INTIMATE WAR EXPERIENCES AND OBSERVATIONS OF LOWELL MELLETT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Dec. 1.—The train for Versailles is a nine o'clock train which leaves at 9:30. It is a half hour's run on the schedules but the train arrives at 11 o'clock.

The Palace Hotel is located somewhere around the corner from the Trignon Palace I didn't see it. As the horses, exempted from army service for the reason that his gait was more like a retreat than a charge, turned into a street somewhere in the vicinity of the hotel, half a dozen French officers—not mere privates—barred his path and he joyfully stopped. The officers explained that the hotel was "out of bounds" except for the public, the public meaning everybody except the military.

So I had to leave Clemenceau, Lloyd George, Col. House and the rest working out the problems of the Supreme War Council unaided and tram back to Paris.

The gardens of the Trignon were not interdicted—that word crops up as frequently as verboten is said to in Germany. But the gardens were bleak and cheerless in the winter wind.

Met Charles Grasty of the New York Times, later in town. Seems he had landed in the Palace hotel parlor on the strength of his military bearing or something, but that he had landed outside again soon after. He had a complaint to make about the War Conference to the effect that the better you know the conferees the less you learned. It's often true.

Inez Haynes Gilmore, who calls her husband will Irwin, that being his name is having an interesting time in Paris. "There's so much to see and write about that it is almost bewildering," she avers.

Mrs. Herbert Adams Gibbon, present likewise, gave me the reassuring information that he is not the venal, venable greyhound that his admirable articles on international politics would lead one to suppose; contrarily, he is only 37. It will be possible to read his stuff for some years yet.

Both Irwin and Gibbon have been enlisted for war work. Irwin is lecturing to Americans in Y. M. C. A. huts at the front and Gibbon is lecturing in the south of France to the French people.

BE CAREFUL IN USING SOAP ON YOUR HAIR

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulberried cocconut oil, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else at any drug store.

PALACE IS BOMBED

Geneva, Feb. 5.—German strikers threw a bomb against the imperial palace in Berlin, according to dispatches received from that city today by the Journal De Geneva. No details were received.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons. If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract.

French Press Comments Stand of Inter-Allied Council

Paris, Feb. 5.—The French press was unanimous today in commendation of the inter-allied war council's statement that Teutonic peace terms are unacceptable and that the war must continue. The principal editorial comments included: "Excelsior: 'With concise strength, the statement shows responsibility of the central empires governments for prolongation of the war. It is a simple, clear response to Hertling and Coerstin.'"

CLEVER GENERALSHIP OF PHILLY LEADER

More Than Anything Else Moran's Management Has Helped Quaker Club

Following is the seventh of a series comparing the major league clubs. The eighth will appear in an early issue.

By H. C. Hamilton (United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Feb. 5.—Clever field generalship, hard work at keeping his men in condition, and a constant application at all times to business by Pat Moran is the thing that has kept the Phillies in the National league race ever since he succeeded Charley Boon as leader of the Philadelphia club.

Moran has not had a team of stars. He has had a fairly good club at all times. He has had the best pitcher in the National league, one of the finest shortstops in either league, a brilliant catcher, one sterling outfielder, and just a fair assortment of other ball players. Most of his men are veterans and have been considered so for years.

They are not whizzes at running bases, but they are the reasons why anyone who picks the Phillies as a team which is due to collapse had better think again. It is a certainty that the Phillies are not going into the race this year with the backing that has followed them for some years. The team is not so good as it was a year ago, nor is it so good as it was two years ago—but it still is a first division aggregation, and that's where it doubtless will finish.

In bowailing the loss of Grover Alexander it is well to remember that after all Alexander may leave a few games for the Phillies, for the purchase of that star by the Cubs became null after he had been drafted. Chances are Alexander will not be ordered to report until some time during the summer. If Charles Weighman cares little enough about a lot of dollars to pay a huge sum for the hurler he can't have him for that short period. But it isn't likely he will. Even if Alexander doesn't pitch a game for the Phillies there still remains a good staff in Quaker town. Chief Beeder did some funny things with a baseball last summer and when it gets hot again he may be able to repeat.

In addition to the Chief, Moran has Baumgartner, Fittery, Buckles, Mayer, Oeschler, Davis, Prendergast, and Woodward. Davis, in Moran's expectations, will become a real big leaguer. He was credited with being among the best of the American Association's right-handers last season and has had a lot of experience.

The Philly infield is intact, with some units slowing up. The outfield isn't quite so good as last year, but it still has one remarkable star in George Whitted. Moran expects Eddie Burns to capably fill the place left by Bill Killee and has a fine understudy in Jack Adams.

Moran gets the last thing in efficiency out of his ball club. It may be his year to spring another surprise.

Bolo Pasha On Trial For Plotting In Paris

Paris, Feb. 5.—Bolo Pasha, charged with plotting debauchery of the French press with German money, went on trial here yesterday.

Attorney Salles, his counsel, charged that Count Von Bernstorff was responsible for the accusations against Bolo. He asked adjournment of the case.

A fashionable crowd was present. Among the eighty three witnesses were Mme. Bolo, former Premier Caillaux and Senator Humbert.

Bolo, in sombre attire, stood in the dock and regarded the court through a monocle, while the indictment was read.

