Enlistments of landmen for the quartermaster's in the aviation corps are ordered stopped, according to orders received this morning by Mechanist Adams, in charge of the navy recruiting station here. However, landmen for mechanist mates aviation department may be enlisted on the authority of the bureau of navigation. The qualifications of these men is that they must be familiar with high speed motors, which are used in the aviation service.

The farmers will be interested in learning that the Charles R. Archerd Implement Co. have entered the grain trade, and are now in the market for wheat, oats, barley, hay and straw.

'Headquarters Nights', or the Confessions of a Converted Pacifist, is an article found in the August number of the Atlantic Monthly that is on the shelves at the public library and it offers an especially keen insight into the German viewpoint regarding the war.

The author, Vernon Kellogg, was connected with the American Relief Commission and was a frequent at the Imperial headquarters in the conquered French territory and had opportunity to talk with German officers. He gives in plain language just what it is that the United States is fighting in its war with Germany.

Fred S. Bynon is in receipt of a telegram from his son Allan A. Bynon from the Presidio that he had been given a commission as second lieutenant in the quartermaster's corps, motor transportation. He will arrive home in Salem Sunday morning on a short furlough before going into active service August 27.

Gus Moser who last winter presided so fairly over the Oregon senate will be a Salem visitor tomorrow, the occasion being the Wisconsin picnic at the fair grounds, at which he will be the principal speaker. They can't help getting together and where one badger is there can be found the whole family, bandicoot, rock wallaby, womerah and wombat; big and little, old and young, male and female, and all for the honor of old Wisconsin.

Wheat is standing at the $2 a bushel, the proposed figure of the government. Salem wheat men, as well as all millers in the northwest are simply marking time, awaiting action after Mr. Hoover gets his food laws into operation. Very little wheat is changing, but the farmer who is satisfied with $2 a bushel now will find a market at the Salem mills. One year ago it was selling for $1 to $1.10.

Plantain is one of the worst pests the clover raiser has to contend with, and unless it can be taken out the clover seed will not bring a profitable market price. The Charles R. Archerd Implement Co. will install this fall a large and latest improved plantain mill, which with the cleaners they now have, gives them the most complete line of seed and grain cleaners in the valley.

Roswell Waltz, who was injured in an automobile accident on the Big Sandy river last Friday, is still in St. Vincent's hospital, Portland. He received a bad injury on the head, although it was not serious. Lloyd Waltz who was also in the car suffered several minor bruises and was able to return yesterday. A passing car caught the rear wheel of the car in which the young men were riding, throwing them over a 30 foot embankment, landing within 12 feet of the Big Sandy river.

Miss Ermine Bushnell, who has been teaching in the Salem public schools for the past 21 years, presented her resignation to the school board at the meeting held last evening. For the past few years, she has been principal of the McKinley school. The resignation was accepted and the clerk instructed to express the thanks of the school board for her long and faithful services. As Superintendent Todd is out of the city her successor was not elected.

This information is given for the benefit of those who want to talk about the weather and figure how long it has been since this section experienced a first class rain. According to the records of the local weather office at the O. C. T. dock, the last rain was on the last day of June when there was a precipitation of .22 of an inch. Since then there has been no rainfall, excepting a trace July 28. July has 31 days and this is the 14th day of August. It is quite easy to figure the dry spell without an adding machine.

The Rev. Harry B. Marshall, former pastor of the Baptist church of this city, who has been devoting the past two years in evangelical work, is in the city for a short vacation. He will occupy the pulpit of the Baptist church August 19 and 20.

Beginning September 1, Mr. Marshall will devote two weeks of his time to Seattle and from that city to Portland.

Captain J. Rosenberg, formerly connected with the Salem street railway company, arrived home this morning at two o'clock from his station at Vancouver lake, where he is assistant to the camp commandant. Captain Rosenberg arrived in time to welcome a baby girl into the family. The captain arrived home at two o'clock and the baby arrived at three, and although the captain hurried he did not beat the stork much. The newcomer weighs five and one-half pounds and the captain says it is a bumper and looks like him. He says he is going to raise his girl to be a brigadier general. He leaves Wednesday evening for his post at American lake.
