HOWARD McCLELLAND KILLED BY ACCIDENT
Body of Dead Boy Lay in Road All Night—Was Found This Morning

Howard, 14-year old son of T. Y. McClelland, the West Stayton merchant, was found lying dead in the road about half a mile from his home, by a neighbor, Mr. Hookstraw, about 7 o'clock this morning. The horse he had been riding was lying beside him and nearly dead. The boy yesterday evening about dusk started on horseback for Mr. Hookstraw's place intending to borrow a saddle. His folks, supposing he had come home and gone to bed after they had retired, thought he was in his room this morning, until Mr. Hookstraw told them of their terrible loss. It is supposed the boy was riding pretty fast, and there being a slight raise in the road caused the horse to stumble and fall, while nothing, of course, is known as to the matter. It is supposed the boy was killed instantly, his injuries indicating that the horse was so badly injured that he was shot this morning to end his suffering.

Howard was a bright manly boy, and he will be sadly missed by the neighbors with whom he was a general favorite. His untimely death has cast a feeling of gloom over the entire town, which extends to the bereaved family its profound sympathy.

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT ASSEMBLY MEETINGS

At the opening of the afternoon session there was a short business meeting of the state B. Y. P. U. at which the newly elected president, Harley Halgren of Portland, outlined his plans and made recommendations. He urged that the state union work to increase the standard societies from 11 to 25 and the organization of twenty mission study classes; that we enlist and train all our young people for all forms of Christian service; that we cooperate with our denominational societies in an educational drive in October and November for mission study classes and "win my friend" week; that we establish a uniform plan of associational young people's organizations, modified according to the existing state organization, especially in the departments of education, evangelism, junior and intermediate work are concerned; that for the coming year's work we assess each society ten cents per member.

It was voted to make the summer assembly a permanent feature of the state organization and strive for an attendance of one hundred registered students next year.

Following the business meeting Harry Wade Hicks of New York gave an address on training young people for missionary leadership.

At the evening service Dr. W. B. Hinson preached a thoughtful and inspiring sermon on "The abiding Christ." Miss Lena Belle Tartar sang "Abide with me."

The morning classes have been started with an attendance of from thirty to thirty five each.

This evening's program will be a very interesting one. After the musical prelude Miss Edna Harida, art teacher, O. A. C. will give a chalk talk rendering of Hiawatha. She is the equal of any lyceum professional artist in this line.

Again let the announcement be made that all these sessions are free to the public.

NERVOUSNESS AND BLUES
Symptoms of More Serious Sickness.

Washington Park, Ill.—"I am the mother of four children and have suffered with female trouble, backache, nervous spells and the blues. My children's loud talking and romping would make me so nervous I could just tear everything to pieces and I would feel so sick that I would not want anyone to talk to me at times. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills restored me to health and I want to thank you for the good they have done me. I have had quite a bit of trouble and worry but it does not affect my youthful looks. My friends say 'Why do you look so young and well?' I owe it all to the Lydia E. Pinkham remedies."
—Mrs. ROBT. STORTEL, Sage Avenue, Washington Park, Illinois.

If you have any symptom about which you would like to know write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for helpful advice given free of charge.

siren, will be starred in the new Triangle play, "Love or Justice?" at the Oregon theater Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Love or Justice?" which is the work of Lambert Millyer, is a strong drama of love and sacrifice. It tells the story of a woman of the underworld, who wears a brilliant young lawyer from the drug habit by her love and devotion. Here is a vampire who sacrifices all her luxuries and her former life for the man she has grown to love.

As in "Sweetheart of the Doomed" and "The Wolf Woman," Miss Glaum will make her gowns a distinctive feature. In the first part of the play, in which she appears in the cabaret scene, she is garbed in the clothes of a queen of the underworld, similar to those which she wore in "The Wolf Woman." Later as she gains refinement through her love and sacrifice, her gowns are of a more delicate quality.

The settings are laid in lawyers' offices, luxurious homes and clubrooms. One important episode is laid in a well known Tenderloin basement cabaret. Another imposing "set" feature is a courtroom scene, in which over 300 people are used.

To be seen at the Oregon theater Tuesday and Wednesday.

WOMEN GET POSITIONS IN BOX FACTORY AT BEND.

Bend, Ore., July 30.—Just as rapidly as they can be secured, women are being put to work in the box factory of the Brooks-Seanoia Lumber company here. Six were placed on the payroll yesterday making new history in the local lumber industry. Officials assert that for light labor requiring manual dexterity the new employes are superior to men. Shortage of labor caused the women to be put on as an experiment.

HARRISON GRAY OTIS DIES AT LOS ANGELES
Best Known On Pacific Coast for Winning Fight Against Union Labor

Los Angeles, Cal., July 30.—General Harrison Gray Otis, founder and editor of the Los Angeles Times, war veteran and life long opponent of organized labor, died suddenly today at ten o'clock at the home of his son-in-law, Harry Chandler, in Hollywood.

Death was due to the bursting of a blood vessel in the heart, according to Dr. Ferlett, attending physician.

Chandler and Mrs. Chandler were with him when he died.

General Otis came down to breakfast as usual this morning, apparently enjoying his usual health.

Just as the negro maid was serving him, he put out his hand and said: "Take away the tray Lucy, I'm gone."

He died instantly.

General Otis, soldier, journalist, life long opponent of union labor, was born near Marietta, Ohio, February 10, 1837. He enlisted as a private in the Twelfth Ohio Infantry at the outbreak of the Civil War and rapidly rose through various grades to that of lieutenant-colonel of volunteers, being highly honored when mustered out.

