

CHILDREN NEED FOOD—NOT ALCOHOL

How careless it is to accept alcoholic medicine for children when everybody knows that their whole health and growth depends upon correct nourishment.

SICK WOMAN HAD CRYING SPELLS

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Enhaut, Pa.—"I was all run down and weak inwardly. I had female troubles and nervous feelings and my head bothered me. I would often have crying spells and feel as if I was not safe. If I heard anyone coming I would run and lock the door so they would not see me. I tried several doctors and they did not help me so I said to myself 'I guess I will have to die as there is no help for me.' She got me one of your little books and my husband said I should try one bottle. I stopped the doctor's medicine and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It soon made a change in me and now I am strong and do all my work."—Mrs. AUGUSTUS BAUGHMAN, Box 86, Enhaut, Pa.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out and drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? If you would like free confidential advice address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

TRIAL OF HINDUS OPENED YESTERDAY

Seven Defendants Alleged to Represent World-Wide Conspiracy

San Francisco, Nov. 22.—Seven Hindus representing a world-wide movement to liberate India from British rule during 1913 and 1914, obtained false passports, went to Berlin and there plotted to enlist the aid of Hindu prisoners in Germany in the plan to overthrow the English. It is the plan to facilitate the transportation of millions of Hindus from India, who were to swarm down on the Suez canal and crush the British troops in Turkey.

A ship, the Maverick, lay in the harbor of San Pedro, Cal., containing as its passengers Hindu recruits, the first detachment of Indian revolutionists from the United States. The expedition was financed by and directed by the German government.

This is not fiction. It is the story told by United States District Attorney Preston to the jury in the federal court which will try 34 prominent men on charges of complicity in the Hindu conspiracy.

"And before I finish," said Preston, "we will have not 34 defendants in this court but possibly 150. And the prominence of the defendants when all names are revealed, will amaze you."

Preston declared the conspiracy started two years before war was declared between Germany and the United States. It was started by C. K. Har Dyal, a Hindu professor at Stanford university during the years 1911-12, who is now in Germany, Preston called him "crank anarchist."

Arrested in Chicago in 1914 on a conspiracy charge, he said, Har Dyal jumped his bail and fled to Switzerland, "where he proved to be probably the greatest figure in the German spy system."

Ram Chandra, who succeeded Har Dyal as editor of The Hindustan Gardar, a Hindu newspaper here, Preston said, received on November 13, 1914 from Alfred Zimmermann, afterwards German foreign minister, a telegram which read in part:

"All Hindus have sympathy of the German government and it is our duty to fight and overthrow the common enemy (England)."

He promised to show that funds for the conspiracy and revolution were furnished by the German government, that the defendants received these funds, that Franz Bopp, former German consul general, and the vice consul, E. H. Van Schack, were the German agents authorized to assist recruiting of Hindus in the United States.

John P. Craig, Long Beach ship-builder, sold the Maverick to the conspirators for the purpose of transporting the revolutionists and that the world plot was directed by a commission of seven Hindus who went to Germany from the United States on false passports.

Sukumar Chatterji, first witness on the stand in the Hindu plot trial, admitted late today that he heard Ram Chandra advocate in an address delivered here the kidnapping of British and loyal Indian officials and holding them for ransom. The money secured would go towards financing the revolution.

CLOTHING WILL GO HIGHER IN PRICE

Every Article Manufactured From Wool Making New Record

This article is written not to discourage the wearing of clothes, but to bring before the minds of the average citizens that about this time next year clothes of almost any kind will be a real luxury.

Broadcloth, sold by the jobbing houses three years ago at 92 cents a yard, is now quoted for delivery in the fall of 1918 at the rate of $3 a yard.

Today Fleisher's yarns are quoted wholesale at $2.80 a pound, or $14 for a five-pound package. Three years ago Fleisher's yarns were retailing at $1 a pound. Wool garments about this time next year will almost have silk prices.

