Hill, was united in marriage to Ernest Watkins, of Bandon, Or., now a quartermaster sergeant stationed at Fort Stevens. The Hill home was handsomely decorated. Rev. G. L. Clark, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiated, using the ring ceremony. Ray Couch, a fraternity brother of the groom and also well known collegiate football player, attended the groom and Miss Helen Currey, a classmate and sorority sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid. The bride was graduated from Oregon in the same class as the groom this year, and both were popular and prominent in academic and fraternity circles at the university. Strike is Ended
New York, Sept. 20.—The strike of Longshoremen, which involved 6500 men and threatened to tie up allied shipping from this port, came to an end this afternoon.

The men agreed to arbitrate their differences and to return to work while the arbitration is in progress.

Government representatives are said to have strongly intimated that unless the men returned to work the steamship piers here would be made military ground.

the French army. These are the first American officers in the American military service at the front or elsewhere to receive decorations from any one of the allied powers.

The French award to them raises at once the question of future enforcement of the American army regulations forbidding American soldiers to wear foreign decorations.

General Duncan today exhibited this war cross—kept in his trunk—and likewise the helmet which he wore at Verdun. The "tin hat" was dented where a fragment of shell had struck it.

"It was pretty hot up there," the general confessed to the United Press correspondent, "but I was certainly surprised to receive the French war cross."

The Budget reports a very great increase in the school enrollment at Antoria, necessitating the seeking of additional rooms.

The general strike committee met today to lay plans to carry the boycott propaganda to the teamsters, longshoremen and railway men in an effort to induce them to refuse to haul 10 hour lumber.
The Central Labor Council last night endorsed resolutions of the Metal Trades Council calling for a general organized labor boycott and requesting immediate action on the part of the railway brotherhoods.

Members of the railway brotherhoods say that it would be necessary for a vote of all the brotherhoods of the international before the action requested by the council could be taken. This would require, they say, from 30 to sixty days.
