W. P. George and wife and daughter Isabel have just returned from a two week's visit with relatives in Idaho. There was a family reunion New Year's day at which 33 sat down to a big dinner. He says the superfluous fat so noticeable on him, is due to the way the folks in Idaho fed him up during the holidays and just forced him to absorb chicken and such things. The weather he says is about as it is here, warm and wet.

The lecture which was scheduled for tomorrow night at the public library has been postponed to an indefinite date, in order to allow all who can to attend the mass meeting at the armory tomorrow night called for the purpose of hearing the Canadian army officers who arrive in the city tomorrow. Miss Case, librarian, states that an effort will be made to have Prof. Dunn here at another date to give his illustrated lecture on "A Trip Through Rome."

Complaint has been made of the mutilation of the U. S. army and navy posters which have been placed at various places over the city. The posters in some places have been marked with lead pencils and cut up with knives. In many instances it appears the mutilation has been the work of school children passing by. In other cases it may have been the work of pro-Germans. The recruiting officers would call the attention of parents to the matter, and matured persons. If the depredations are continued, will have Uncle Sam to deal with. The maximum penalty is a fine of $5000, or two years in federal prison, or both.

Messrs. Elvin, Halvorsen and Watson are bustling around and will make every effort to get away on Thursday afternoon at 4:15 for New York city.

HE HELPED HIMSELF

A man named Williams was employed by George Palmer a few days ago to work on his farm. He was a stranger, wanted work, and as Mr. Palmer had the work he coupled the two together. Yesterday afternoon he took advantage of a good opportunity when no one was around, so it is claimed, and helping himself to a gold watch, a suit of clothes and a $20 greenback he boarded Mr. Palmer's Ford car and started on a little tour of his own. He was captured at Halsey this morning and Sheriff Needham is expected back with him and his plunder before night.

Caldwell; treasurer, Mrs. Edith White; Chaplain, Mrs. Mary R. Davis; guide, Mr. Charles Davis; inner guard, Mr. Arthur Waleh; outer guard, Mrs. Eugenia Giltingham; trustee, Mrs. Rose Babeack.

Some delay has been experienced by the school board in securing the rifles which were ordered several weeks ago for use of the high school cadet corps. The board found that before the rifles could be shipped a permit would have to be secured from the chief of police allowing them to be shipped into the city. This was secured and sent over a week ago. The arms are stored in the government arsenal at Murry, Wash., and considerable red tape has been encountered in getting them. The board will be able to get about 60 guns out of the 100 they ordered. They expect to receive the arms within a few days. The cadet corps will be increased to sufficient numbers for all the rifle to be in use.

WOULD SUPPLY SKIN.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 8.—Following an article published in a local newspaper yesterday telling how Harry Weigher, a Portland youth could not join the army until he had undergone an operation for the grafting of skin on a wound he received when he was burned by electricity, Paul A. Thompson, 4529 Thackeray Place, Seattle, has today offered to furnish his quota of skin for the Portland lad.

BOLSHEVIKI STIRRED GERMAN LIBERALS

If they Unite Government's Majority in Reichstag Will Be In Danger

London, Jan. 8.—Whether Germany's liberals, now, for the first time reported united in opposition to the German government, will do anything more than criticize the autocracy's scheme of annexations conceived in the Basso-German peace negotiations, was the subject of wide speculation here today.

Proceedings at the main reichstag committee meetings of the past few days as passed by German censors, show that for once Majority Socialist Leader Scheidemann and Minority Socialist Leader Haas are together in denouncing the government. Maximilian Harden, too, is fulminating thunderous criticisms for the Brest-Litovsk "concessions," announced by Germany.

If the Scheidemann group of near liberals joins completely with the radicals, the government's majority in the reichstag will be seriously menaced. Dispatches from Berlin by way of Holland today indicated that a movement to this end, directed against Foreign Minister Kuehlmann, was definitely under way.

Observers here today held that the Bolsheviki government had accomplished at least one remarkable thing in the separate peace endeavors, and that was it had apparently inspired the German liberals to a more fearless policy of opposition to the government. German despotism is too firmly rooted in the Kaiser's empire to have it greatly affected by even a coalition of all the liberal elements, but in the view here the seeds of discontent against autocracy have been sown by the Russian attempts to break down the wall of militarism.

Seattle Women Will Not Run Street Cars

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 8.—Women may vote in Washington but grabbing nickels on the back platform of a street car—not.

We are not to have conductresses, along with taxi drivers and lady elevator operators and such. The State public service commission so ruled last night.

The ruling followed an all day session in the chamber of commerce where the matter was thoroughly discussed. The commission believed that it would endanger the health of the weaker sex to be exposed to the weather eight hours a day.

The commission indicated that a petition for a six cent fare would be acceptable if the traction company could show the need of a raise in the price of transportation. It was suggested that steam lines be used in conveying shipyard employes to and from their work.

Nine Train Schedule to Sound Is Renewed

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 8.—The cutting down of passenger service and equipment out of Tacoma, including reduction of three trains daily to Portland, was merely an emergency measure brought about by the serious flood conditions recently.

This was made certain today when all lines announced complete resumption of their old schedules, in force before the heavy rains and floods interfered with traffic and caused congestion of freight.

Beginning tonight, the former nine trains each way, instead of three, will be operated between Tacoma and Portland, with full equipment, including observation cars, diners and sleepers. Of these, the O. W. R. & N. Northern Pacific and Great Northern each will operate three.

The announcement also carries with it cancellation of the order allowing in change of tickets on the various lines. Soliciting of freight and passenger traffic will be continued.

Transcontinental train service over the Cascades was resumed by the Milwaukee road today. The Northern Pacific will begin operation tomorrow morning.

The American peace terms were sent throughout England via the exchange Telegraph company, British connection of the United Press, through France by the Agence Radio, through the Orient by the Nipponden Agency of Tokio; throughout South America by the United Press bureau at Buenos Aires, controlling the United Press machinery on that continent; through the Antipodes by the Australian Press association, a connection of the United Press.