Wearing cotton clothes will also come in the luxury class. Today the time honored cotton undershirt for men is on the shelves of many stores at the old time price of 30 cents per garment. This can last only while the present stocks last, as the quotations for the same garment on wholesale market is 66 cents per garment. The retailers may do business by selling said garment next fall for 75 cents, but they will be playing a losing game as any amateur in business knows that a profit of nine cents on a cost of 66 cents is heading towards the bankrupt court.

However, for fear the present generation may think it lives in the most strenuous times, there is but to remember prices during the last year of the Civil war. One of the big drygoods houses in New York has issued the price list of August 27, 1864.

The wholesale price list on that day for calico was from 43 to 50 cents. Today it is only from 12 to 15 cents. Dress gingham at that dark time of the war were quoted wholesale at from 40 to 48 cents as cotton was a pretty scarce article. Today the same gingham are worth from 15 to 20 cents.

Canton flannels on Aug. 27, 1864, were worth on the wholesale price list at from 44 to 80 cents a yard. Now they are only from 12 to 20 cents. Three years ago when the cotton market slumped to six cents a pound, the price was from six to 12, but now cotton is worth 27 cents a pound.

The man who buys overalls and kicks because they are twice as high as they were three years ago may thank his stars he wasn't buying in August of 1864. At that time the wholesale price of denim was from 12 to 15 cents. Today the same denim are quoted at from 27 to 32 cents. The union overall that was sold for $1 three years ago, cost the dealer more than that much wholesale today.

Apron checks were selling wholesale at from 52 to 55 cents a yard when Grant was hammering Lee's line after the battle of the Wilderness. The figure today is only 15 cents a yard.

Brown sheeting today is on the wholesale price list at from 16 to 18 cents. Then it was from 47 to 60 cents. Bleached cotton was so scarce that it sold for from 44 to 61 cents, compared to the present wholesale price of 16 to 20 cents.

Ten quarter peppercorn sheeting looks pretty high today with the wholesale price at from 23 to 42 cents, but the folks living during Civil war times were paying retail on wholesale basis of from 75 to $1.32 a yard.

he has attempted to assume dictatorial power not granted under the laws of our brotherhood. I and the membership generally resent his inference that I am responsible for any action taken by the northern locals.

"Under the laws of our brotherhood, a strike can be begun or called off only by referendum vote of the membership and not by any officer or individual. The membership of Washington, Oregon, California and Nevada voted to go on strike against the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, but because of Grasser's unauthorized interference the California locals were misled into breaking their pledge made to their sister locals."

CONSTIPATION CAUSES OBSTINATE HEADACHES

When your head aches you will usually find the bowels have been inactive, and if you relieve this condition, by clearing the intestinal organs of the fermenting congestion of stomach waste, foul gases and bile, the head is relieved immediately.

Remember this the next time you suffer from headache. The combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is highly recommended as a gentle laxative that acts easily and quickly, without griping or discomfort. It contains no opiate, narcotic, or habit-forming drug, is pleasant to the taste, and a most effective household remedy. Mothers find it especially desirable as a laxative for children.

You can buy Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your druggist for fifty cents. Get a bottle and have it in the house when needed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

Would Assume Powers of Dictator Over Unions

Portland, Or., Nov. 22.—L. G. Grasser, vice president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, evidently is trying to assume dictatorial powers over the unions in Oregon, Washington and Nevada, believes Frank Shubert, Portland business agent of the union.

Grasser, in San Francisco, Saturday is alleged to have said Shubert and Seattle officials would be removed from the organization unless northwest unions ended their present insurrection.

Shubert issued the following statement to the United Press: "If Mr. Grasser is correctly quoted, it bears out our contention that the Quinine That Does Not Affect Head

Destroyer Cut In Two By Transport Rose

Washington, Nov. 22.—The transport Rose practically cut the United States destroyer Chauncey in two, the navy department announced today, giving details of Monday's collision, which cost 21 lives.

"Both vessels were running without lights at the time of the accident, the Rose crashing into the Chauncey on the port side, abreast of the fourth funnel," today's official statement said. "The after portion of the destroyer immediately submerged and officers and men in that part were drowned. After the collision the remaining portion of the vessel floated about for an hour and the transport was thus enabled to receive the remainder of the officers and crew." They were taken to port by the Rose.
