ONE SUSPECT (Continued from Page One.)

Nothing has been found of the body of Station Keeper Decker, who was examining the bomb when the blast occurred. An insurance card with his name on it was found in the debris. It is believed his body was blown to atoms.

Efforts are under way to raise a fund for the families of those killed. Among the dead in the explosion are: Stephen H. Stecker, detective. Fred Kaiser, detective. Operator Spindler. Henry Decker, (desk sergeant. An unidentified woman. Among the seriously injured are: Detectives Fred Hartman and Bergen.

Lieutenant Flood, in charge of the station at night, escaped. While Manning, who discovered the bomb in the church and brought it to the police station, was being taken to the office of Lieutenant Flood for questioning Desk Sergeant Henry Decker took the bomb into the patrolman's room.

Meanwhile detectives were answering roll call on the second floor and just before dismissal they were informed that the bomb had been found. On going downstairs they grouped about the missile. Without warning it exploded, killing seven of the number instant ly.

The lower floor of the building was shattered. Police Must Solve Affair Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 26.—Upon the ability of police to break the silence of five suspects, depends the arrest of those responsible for the fatal bomb explosion at central police station Saturday night.

One man, apprehended Sunday, talked just how much light he shed upon the case is a secret with John T. Sullivan, captain of detectives. Sullivan admitted he had gained "important information."

He indicated that if the other suspects, arrested today, could be forced to divulge what they know, the makers of the bomb would be in hand by night fall.

It developed today that only ten were killed by the blast and two wounded. There were nine officers slaughtered and Miss Catherine Walker, who was leaving the station after making a complaint. Official reports denied an Italian boy was killed.

Congressman William J. Cary today appealed to A. Bruce Calkins, chief of the bureau of investigation, department of justice, for aid in clearing up the case. Cary's appeal asked federal aid to wipe out black handers all over the country.

skull, leading to the mental derangement which they hold responsible for her killing of De Saules. She said she had fallen against the andiron in her home in Chile and had hurt her head so severely that she had to go to bed. A few years ago she had suffered a sunstroke.

As an evidence of De Saules' treatment of her, she told how, in London, he invited an attaché of the American embassy to dine with them at the Carlton restaurant and then failed to appear, leaving her alone to entertain the stranger at dinner and take him to the theater.

Mrs. De Saules nearly always referred to her former husband merely as "De Saules." She declared that her mother-in-law asked her to assist in making De Saules drop the companionship of the Duke of Manchester. This was after the elder Mrs. De Saules had seen an article in Town Topics describing the party staged by De Saules at the Duke's, in which a celebrated Broadway dancer, name not given, became so exuberant that she dived off the pier.

A capacity crowd that included many society women was in the court room when Mrs. De Saules took the stand. Mrs. De Saules identified a check for $15,000 she had given her former husband in August, 1914.

Uterhart exhibited checks totaling more than $16,000 given De Saules in 1914.

"One afternoon I was on Mr. Hecker's motorboat," Mrs. De Saules told the jury. "I saw De Saules on the Duke of Manchester's yacht with many funny looking girls."

She said De Saules sold her automobile and pocketed the money. Uterhart read from an article in Town Topics describing a race horse party De Saules and the Duke of Manchester staged.

"Mrs. De Saules, I saw that I felt terribly scandalized," the witness said. "In London I found a card he had from a woman living in a fast quarter of the city. I was shocked. He told me the woman was crazy about him and had often kissed him."

The name of Joan Sawyer was brought into the trial for the first time this afternoon when Uterhart asked Mrs. De Saules if she knew who "Jo" was. She replied she did and mentioned the name. Hereafter she has been referred to merely as "Jo" or "Miss Jo."

Mrs. De Saules said she once visited her husband's bachelor quarters and was asked to remain over night. She declared she asked him to swear on "his sacred word of honor that no woman had ever stayed there with him" and was told none had.

"I learned later," she testified, "that Joan Sawyer had stayed there, it was horrible."

John Milholland, a brother of Inez Milholland Boissevain, told her, she said, of her husband's affair with Joan Sawyer and said every one in town knew it.

stand. Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt was among the spectators. The pretty defendant bowed to the jury and smiled when she entered the room.

Attorney Uterhart, her counsel, opened the questioning of Mrs. De Saules.

She replied in a low, soft voice, with a slight accent. She looked like a school girl, answering questions in class.

She began by describing her meeting with De Saules in February, 1911. "He wanted to marry me," she replied.

And then she told of her marriage to the ex-Yale football star in Paris. "That picture of me," she said, "was taken the day before our wedding."

She told of how De Saules continually demanded money of her after their marriage. De Saules, she said, bought her a revolver for her protection while he was away on a political campaign. Uterhart produced a revolver and handed it to Mrs. De Saules for identification. She refused to take it, shuddered and turned away.

