Labor Laws Are Not Fully Understood Commissioner States

There appears to be a general misunderstanding about the effect of the laws regulating the hours of work in different industries, and particularly concerning the employment of women and minors, and, for the benefit of those who address the department of labor anonymously without other means of having their misconceptions corrected, Labor Commissioner Hoff has prepared a condensed outline of the effect of the different labor laws governing the hours of work for men, women and children, as follows:

In Mills and Factories

No person can be employed at the regular wage in any mill, factory or manufacturing establishment in the state more than 10 hours in any one day except watchmen and employees when engaged in making necessary repairs, or in case of emergency where life or property is in imminent danger. But employees may work overtime not to exceed three hours in any one day if they are paid for such overtime at the rate of one and one-half the regular wage. Overtime wages cannot be collected, however, after receipt has been signed as paid in full.

In Underground Mines

Persons working in underground mines are not permitted to work more than 8 hours in any 24 and the hours of employment of each day must be consecutive except the intermission of time for lunch or meals. In case of emergency such miners may work for a longer time during the continuance of the emergency. This law does not apply to mines in their first stages of development, such as tunnel work to a depth of 200 feet, or to shaft work to a depth of 150 feet, or to any surface excavation.

On Public Works

It is unlawful to employ any laborer more than 8 hours in any one day, or 48 hours in one week, in work being done for the state, county, school districts, municipal corporations or subdivisions, except in cases of necessity, emergency or where public policy absolutely requires it, and in such cases such laborer must be paid double wages for all overtime. This provision does not apply to state institutions or departments.

Any person working in the operation or repair of any plant owned or operated by any city or town having a population of not more than 1000 inhabitants may be permitted to labor more than 8 hours in any one day, but not more than 56 hours in any one week.

Employment of Women

Females are not permitted to be employed in any manufacturing, mechanical or mercantile establishment, laundry, hotel, restaurant, or telegraph or telephone establishment or office, or by any express or transportation company in this state more than 10 hours during one day, or more than 60 hours in one week.

(This provision does not apply to females employed in harvesting, packing, curing, canning or drying any variety of perishable fruit, vegetable or fish, provided they are paid time and a half for time over 10 hours per day when employed in canneries, driers or packing plants, and provided further, that piece workers shall be paid one and one-half the regular prices for all work during the time when employed over 10 hours per day.)

Women employed in any of the above establishments must be provided with suitable seats and permitted to use the same when they are not at work.

Hours of Labor

No person shall employ any woman in any occupation in the state more than 54 hours in any one week except in fruit and vegetable canneries where women may be employed for 60 hours a week.

No more than 9 hours in any day except in offices, woolen mills and fruit and vegetable canning, packing and preserving establishments, where women may be employed not to exceed 10 hours in any one day.

In any office establishment in the city of Portland for more than 51 hours in any one week.

In a mercantile establishment in the city of Portland more than 8 hours and 20 minutes in one day nor more than 50 hours in one week.

No person shall employ any woman in any occupation in the state of Oregon for more than 6 hours of continuous labor without a rest period of at least 15 minutes.

WOLF CREEK HILL IS TO BE SCALPED

Five Per Cent Grade to Supplant 20 Per Cent Terror on Pacific Highway

A 5 per cent grade will supplant the present 20 per cent grade on Wolf Creek hill, the worst spot on the Pacific highway. A contract to build a new road and new grade was awarded by the state highway commission late Tuesday afternoon to the American Exploration & Construction company, for $56,947.90. Work will begin at once and by spring the job should be completed. The contract price is far below the estimate of the state highway engineer.

It was a lively scene, was the meeting of the commission yesterday afternoon for many delegates were present to argue for the location of one road or another. There was an argument presented in favor of every road.

From Junction City came a delegation which wants the Pacific highway located between that town and Eugene along the river. There are people of Eugene who want the road routed in a circuitous manner which might divert the trade of Lake Creek from Junction City to Eugene. Chairman Benson said that any unbiased person familiar with the two roads would substantially favor the river route. Commissioner Adams, who lives at Eugene, leaned toward the indirect route but admitted that if he had to vote on the question yesterday he would have to vote for the river route. Mr. Benson then moved that the river route be designated as part of the Pacific highway and Mr. Adams began hedging. When Commissioner Thompson saw that the "back" was being passed to him he recoiled and declared he would not vote until he has personally investigated. For a time the Junction City delegation had Commissioner Adams in a hole, but thanks to the attitude of Commissioner Thompson the problem was put over to a subsequent meeting.

Three different delegations advocated three different routes for the Pacific highway between Portland and Hillsboro. County Judge Reasoner informed the commission that whatever route is decided will be perfectly satisfactory to him, personally, but that as county judge he felt it his duty to inform the commission that the most people in Washington county will be served by designating the Reedville route. The Oregon delegation put up a fight for that route and a third delegation urged the adoption of an entirely new road which will be located between the stream and electric railway lines. Each crowd had its own maps and statistics and no two offered the same mileage figures between the same points. The Oregon people showed how their road would be an easy grade, except in the Canyon road which is 8 per cent. This 8 per cent in the Canyon road was made much of in the argument by the other side and the Reedville and the new road delegations pointed out that the commission has always objected to a state road having more than 5 per cent grade. The commission sat tight and took the matter under advisement.
