is the perfect oil for deep frying, sautéing, shortening, salad dressings—and the economical one.

PRESSED from the heart of golden American Corn, Mazola supplies the need for a vegetable oil which is pure and wholesome.

Fry any food in Mazola and you will find it retains more of the natural flavor.

Use Mazola over and over again—it does not transmit taste or odor from one food to another—the great factor in economy.

Mazola quickly crisps the surface and thus makes fried foods more digestible—free from greasiness or sogginess.

And since Mazola is a vegetable oil it is an important factor in Mr. Hoover's campaign to save butter, lard and suet.

Imported oils are so scarce and high priced now-a-days that you will do well to use Mazola when you want a really delicious salad dressing.

You can get Mazola from your grocer in pint, quart, half-gallon, and gallon tins. The large sizes are most economical. Also ask your grocer for the free Mazola Book of Recipes, or write us direct. Your money refunded if Mazola does not give entire satisfaction.

Eight Thousand Men Sent From Camp Lewis

Camp Lewis, Tacoma, Nov. 20.—Official release was made yesterday at the office of Major General H. A. Greene, in command of this camp, of the fact that 8000 men drafted from the western department have been transferred from Camp Lewis to other camps, and may see service in France.

Forty Years' Success

For a business to be successful for forty years means a great deal. Among other things, it means remarkable excellence in the products it sells. No inferior article can be sold on a large scale for so many years; and it must not only be good at the outset, but so good that the progress of forty years shall not develop and better article to supersede it.

So women can, with confidence, depend upon that old, tried and tested remedy for women's ailments, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, still as popular as ever, thought it was placed on the market before the centennial year, 1876.

of the rights of small nations, which are aimed at freeing civilization from the menace of militarism and which are in truth calculated to "make the world safe for democracy." Then if the plans of the American commission carry, these objects, backed and endorsed by the allied council, will be proclaimed to the entire world, allied, neutral and enemy—not as a peace move, but as a war move, a move calculated to demoralize the entire allied coalition of the last time of suspicion of selfish interest hope of individual gain for any nation.

Give the Kaiser the Lie.

Such a move, disarming the Kaiser of his argument that the German soldier is fighting a defensive war, is counted on to deal a telling blow to German morale, to give resurgence to neutrals and to remove from the mind of any allied soldier any idea that he is seeking his life in furtherance of the commercial or political interests of any allied nation. That President Wilson personally desires such a declaration by such a council is admittedly the best guarantee that both will be forthcoming. The American executive is at the moment in a position to secure the most friendly consideration of his ideas. Allied diplomats state frankly that President Wilson, by reason of America's peculiar position and vitality

Washington has stated repeatedly that American participation in the inter-allied council will be confined entirely to "military measures."

SOCIETY

By ALINE THOMPSON

MRS. ROY H. MILLS had a group of friends at her home for an informal sewing bee on Friday afternoon. Her guests numbered about 16 girls and young matrons, several being members of the "La Coudre" club.

At the refreshment hour Mrs. Mills was assisted by Mrs. James T. Chinnock and Mrs. Paul Johnson.

Mrs. and Mrs. John H. McNary came home early in the week from a few days stay in Portland.

Mrs. John Withycombe (Iida Jones) has gone to Portland for a several days visit, and is dividing her time between her sisters, Mrs. Merrill B. Moores and Mrs. Anderson Cannon.

Mrs. Channery Bishop and her mother, Mrs. C. D. Gabrielson, are spending the day in Portland.

A group of girls, who are enjoying a series of "dutch treat" dinners this season, gathered at the B. E. Carrier home Friday night to be guests of the Misses Lydia and Laura Bell.

Fruits formed the centerpiece for the table which had places for 16. After dinner the evening was devoted to Red Cross knitting, and Miss Dorothy Pearce gave several charming piano selections. Miss Ruth Faxon was a guest of the club.

Those included in the club are Miss Helen Pearce, Miss Lynn Miles, Miss Louise Benson, Miss Dorothy Pearce, Miss Inez Geltra, Miss Laura Ross, Miss Genevieve Avison, Miss Ruth Boyer, Miss Ada Miller, Miss Gertrude Eakin, Miss Ola Clark, Miss Ada Oles, Miss Eva Scott and the Misses Bell.

Arrangements are being made by the Elks for a big Thanksgiving dance to be given at their club house, on Wednesday night, November the twenty-eighth.

The affair will be the third of a series of parties, which have been planned for this season, and will be similar to those given by the Elks last winter. These dances are proving a delightful boon to both the members and their friends, and are doubly welcome because of the lack of all social festivities.

