commission as sergeant in the medical reserve corps, and is expecting to be called shortly. He is a brother of A. A. Gueffroy who is employed in the city recorder's office.

The federal government has given Corporal Toy the power to hold any person found mutilating any sign or poster advertising the army. It seems that there are some men in the city who do not have any respect for government property and who are opposed to advertising the needs of the nation. At any rate, posters have been cut and torn, and in several instances the face of Columbia has been deliberately cut out with a knife. These actions have aroused all the "Irish" in Corporal Toy's makeup, and he says "Woe be to any one caught defacing the signs."

The Salem Fire Protection Bureau was formed last night, from a committee recently appointed by Mayor Keyes. William McGilchrist, Jr., was elected chairman, and William Evans, secretary of the bureau. The meet in this bureau will work in conjunction with Fire Chief Hutton of the Salem fire department, and their aim will be the further education of the public along fire prevention lines. Chief Deputy Fire Marshal Jay Stevens, of Portland, was present at the meeting and gave his illustrated lecture on the topic of fire prevention.

Glen Davis, who lives on South Twenty-first street, was taken ill last night when walking on State street along the university campus. He fell to the walk and was picked up by two passers-by whose pity was aroused by his helpless condition. He was taken east on State street and the police telephoned for him as he seemed to get worse. He said he had been working at Hood River and on Sunday had eaten some devil's ham. Since then he says he has not been able to eat anything. It is thought he may be suffering from ptomaine poisoning.

Riding on an autoped, R. H. Corson, Oregon representative of the American Ever Ready company, made his rounds in his dealers this morning, and great was the comment which his novel mode of traveling provoked. The machine is a small two-wheeled vehicle, upon which the rider stands, and is carried along the streets by the power of a small gasoline motor attached to the front wheel. Mr. Corson came to this city from McMinnville, and had previously been at the Seaside and Tillamook beaches, where he motored up and down the sand on his infant motoring club. He carries two of the autopedes on a Ford, one on each running board.

PRELIMINARIES ARE NEARLY COMPLETED

Registration Lists Pouring In —Draft Expected to Begin Next Week

By Webb Miller, (United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, July 6.—The last preliminary of the draft began today. From every section of the country numbered registration lists were reaching the provost marshal general's office. Posting of these numbers yesterday caused a false report that the draft was already in progress.

On the day after the last precinct had sent its numbered registration cards to the state adjutants general and to Washington and has posted and published the lists with the key number of each man, the actual drawing will take place in Washington. There are about 4600 precincts.

Provost Marshal General Crowder is straining the resources of his organization to start the draft drawing during next week. Local boards were ordered to complete their preliminary work by tomorrow.

General Crowder pointed out today that false reports that draft numbers had already been drawn were founded upon the action of the local boards fixing key numbers to their lists.

Men Must Get Numbers
Again General Crowder emphasized that every registered man in the nation must make it his business to find out his "key" numbers. The onus of this task is placed squarely on the registered man. He is instructed to watch the posted list of names and numbers and find out his own number. Newspapers are requested to print the names and numbers whenever possible.

Nomination of members for the appellate exemption boards for about half of the states were sent to Secretary of War Baker today. Because of the heavy responsibility of these boards, deciding occupational claims, the president and Baker will themselves decide upon qualifications of members.

One of the methods of drawing names of drafted men considered by President Wilson's special advisory board became known today. By this plan, as many numbers as the highest serial number of the largest precinct in the nation would be placed in a receptacle and drawn at random. Every man in each of more than 4,500 precincts holding the number drawn would be drafted. Whatever method is adopted will be open to the public.

HOSIERY CONTEST IS QUESTION OF COLOR

White and Red Sox Will Decide Leadership in Swing Around Circle
By H. C. Hamilton (United Press staff correspondent)
New York, July 6.—Argument over who's who in the American league about to be settled in the graphics for which the stage is being set today.

The White Sox having passed successfully through a long journey through the eastern half of the league, will return home, while the Red Sox, after ups and downs of various sorts, are scheduled for a journey that will swing them around the western half of the circuit.

Last year when the same sort of a change was due and the season was in its dying throes, Jack Barry was injured, George Foster was indefinitely out and a more or less crippled pitching staff was extant. This year the Red Sox go west in very good condition. Their performance a year ago was strong enough to carry them to a pennant. If that is the case stronger playing will have to develop among the westerners now to entice them out of their position.

The Phillies and Giants are now preparing to fight it out along the same lines. Each club will be playing in its home orchards. The final struggle between these clubs doubtless will be waged on foreign fields, however. The club that proves itself the best on the road probably will carry away the flag—provided Miller Huggins or some such upstart doesn't kick the dope bucket farther than it yet has traveled.

Frank Baker's home run, as in olden days, won a baseball game. It broke the Yankee's losing streak.

The Cardinals pulled off their fifth straight by repeating on the poor Pirates.

Jim Scott is going to learn how to be an officer. Perhaps that will be an aid to the White Sox.

Fred Fulton Climbing
New York, July 6.—Another obstacle today was wiped from the path of Fred Fulton, heavy weight, following his four round knockout of Porky Flynn here.

THE AMERICAN NAVY
Another interesting and inspiring service has been arranged at the First Congregational church for Sunday evening. Great interest is manifested in the American navy at this time. Many Salem boys have joined the navy. Uncle Sam's ships today are between us and our enemies. Aboard ship in the navy is the banner of Jesus Christ, the church flag, is the only flag permitted to fly above the Stars and Stripes. Interesting patriotic and inspiring will be the talk on Sunday evening given by Chief Machinists Mate Provost on

Send Death Threats to Exemption Boards

San Francisco, July 6.—Death threats are being sent to members of draft exemption boards in San Francisco. John J. Dudley, member of one district board, today advised Registrar Zemansky that he sent his resignation to Mayor Rolph because one man had told him his (Dudley's) life would be taken if he failed to vote for exemption of the man who made the threat.

Mayor Rolph announced that he had no authority to accept resignations, as the matter of selection was out of his hands. Other members of the board declare they have also received threats but they refuse to take them seriously.
