MOVIE STARS WILL PAY MILLIONS FOR WARFARE

Mary Pickford Will Pledge Up $230,000 and Other Celebrities in Proportion

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 13.—Millions from the "movies" for America, is the maxim of such of filmdom's foremost stars as Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin, Treda Bara, William S. Hart and other cinema celebrities.

Called upon by the government for payment of taxes, war and otherwise, they are preparing to pour into the war chest of the nation a sum that will make some of the money barons' tax receipts shrink by comparison.

Easily over a million dollars will be paid by only a few of the picture players, it was learned today when figures gathered by the United Press from the stars themselves, showed a total running into nine figures. Leading the list is Douglas Fairbanks, whose income tax and excess profits tax, together with other taxes levied by the government is $450,000. Fairbanks' secretary announced the figures after consulting with the United States Tax Collector Carter.

Mary Pickford hands Uncle Sam her check for $230,000, levied on her 1917 earnings as income tax, war income tax, excessive profits tax, surtax and other members of the tax family since Hohenzollernism came to be the thing to be demagogued at whatever the cost.

If 1918 figures were counted, Char. Chaplin passes the government $100,000, over half a million dollars. Based on 1917 income, on which tax is levied, Chaplin passes the government $100,000. This figure, his secretary insisted on explaining, was due to Chaplin being idle a number of months of the year when he completed a contract in mid-year and then devoted his time to building his studio.

Theda Bara, whose secretary admits pays "an enormous" income tax, is reticent about actual figures, nevertheless.

"It is not a matter on which the public should be informed," she believes, and is echoed by lesser lights.

Colored Man Shot Wife and Suicided

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 13.—Jessie McConeico, colored, shot his wife, Nora, three times early today with a large revolver and then turned the weapon on himself, ending his life. Mrs. McConeico is in the county hospital and is not expected to live. The McConeicos had been separated for some time. McConeico had been employed in Seattle for some time. He came from Seattle by automobile early this morning and invited his wife to drive with him. They had gone but a short distance when McConeico told his wife that he intended to kill her. The woman leaped from the car and ran into a cigar store. Her husband followed her and fired three shots into her body, then turned the gun on himself.

English Military Critic Will Be Prosecuted

London, Feb. 13.—Information was lodged today against the Morning Post and Colonel Repington, its chief military critic, charging violation of the defense of the realm act.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Bonar Law announced in the house of commons that both Repington and the Morning Post would be prosecuted for publishing information concerning the work of the inter-allied council at Versailles.

George B. Lockwood, publisher national republican weekly of Washington: "Mr. Hays is a marvel of energy efficiency and devotion. As an organizer and leader he is without a peer in the party. He will make a great national chairman."

Will H. Hays Elected

State central committee in 1912. His ability as an organizer and harmonizer caused him to be placed at the head of the state republican committee after two years service among the rank and file. He took office at a time when the party in the state was widely split on the rocks of progressivism and the democrats were in complete control of the situation.

Under Hays leadership the strength of the party slowly grew until in 1916 the republicans overthrew the democratic supremacy, delivered the state to Hughes and elected two republican United States senators to replace two democrats.

It was on the strength of that record that Hays friends rallied, in the contest for national chairman.

Leaders Are Satisfied. Frank Hitchcock, former postmaster general said: "Personally I am delighted. I wanted a peaceful settlement. Mr. Adams showed the proper party spirit. Mr. Hays is an acceptable, efficient man."

Governor James P. Goodrich, Indiana: "Mr. Adams showed a fine spirit in withdrawing and demonstrated that he placed his loyalty to the party above any personal interest. It means the complete union of the republican party with every one satisfied."

Committeeman Fred Stanley, Kansas: "I think Mr. Adams' action will meet the entire approval of the party. Hays will make a splendid chairman."

Thompson for Peace. St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 13.—Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago, republican national committeeman from Illinois, offered a resolution in which he called upon the party to exert its influence that the people "may be upheld in their proper freedom to discuss the objects of the existing war."