Although the affair Thanksgiving eve will be informal, the Elks are planning to make it one of the biggest and best of the winter.

Miss Rose Eckhart of Eureka, California, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Holt, en route to Seattle, Wash., where she will spend the winter.

There has been no meeting arranged for the junior auxiliary this week, and the members therefore will probably not assemble for their usual evening of knitting until next week, when the Misses Gertrude and Margaret Gray will entertain the auxiliary.

position to state that the President will reserve the right to determine what constitutes "military measures."

The announced military objective of all the allies is the defeat of German militarism and the shattering of the Hohenzollern menace to the peace of the world. Anything calculated to further that objective will, it is pointed out, be classed by America as "a military measure."

Evidence is already forthcoming that more discomfort has been caused the ruling class within Germany by Wilson's appeal of June 14 to the German people over the heads of the Kaiser and his hand-picked government than by any single military blow struck during 1917.

While no big result has yet been recorded from the political offensive there is evidence that the leaves are working. The French, especially, have been active in sowing the seeds of German republicanism on Teutonic soil.

Interests of Small Nations.

War leaders regard any move calculated to solidify and unite the allies to define and concentrate their efforts on common objectives, eliminating private or selfish hopes of individual allied belligerents as military measures. Along the same line, it has been urged of no less necessity than greater consideration be given to the needs of and advantages of fuller co-operation with some of the minor and less consulted allies.

The United Press understands there is good reason to believe the statements among the entente powers are in substantial agreement with President Wilson's suggestion. Opposition, however, may develop among certain groups of financiers, because no attempt is made to conceal the fact that such a statement of essential principles as President Wilson desires may necessitate a whitening down of maximum demands by various countries. The statements who have been guiding the war for more than three years are quite prepared to limit demands to those essentials affecting all allies. It is known, however, that certain great international, financial groups prefer to run still further risks in the hope of making good, financially and territorially, at the expense of the central powers.

America's Advantage.

It is admitted readily here that America is advantageously placed to put through her program without impediment.

With Russia definitely out of active fighting, the United States alone of all the allies is in a position to furnish the manpower requisite to continue the war to a successful culmination.

American regulars are in France, American volunteers are in khaki and in the navy and the selective service army is in training—not to further individual aims of individual European nations, not to make possible economic and commercial leagues against Germany, but to uphold the inalienable rights of American citizens on land and on sea, as guaranteed under international law, and, in its highest sense, make the world safe for democracy.

Must Understand.

It is pointed out that if America is took place when Miss Alma C. Lippold became the bride of Melville B. Jarvis of Davenport, at the home of her parents; Rev. H. E. Abel officiating. The ceremony was performed at high noon with only relatives and a few friends in attendance. After the ceremony a luncheon was served.

Mr. Lippold is a junior member of the Lincoln County Abstract and Title company, with headquarters at Davenport, Wash., where the couple will make their home after a short honeymoon trip.

Mrs. Cloyd D. Rauch opened her home Monday to a number of the P. E. O. society for an afternoon of Red Cross work.

The roll call was responded to by Thanksgiving quotations and an interesting paper on the work of the chapter was given by Mrs. Gerald Volk, who also read a paper from the rectory bureau entitled "P. E. O. charm," which was prepared by the state president of last year—Mrs. Jones of Portland. During the session a committee was appointed to secure a scholarship in a western university.

Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Hickerson will leave the latter part of the week for Day City to make their home.

Miss Carroll Dibble left tonight for Palo Alto, Cal., to join her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson C. Dibble, who are wintering in the south. She will spend several months in California, returning to Salem in the early spring.

to furnish the full strength and deliver the full blow of which she is capable, the mind of everyone or her fighting men must be made absolutely clear as to what he is fighting for. It is pointed out that America has not been invaded and has not been threatened. She has been deluged for three years with German propaganda. Pacifism, some German and some merely misguided, has had free rein. A re-education of the allied cause has been urged by the American commission, and in this they have had the hearty support of many of the British commissioners and emissaries who have visited America within the past eight months.

Reception Cordial

On every hand Colonel House and the American commission have been given the most cordial reception. There can be little doubt but that among the foremost British and French leaders the proposal of the Americans will receive endorsement. Lloyd George in particular has since their first meeting shared the complete confidence of Colonel House and while the imperialistic views of Lord Northcliffe are generally well understood the energetic manner in which he is fighting for the inter-allied council, with all that he must know it will entail, suggests that the publisher-peer regards the proposal as a most necessary win-the-war measure.
