WOULD SELL BOATS OF TRANSPORTATION COMPANY TO CITY

Merchants of River Towns Have Not Patronized River Line Sufficiently

A proposition for the purchase of the steamboats Oregon and Pomona was placed before the directors of the Salem Commercial club last evening by Frank J. Smith, a steamboat broker of Portland. Owing to the fact that the merchants have not patronized the boat line sufficiently and that the Oregon City Transportation company has been operated at a loss, Mr. Smith put it up to the directors that Salem could best maintain a steamboat line by purchasing the two steamboats and operating them as a community owned company. Without going into the details as to what might happen to the present boat facilities, the inference was given that there was a possibility of the Oregon City Transportation company taking its boats off the Willamette river. According to the figures of Mr. Smith, there is enough freight between Salem and Portland to make a boat line a paying proposition but it seems that in recent years, no effort has been made to route sufficient freight over the boat line to justify the owners in maintaining a service. In this respect, Independence and Corvallis have both been rather negligent in patronizing the river service, according to Mr. Smith.

vice to Salem cannot be continued with the amount of patronage it has received in the past year from the merchants of the city.

It's rather a good thing that the hot weather is over else those food pledge cards hanging in the windows would keep the ice man guessing.

The boys of the Salem high school have the proper military spirit as about 60 have joined Company A. But while they have the patriotic spirit, there is considerable difficulty in finding rifles of any old kind for drilling. Superintendent Todd has been corresponding and endeavoring to locate anything that looked like a rifle, but so far, has been unable to find anything that might add to the thrills of military instruction for the young patriots. At the meeting of the board of directors last evening the resignation of Mrs. Josephine Gilbert of the Lincoln junior high school was received and accepted.

A story evidently coming from pro-German sources in the city is in circulation to the effect that woolen socks and other woolen goods needed by the soldiers cannot be mailed. Yesterday a woman bought several pairs of woolen socks from one of the men's clothing stores and was about to send them to her son in the service, when she was informed that such were not mailable. She returned the socks to the store from which they were bought, explaining that she had been informed that they were unmailable. For the benefit of the public who are thinking of remembering soldier boys, it may be said that there has been no changes in the postoffice laws as to what can be mailed. Heretofore, liquids and merchandise that would injure other mail were not mailable and this still holds good. Mail to a foreign country is subject to opening and inspection, but packages to soldiers or to any address in this country are not inspected.

"Ramona" often termed the sweetest story ever told, will be told again at the Liberty theatre three days beginning next Friday. The story as written by Helen Hunt Jackson is especially familiar to the readers of fiction a generation ago and its interest holds for the readers of the present day.

At the turkey shoot held by the members of the Salem Rifle club last evening at the old armory, several local experts were provided with their Thanksgiving birds. Turkeys were won by H. P. Doe, Victor Doodruff, I. B. Goodman, and Bert W. Macy. Geese were won by A. B. Poole and Fred Day. The chicken was awarded to M. J. DeLapp. High scores were made by H. P. Doe M. J. DeLapp, who scored 48 out of a possible 50, B. W. Macy and Fred Day scored 47 each, and A. B. Poole, 46. About 20 men were present taking part in the shoot. It is probable another will be held before Christmas.

When it comes to the recruiting of men for the navy, the northwestern part of the Pacific coast with headquarters at Portland is making by far the best record of any division in the northwest. For the week ending Nov. 23, the navy recruits from the Portland district were as follows: Portland, 88; Spokane, 46; Salem, 6; Pendleton 4; Marahfield, 9; making a total of 144 for the district. And while the Portland district was showing up with 144, the Seattle district reported 100, San Francisco 56; Denver, 51; and the Los Angeles district 44; Portland percentage was 1.291 while Los Angeles went short of its quota on a per centage of .874 and San Francisco shot .993 per cent.

One recruit showed up today at the army recruiting station. His name is Karl Butcher, 20 years old, coming from Albany. He chose the coast artillery. Business has been pretty good at the recruiting station so far this month 21 men have been forwarded. Marion county does not get credits for all recruits received at this station as it is a ruling of the war department that when a man enlists the county in which he claims his home is given credit.

A five-acre tract in the Garden Home tracts was sold today by J. E. Scott to M. J. Morrison of Falls City. Mr. Morrison will make his home on the tract.

J. L. Busick & Son will open another cash grocery store Dec. 1, in the building at 387 Court street, adjoining the Steuseloff meat market. The same plan will be followed as in their other three stores, excepting in this fourth store a much larger stock will be carried. According to Mr. Busick, it is through their "cash and carry" plan that they have been enabled to save money for the public and to have built up a business of four stores within two years.

Benjamin Brick, the State street merchant announces that he will open a branch store in Tacoma early in the year. He has already leased one of the best locations in the city on Pacific avenue and the owner of the building is remodeling the front according to plans drawn by Mr. Brick. He says business is booming at Tacoma and that the merchants of that city have the assurance of the war department that soldiers will be kept at American Lake cantonment for several years. Mr. Brick will continue to operate his store in Salem

CANCER CURED IN 11 DAYS

Miss Margaret Russell, 1135 N. Fifteenth St., Salem, Or., explains wonderful cure.

To Those Afflicted with Cancer: I deem it a great privilege to be able to testify to the absolute cure of cancer on the side of my nose from which suffered for three years.

On July 14, 1916, I applied to Dr. S. C. Stone for treatment. He applied a paste for four days and then a simple ointment. In just eleven days after the first treatment the cancer fell out. The place soon healed and is now sound and well.
