THE MARKETS

The wheat situation is about like this: Mr. Hoover, food administrator says he has no authority to make Portland a primary base. The food commission all went home after its session and of course it cannot act excepting as a body. Then the only direct authority is the president and the question will doubtless be taken direct to him for action. Hence, it looks just now as if wheat is worth $2.20 on the Chicago market, less 30 cents for freight and then a few other incidentals such as sacking, and charges of handling. Also the fact that valley wheat is quoted generally at from ten to 12 cents less than No. 1 hard wheat. On the basis of all these deductions it looks like a mill or commission house would be taking chances in paying much more than $1.75.

& Kraus Saturday night (or Sunday morning) and carried away several hundred dollars worth of shoes, gloves, clothing, suitcases, razors and knives. The theft was not discovered until Monday morning. The thieves evidently unlocked the doors, took what they wanted, and re-locked the doors as they went out. There are no clues to the identity of the burglars, though traces of them were discovered when O. P. Higgins botham found two new shirts upon the school grounds. Automobile tracks showed where a car had been driven into the school house yard, where a change of clothing may have been made, and the two garments dropped. Men were also seen about 2 a. m. Sunday going down Liberty street rapidly, carrying suitcases—Aurora Observer. DEATH OF W. W. TINKLE. William W. Tinkle died at his home in this city of valvular heart trouble on Friday, September 1, aged 76 years, 8 months and 26 days. Deceased was born in Johnson county Indiana, May 7, 1841. On July 14, 1862 he enlisted in the Civil War and served until the end of the rebellion. During his three years' service he was in several prominent battles and had a very distinguished career, his record being a very active one. From Indiana, Mr. Tinkle moved to Pueblo, Colorado, where he married Miss Teatie Barrel. They came to Woodburn about thirteen years ago and made here a large number of friends. Mr. Tinkle was a loving husband and very much thought of in the community. He was a member of the Pueblo Masonic lodge. He also belonged to the I. L. Stevens Post, G. A. R., and took a deep interest in that organization. His wife and two nieces in the south survive him—Woodburn Independent. WOODEBURN SCHOOLS. The opening of the Woodburn public schools for the year 1917-1918 has been set by the board of directors for September 17 next. All of the buildings have been thoroughly cleaned preparatory to the opening. The Westside grade building has been re-plastered, and part of one room re-plastered. The interior woodwork has been given one coat of paint. Several partitions and storerooms in the basement have been removed and one good storeroom for janitor and school supplies built in the center of the basement, where it is easily accessible from all entrances. Altogether, the building presents a very neat and attractive appearance, which lends an added incentive to the young boys and girls as well as the teachers for the better work during the year.—Independent. LATE HOP NOTES. Dealers continue to reduce their estimate of the coast hop crop. Some place it as low as 120,000 bales, divided as follows: Oregon 55,000 bales, California 70,000 bales and Washington 15,000 bales. These figures, however, are probably too low, being given out to further influence prices. The McCleary crop of fuggles is reported sold at Silverton at 40 cents to a Salem dealer. All fuggles are picked, the yield being less than half the normal crop, with about half the normal acreage. The Silverton crop mentioned was something over 60 bales. It is reported that the British government has taken the hop crop in England and will pay growers the cost of production at once, and when the crop is sold will pay over the balance, less the cost of management. It has also decided to buy the entire unsold stock of 1916, 1915, 1914. It is proposed also that no grower shall pick this fall more than 50 per cent of the amount he picked in 1914. If all these plans are carried out, as they doubtless will be, all hop prices in England will be fixed by the government. Without any doubt, the average yard in this section is coming down lighter than expected. The hops are a fine quality, have filled fairly well, and are a very desirable product in every way. With prices quoted high, little business is being transacted, but no one is willing to predict what trend the market will take next, though many are expecting something "unexpected" to occur.—Aurora Observer.
