THEATRES HARD HIT BY INCREASING COSTS

War Taxes Added to Other Expense May Force Higher Admission Cost

The theaters of Salem will undoubtedly be obliged to raise admission prices in order to survive the flood of increasing operating costs. It is doubtful if any other industry has had higher increases in costs of doing business in the past few months, than have the picture theaters.

That the public should have a clear understanding of the matter is the opinion of the theatre managers when interviewed this morning. T. G. Bligg of the Bligh and Ye Liberty, said that he found it impossible to maintain the high standard of pictures under present conditions.

Practically the same ideas were voiced by Geo. B. Guthrie, of the Oregon theater. He said: "The Oregon theater has offered the public this fall a wonderful line of star productions at the same prices as formerly obtained under regular programs.

Further inquiry developed that the plan likely to be put in force would be an advance of evening seat prices to 18 cents, war tax imposed by the government on the patron, 2 cents, total 20 cents; week day matinees will be adults 9 cents, war tax 1 cent, total 10 cents; Saturday, Sunday and holiday matinees will be adults 13 cents, war tax 2 cents, total 15 cents; children prices will be 8 cents, war tax 1 cent, total 9 cents, evenings, children over 9 years, 9 cents, war tax 1 cent, total 10 cents.

PARK BAND CONCERTS DROPPED FOR 1918

In Interest of Economy Budget Will Not Provide Necessary Funds

The people of Salem and vicinity will probably be obliged to get along next summer without the usual band concerts. The children of the city will not be provided with play grounds next summer, other than that of the streets and parkings.

The budget for this year called for an expenditure of $167,000. The proposed budget for 1918 calls for $156,945. About the items proposed for next year, there is a saving of $4000 on awards, as for 1918 only $4000 is asked, compared to $8,000 for 1917.

Manager Crawford and Warden Murphy Clash—Pass It Up to Governor

There is trouble again at the prison over the flax plant and its operation. So long as the board of control had charge of the prison, things at the plant moved along smoothly, but since the governor has full charge, which was given him by the last legislature, and the advent of Warden Murphy, there has been a clash and conflict between him and Mr. Crawford superintendent of the flax operations.

TRouble IS BREWING AT PRISON OVER FLAX. CARDINAL WARNS CATHOLICS. Baltimore, Md., Nov. 10.—Cardinal Gibbons has warned all pastors and church folk here against participation in a peace prayer-chain which had its origin here and is spreading to other cities. The cardinal sees in the chain an unusual form of German intrigue. The prayer, apparently, is a sincere appeal, but is believed to be an insidious attempt to further the enemy cause.

TAKES OUT SECOND PAPERS. O. A. Landis, is now one of Uncle Sam's sons, having gotten into the fold Wednesday, November 7th. He was given his second citizenship papers at the court house. In honor of the day, July, Julius Alm wheeled out his seven-passenger car and took Mr. and Mrs. Landis, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Claus and little daughter, Thelma, over to Salem to witness the procuring of the most precious document, Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Blackerby went over in the same car but they went to see their daughter, Meva, who is quite sick. Mr. Blackerby remained with the daughter, Silverton Appeal.

highly encouraging to the convicts and has everything running in good shape. He has taught the business to other employees to as large an extent as possible in the time, and is optimistic about the flax industry in the valley. Those familiar with the situation say it would be a misfortune to lose his services at this time as he is demonstrating that flax is a profitable crop and one that will do more than all others to make the linen industry one of the leading ones of the valley before many years. However the whole matter is under his excellency's hat, and will stay there until the governor gets ready to act.