Mrs. De Saules then described her husband's neglect of her in South Both loham after their child was born. "He was home only for week ends," she said. "It wasn't very nice."

In Washington, she said, her husband showed her a picture of an actress with "love to Jack" inscribed on it. Uterhart read the jury a letter Mrs. De Saules wrote her husband from South Bothloham.

"I feel so lonely now, precious," she wrote. "I don't know what to do. Take care of yourself, darling, and may God grant you success. Love and kisses. Your devoted Dada girl."

Uterhart read many letters filled with endearing terms imploring De Saules to return home. She called De Saules "Dada boy" and "sweetheart precious."

Her Fight for Life Mincola, L. I., Nov. 26.—Blanc De Saules faced the supreme test of her fragile life today when she went on the witness stand to bare her soul, to tell the jury why and how she killed her divorced husband, John L. De Saules, wealthy clubman and Yale athlete.

The little Chilean woman planned to reveal everything, from the day she met the dashing young American at the races in the Vina Del Mar, Chile, until she shot him in his country home at Roslyn, L. I., when he refused to give her their little boy.

District Attorney Weeks was ready for a bitter fight against some of this testimony. He is preparing for a grueling cross examination. "I will not spare Mrs. De Saules," he said.

Another fight was in sight over the intention of Defense Counsel Uterhart to go to the jury all testimony taken in the De Saules divorce case.

Before coming to court today Mrs. De Saules put in her orders for a full Thanksgiving dinner for every one of the seventy five prisoners in the Nassau county jail.

A big crowd was in court, many of the men behind the spectators' railing being in khaki—soldiers from Camp Mills and the Mincola aviation camp nearby.

Mrs. De Saules spent Sunday in bed, nursing for today's nerve racking test. Her physicians declared she was very weak and that she might collapse on the stand.

THE MARKETS

TO AVOID ROUGH, COARSE CHAPPED, BLOTCHY SKIN Most skins require constant grooming at this season to keep them from becoming dull and dry, rough, coarse, rough or harsh, or if such condition has developed, to overcome it. In such cases it is particularly inadvisable to keep piling on cosmetics which clog the pores and make the complexion worse than ever.

It's a lot more sensible to use ordinary mercurized wax, which literally absorbs a spoiled complexion. Apply the wax, like cold cream, before retiring. Next morning, in washing it off, you'll wash away fine, flour like particles of the unightly outfit. Repeat for a week or more and you'll have an entirely new skin—soft, white, spotless and beautiful as a child's. One ounce of mercurized wax, procurable at any druggist's is all you'll need.

A party just in from eastern Oregon said country butter was selling at the country stores at 50 cents a pound in that part of the state.

Monday is not much of a market day and no changes are noted. Thanksgiving buyers for the big dinner may pay 35 cents a pound for choice turkeys with seconds and culls at probably from eight to ten cents less. Roseburg has a big supply of the national birds this year.

Russia's armies, has been unable to assume his new post. General Dukhomin, whom the bolsheviks dismissed when he refused to transmit the armistice proffer, insists upon retaining control. He served formal notice on the bolshevik leaders and Krylenko that if Krylenko appeared at army headquarters he would be arrested.

Proposes Armistice. Zurich, Nov. 26.—The new Russian army commander-in-chief, General Krylenko, has made formal armistice proposals to the German and Austrian supreme commands, according to word received here. No details were given and it was not known whether any Russian had been formally received by German commanders, or whether the armistice proffer had been transmitted by wireless.

Titles Are Abolished. Petrograd, Nov. 27.—Abolition of all titles of nobility was announced in an order by the bolshevik government today.

The same proclamation announced confiscation of all corporate property of nobles, merchants and bourgeois.

Troops Fraternize. Petrograd, Nov. 26.—Fraternization of Russian and enemy troops south of Narotch lake, near the villages of Skrobova and Obokovskichina, was announced in Sunday's official headquarters statement, received here today.

"On the northern, western, south-western and Rumanian fronts," the statement continued, "there were successful and scouting operations."

"On the Caucasian front, southwest of Gornikhama, strong Turkish forces were repulsed."

No official statement was issued for Monday.

ROBBERY IN CLEVELAND. Cleveland, Nov. 26.—Twenty five to thirty thousand dollars was taken and three watchmen were bound and imprisoned in a vault all night by safe-blowers, who last night blew the safe in the Higbee company department store here, it was discovered today.

Thousands of dollars worth of furs and leather goods was also taken, according to the police.

Two of the watchmen were handcuffed together. The robbers worked on the safe an hour before they got it open. No arrests have been made.