Entering civil life, he became official reporter of the Ohio house of representatives the year after the close of the war, and later was named for superintendent of the government printing office in Washington. In 1870 he was made division chief in the patent office later being transferred to the treasury department and was given charge of the Seal Islands of Alaska.

In 1878 he became editor and general manager of Los Angeles Times where he remained until his death. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war Otis was appointed brigadier general of volunteers and was sent to the Philippines. He led his brigade in the capture of Calocan, for which gallantry he was promoted to a major generalship. He was discharged in 1899.

As the owner of the Times, he began a fight on union labor which he carried on up to the time of his death. In 1910 during the heat of the Times' labor fight, the Times building was dynamited and more than twenty employees of the paper were killed in the resultant fire.

The Merchants and Manufacturers association of Los Angeles, employed William J. Burns to run down the guilty persons and as a result John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Structural Steel and Iron Workers and his brother James were arrested in Detroit and Indianapolis.

After a sensational trip across the country the McNamaras were brought to trial. Clarence S. Darrow, of Chicago, were retained to defend them. After weeks spent in selecting a jury, the McNamara brothers came into court suddenly and pleaded guilty. John was sentenced to fifteen years in prison and James to life imprisonment.

Otis McNamara, the state's star witness in the case, declared that he and James McNamara had actually placed the fatal bomb, after attaching to it a clockwork arrangement which would set it off after they had left the city.

General Otis' Times attacked the McNamara brothers fiercely during the trial and later. Shortly after the sensational climax to the McNamara case, Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel was indicted on a charge of attempting to bribe jurors. He was acquitted after a lengthy trial in which he made the chief plea to the jury in his own defense. Several years after the McNamara excitement had died down, David Caplan and M. A. Schmidt were arrested in the state of Washington and convicted of participation in the Times conspiracy.

As the direct outgrowth of the McNamara case, practically all of the international officers of the ironworkers union were indicted in Indianapolis and convicted of transporting explosives illegally on passenger trains. They served various prison terms in Fort Leavenworth federal prison, the last of them having been liberated only recently.

General Otis was also a constant advocate of American intervention in Mexico, where he had large land holdings.

arbitrators from a list of 11 submitted by the company and the representation of each side by council. The company suggested that the men return to work as soon as the agreement to arbitrate was signed. Nothing was said of union recognition.

Replying in the same spirit and citing the state law on the subject, the strikers' general committee, Sunday night announced in a letter to President Leonard calling for the appointment of four arbitrators to meet with the state commissioner of labor as presiding officer, to arbitrate the strike situation.

Strikebreakers Working.

Tacoma, Wash., July 30.—One hundred strikebreakers from the east were spirited into Tacoma during the early morning hours today and are at work for the Tacoma Railway and Power company. It was disclosed by a check made by the police and union pickets. Thirty cars are operating, though the public, as throughout the two preceding weeks of the struggle, refuses to ride.

Forty two of the imported strikebreakers were brought in on the Milwaukee railroad, it was reported. They constituted one carload of a special train that arrived at Seattle. The one car was taken off at Maple Valley and brought here. The others were brought over the Georgetown car barns in automobiles.

Tacoma police, anticipating trouble when the arrival of the strikebreakers becomes generally known, are taking every precaution to forestall riots.

Guarding the "Army"

Seattle, Wash., July 30.—Guards on duty at the Georgetown car-barns on the Puget Sound Traction, Light & Power company where five hundred strikebreakers are billeted, opened revolver fire into a small crowd of half grown youths Sunday night. No one was injured.

According to strikers, who took no part in the affair, the shooting was in retaliation for an attack made by the youths on a strike breaker who left the barns yesterday morning and was set upon and beaten.

Three guards appeared at the top of the fence and commenced shooting in the direction of the crowd. Police dispersed the crowd around the barns. There was no further disturbance.

Return From Long Trip to Southern California

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gerig and two children, accompanied by Harold Cron, a born Californian, who drove his own car, arrived in Salem July 27th, leaving Brawley, California, July 1st. They reached Mill City July 24th, which it to be their future home and leaving the children there came on to Salem to visit Mrs. Gerig's mother, Mrs. Margaret Hummel, of 1094 N. Seventeenth street. They drove 2285 miles in all. Mr. Cron says he drove as high as 7180 feet with the little Ford. Found good roads all through California from the Mexican line to the Oregon line, none all paved, but not good through Oregon.

When they left Brawley it was excessively hot and dry. Crops of cotton there looked good. Very near Brawley a rancher is raising watermelons on a patch of 400 acres, cantaloupes on 2000 acres; they ship on an average 230 to 250 cars of melons a day for six weeks.

Both men report a scarcity of farm help all through California, and all along the way were besieged to stop and go to work, but Mr. Gerig has worked before in Mill City, and as he had the promise of work there again at increased wages returns there, preferring the Oregon climate.

They leave Salem for Mill City Saturday afternoon perfectly delighted to get back to Oregon.

The arrival of fifty strikebreakers from St. Louis on a special train Sunday morning was marked by the entire absence of violence.

NO TYPHOID FEVER SCARE AT MONMOUTH, IS CLAIM

Monmouth, Or., July 30.—The rumor that Monmouth had an epidemic of typhoid fever circulated in all parts of the state, is refuted by Health Officer Price, who says that not a single case of the malady exists in the city. The shortage of water for domestic use is thought to have started the rumor, for the supply became so short last week that it was turned off entirely for two days. President J. H. Ackerman, of the normal school, threatened to adjourn the summer school if the trouble continued and Water Superintendent Mordland at once remedied conditions.
