TO ASK INDICTMENT OF STRIKEBREAKERS

This For Those Found Bearing Arms—Several Fights Today During Parade

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—Indictment of armed strikebreakers brought here to break the strike of United Railroads platform men will be asked of the county grand jury tomorrow night. District Attorney Fickert announced today. They will be charged with carrying concentrated weapons which, under a new state law, is a felony.

Simultaneously, J. O. O'Connell, announced that true bills might also be asked against "higher ups" responsible for arming the strikebreakers. O'Connell asserted that many of the strikebreakers are working on car platforms, with revolvers in their pockets. The labor council decided today to assess union men here 2 1/2 per cent of their wages for support of the strike. Union carmen all over the country will also be asked to help.

The striking carmen staged another parade at noon today.

Several fights marked the day's developments. Four men fired several times at Godfrey Anderson as he was operating a United Railroads car but all bullets missed. Twenty strikers and strikebreakers fought a battle lasting several minutes in the Mission, six being arrested when police reserves arrived.

Two strikebreakers, George Selmaferd and Jack Flood, were found unconscious near the Twenty Fourth street car barn today. On reviving both men said they had been slugged as they left the barn.

That union teamsters will refuse to haul supplies to United Railroads barns, where strikebreakers are housed, was indicated this afternoon when six members of that union struck rather than take stoves to points where strikebreakers are housed. B. F. Bowbeer, leader of the strikers, predicted that other teamsters will take similar action.

State House News

The bid of E. H. Collins and company of Chicago for the $400,000 Bean-Barret bonds issued by the state board of control was accepted yesterday by the board. The bid was $380,040 for the issue, which was at the rate of 97.01 percent of par. This bid is more than $780 higher than the bid of the A. B. Leach company, which was the second highest.

When the bids for the issue was first opened August 8, for long-time bonds, the bids were too low to be satisfactory and the bonds were changed to serial and re-advertised with the result that much higher bids were received. The state saved $15,000 in changing from the long-time to the short time bonds although usually it is the long-time bond that brings the highest price.

A new magazine is to be published in Portland by the name of the West Magazine Corporation, and articles of incorporation were filed this morning with the corporation commissioner with a capital of $5000. The incorporators are John E. Cronan, J. M. Coughlan and F. I. Gollehur.

J. V. Stewart, of Fossil, editor of the Fossil Journal, was a state house visitor this morning. He is on his way from Fossil to Corvallis, where he will engage a house for his family, while his children go to school. He runs a farm in addition to his newspaper and this year says his newspaper is keeping up the farm.

Holds State Must Show What Roads Government Intends to Use

From the contents of a letter received recently by State Highway Engineer Nunn, from L. L. Hewes, government district engineer at Portland, it appears that the government may not intend the $400,000 appropriated by the legislature to meet the provisions of the Shackelford act for the improvement of rural post roads, on account of the failure of the state to prove that the road planned to be improved will be used as a post road. The stretch of road selected by the highway commission is known as the Wolf Creek road on this side of Grants Pass on the Pacific Highway.

"It is our opinion that the evidence so far presented will not warrant a finding by the secretary of agriculture that this project conforms to the act," says L. L. Hewes, government district engineer at Portland, in a letter to State Highway Engineer Nunn. He refers to the provisions of the Shackelford bill, under which the federal appropriation is made. The point is that the data furnished by the highway department do not show "the future service of the proposed road as a rural postroad."

"We will be unable to furnish to you any further proof that this road will ever be used as a rural route," replied State Highway Engineer Nunn. "It seems that such proof would be almost impossible, as any project on which we might request aid, as it is a matter always adjusted by the government at such times as the population justifies the establishment of such route."

It would appear that the government officials want to spend the money for the improvement of rural postroads already established as such.

"So you are the father of twins?"

"Yes. They look just like me, too."

"Oh, well I wouldn't worry. Some children when they get older don't look at all the way they did when they were babies."

A Chat with the Farmer

It seems to me that, although the retail price of your products has soared sky high, you are not getting your share of the advance in prices. The lion's share goes to the middlemen through whose hands your products pass before they reach the consumer. I cannot remedy this condition entirely but I am going to do all I can. That's why I started this store. That's why I named it "The Farmers Store of Quality." I'm going to buy all your produce I can. I'm going to pay you all I can for it and PAY YOU IN CASH—not in trade. Of course, if you want to buy your groceries, dry goods, etc., from me I will appreciate it, but I don't want you to feel that you have to trade here just because I buy your poultry, your eggs, your butter, or whatever your products may be. However, if you do buy here, you'll get good quality at a very low price. You'll get good service, too. When you come to Salem drop in and get acquainted. It'll be to your advantage. Remember we have a rest room for the free use of yourself, your wife and your children. We want you to feel at home here. We want you to make this store your headquarters every time you come to Salem.