Senator Humbert, owner of the Paris Journal, was alleged to have received funds handled by Bolo Pasha. Former Premier Caillaux was openly accused of plotting to regain the premier ship, overthrow the present government officials and conduct a referendum vote on a separate peace with Germany.

Considerable Sickness Reported at San Antonio

J. B. Littler, manager of the Bootery has received the following letter from H. J. ("Bunny") Meiring, who is stationed at San Antonio, Texas. At the time the letter was written a cold wave had struck San Antonio causing much sickness and suffering among the men.

Dear Friend: Received your letter and wish to thank you for sending my drill manual, although I don't need it very often, I like to have it around. I know more about drilling here than the officers, for drill in the Q. M. corps is just a side issue, and we only have 30 minutes a day of it, but the officers don't know anything about it so I have it over them.

No doubt it would interest you to know just how I am getting along. Well I am alright and if I keep well J. B. I'll be able to get through this struggle but if I should ever get sick I'll throw up the sponge, because there are so many men here, the officers can't half take care of them. It gets so terribly cold and the boys aren't used to it. One day it will be very hot and in two hours it will be freezing cold.

For instance, yesterday it was about 90 degrees in the shade and before 7 o'clock last night the wind was blowing a gale and it was freezing. It's what the people here call northerners, and they come up in 15 minutes and last probably two or three days.

Last week we had one and it snowed. I woke up in the morning, sleeping under a blanket of snow, some pleasant believe me. Not much like Oregon and we are living in tents which adds to our discomfort. Our food is very poor and would give a whole lot if I could sit down to one of mother's good meals today. But no such luck.

Our camp is just a few miles from San Antonio and we are free to go to town after 6 o'clock, evenings, provided we are back by eleven. I make a trip here to the Elk's club very often, which is surely a home away from home. I spend most of my time here when I am in town.

San Antonio is a city of about 100,000, and rather pretty, with a lot of nice buildings and nice stores, but the streets are very narrow, worse than Portland, and with the 100,000 soldiers stationed here it's almost impossible to get anywhere in the evening. The streets are just packed. Nearly all the men you see are in uniform. A young man in civilian clothes is surely out of place here.

Where I am sitting I can see the old Alamo Fort, which you probably have read about in history. I know Robert has. It's a quaint old fort, mostly in ruins now, and the city seems to be built around this historical place. I have seen a lot of interesting places and will probably see many more before I get back—whenever that will be.

Am sorry I didn't get to see you before I left, but always had so many things to do when I came home on furlough. Hope you, Mrs. and Robert are enjoying the best of health, and give A. C. my regards. Tell Robert I received his letter and will answer it in a few days.

Best regards to all the Littlers and Mrs. Upmeyer.

Write me again J. B. I enjoy your letters.

Sincerely, BUNNY.

spend two years, according to the sentence of the federal court. She was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. John Whalen. Whalen is a deputy United States marshal.

"However," observes Colonel Clark Wood of the Weston Leader, "we have not noticed that President Wilson has ever suggested a war congress to come to the aid of the common or garden seed variety."

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUSS, President American Society for Thrift

Any practice which ceases to be constructive ceases to be thrift. Thrift is the elimination of waste—the conservation of resources—it is a continual process of up-building.

The thrifty man is never at a standstill. In the present national crisis, thrift has proved a bulwark of strength to our country. Not only have we done away with waste to a very great extent but we have increased our productivity enormously. We are uncovering new sources of food on sea and land, and we are applying more intensive methods in all departments of agriculture.

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the patriotic and economic value of the war garden at this time. Millions of our citizens know little or nothing about raising fruit, vegetables and poultry, yet a considerable proportion of these Americans are so situated that they can contribute to the nation's food supply this summer.

London Newspapers Commend Council's Stand

London, Feb. 5.—The statement issued by the inter-allied war council in Versailles, declaring the Teuton peace terms are impossible and that the war must go on, met with general approval from the London morning newspapers. The only criticism was in the News.

The News declared the people should know the details of the enlarged powers of the council. It also criticized the council's lack of appeal to the democracy and its failure to re-state allied war aims.

The Times' attitude was typical of the remainder of the morning papers. "The council's statement tends to dispel the deceptive peace fog that gathered artificially and thickened in many allied capitals during the drear months of winter," declared the Times.

The Post said: "The supreme war council realized that only a military effort by the allies could change the temper of the enemy so as to justify the hope of a real peace."

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of this Hamburg tea, pour a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoonful at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieves congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

These data are gathered from semi-tropic items in the Cosmopolitan Sentinel: First white frost of the season on January 20; people gardening; January afternoons more delightful than some sections ever see in the whole year; stock bees growing right on through the winter months; no snow in the Saltzman mountains; cattle don't care a hoot whether any hay was put up last summer or not.

Kidney Trouble Often Causes Serious Backache

When your back aches, and your bladder and kidneys seem to be disordered, get to your nearest drug store and get a bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. It is a physician's prescription for ailments of the kidneys and bladder. It has stood the test of years and has a reputation for quickly and effectively giving results in thousands of cases. This preparation is so very effective, has been placed on sale everywhere. Get a bottle, medium or large size, at your nearest druggist. However, if you wish first to test this preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the Salem Daily Capital Journal.
