THE MARKETS

Wheat seems to be holding at the $2 a bushel and if the plans of the government are carried out, the farmer may have the satisfaction of knowing this price is assured, which isn't bad, considering that one year ago today the quotation was $1 a bushel. Hay is up $1 a ton and pork of all kinds continues to climb. The egg and poultry market in Salem for the past few days has been as high as Portland. Ordinarily, there is a difference of from 1 1/2 cents to 2 cents a dozen, based on the cost of case and shipping.

Nation, State and Farm For Big Grain Acreege

President Kerr, O. A. C., Asked to Name Delegates to Food Conference at Spokane. Corvallis, Or., Aug. 15.—Two Oregon farmers have been appointed by President W. J. Kerr, of O. A. C., to join the college representatives at the Northwest grain growers' conference to be held at Spokane, 27 and 28 of August, to consider the best means for securing the maximum fall sown acreage of wheat and rye. This was done at the request of Secretary Houton, who says that the need for the increase is imperative because of the world shortage of food materials. President Kerr has named W. W. Harrah, the Unatilla county wheat farmer, and A. S. Roberts, of The Dalles, to represent Oregon. Notice of Oregon's share of the fund appropriated by congress to conduct the food control work under the new food laws, is expected to reach the college immediately. Just what the amount will be now after the changes and delays in awaiting the measure is not known, but the sum originally agreed upon was $50,000. It is evident, President Kerr says, that there will be the greatest difficulty in financing the work in Oregon on the appropriation, but that by co-ordinating closely all the various agencies of the state interested in the work, much can be done to add to the nation's food supply. Conferences of leaders in the Oregon conservation movement are now under way in Salem and Portland, and as soon as the word to go ahead is received from Washington the campaign will be started with a rush and carried on with definite aims and methods.

Hops In Demand at Thirty Cents Now

Portland, Or., Aug. 15.—Thirty cents was freely offered for 1917 hops in all the Pacific coast markets yesterday, and there were rumors of still higher prices being bid at some points. Except in California it was almost impossible to buy. Dealers found it easy to make sales in the east if they could secure the supplies at this end. No contracting in Oregon came to light, but in the Yakima section Bob Livesley paid 30 cents to Fred Parker for 200 bales of the new crop. There are no 1916 hops left at Yakima. Eight hundred bales of Oregon 1916 hops were sold at 18 cents, most of them being taken by Salem buyers. Among the Sonoma contracts at 30 cents, reported in California wires, were 900 bales bought by Uhlman, 300 bales bought by Hall and the Talmadge & Woods acre bought by Richardson. The same price was current in the Sacramento district. In the Butte section Fraser contracted for 500 bales at 29 cents. The Doyle and Paxton lot of 53 bales of 1916 Sonomas was sold at 20 cents. Blauth sold 900 bales of 1916 Sacramentos at 16 cents and 900 bales of 1915 at 11 cents.