The resolution was referred to the resolution committee. It cited the power of congress to declare war and continued: "But as a restraint upon this power the constitution expressly limits the life of the appropriations of money to that use for term not to exceed two years with the manifest intention of vesting in the people the final voice as to the wisdom and purposes of their own conflicts and policies relating thereto."

The committee is further called upon to use its influence for "free discussion as to the completeness of preparation and equipment, the efficiency of the war's conduct, the adequacy of national defense, the expense in money and men confronting us and the terms upon which they are willing to conclude a just, honorable and enduring peace."

ENGINEERS VOLUNTEER FOR TANK SERVICE

Four Hundred Men From Locomotives Are Willing to Risk Lives

Washington, Feb. 13.—Locomotive engineers are volunteering for tank service in France. At the request of Secretary Baker, names of 400 locomotive engineers, willing to risk their lives to roll the big catapults across No Man's Land were furnished by W. S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, it was developed today before the federal wage commission.

"Engineers are as patriotic as any Americans," Stone declared, "and we will sacrifice our last dollar and our last drop of blood if necessary."

"When the government took over the railroads I advised against any concerted wage movement. We realized that the crisis of the war was approaching and we did not want to jeopardize train service."

Never before had railroads made so little preparation for winter operations, Stone declared in discussing the present climatic conditions. He injected a plea for the lower paid railroad employees.

"Engineers are the highest paid of railroad employes," he said. "And though they ask the same consideration in wage increases as are given other employes, they realize that the greatest wage increase should go to the low paid men."

ALKALI MAKES SOAP BAD FOR WASHING HAIR

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain purified coconut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps for anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust dirt and dandruff.

Buffalo Is Flooded by Rain and Thaw

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Rain and melting snow flooded more than a square mile of the city today. The water in more than twenty streets floated furniture around on the first floor of hundreds of homes and rowboats became the only means of transportation.

At Woodland Beach early today, nearly 100 fishermen were rescued from an ice floe which had broken loose from the south shore of Lake Erie. Five of the fishermen were adrift on a small floe were brought in by the coast guard in a power boat.

time and a half in excess of eight hours, was asked by Stone for locomotive engineers.

Stone vigorously denounced the action of railroads in employing women to wipe engines, shovel coal and do track work.

"England only did it after three years of war," Stone said, "and even they were placed at inside positions. We started this the first thing while there were thousands of men to draw from."

Stone attacked the railroads for forbidding employees to hold public office.

Stone in complaining of the long hours of service stated that 20 and 30 hours continuous service was common and that he had known engineers to be held sixty five and even seventy hours.

"Last year there were a total of 101,000 cases where men worked more than 16 hours a day," Stone said. "There is only one remedy for this, penalty overtime."

The phrase "aristocrats of labor" applied to locomotive engineers is misleading and was circulated by the railroads as propaganda, Stone said. The average monthly wage of locomotive engineers is about $142, he said.

"The railroads today would force us down to the level of unorganized labor if they could," he declared. "We have, by hard work, forced our way up to where we now, at least, command the respect."

GERMANS MASSING

the menace of a Swiss revolution and Hindenburg's offensives?

CONCENTRATION CAUSED BY AMERICAN ARMY

By J. W. T. Mason (Written for the United Press) New York, Feb. 13.—America's rapidly growing army along the Alsace-Lorraine border is responsible for Germany's heavy concentration of troops near the Swiss frontier described in William Philip Simms dispatch to the United Press.

The Swiss government recently requested the United States to give assurances that Swiss neutrality would not be violated by General Pershing's forces. The United States replied that if Germany and Austria respected the neutrality of Swiss territory, so would America.

This plain intimation that the area of hostilities might overwhelm Switzerland has since been followed by the increasing despatch of German troops to that region. It is there that the allies front most nearly approaches the Rhine, when is about 15 miles distant.

If Von Hindenburg orders an offensive near the Swiss frontier, his sole object would be to try to force back the allies' line before General Pershing is fully prepared to strike. Apart from this, there is nothing that could result from such an offensive, which would be in any way commensurate with Germany's heavy casualties.

It would be a risky proceeding for Von Hindenburg to take the initiative near the Swiss area, even to try to safeguard the Rhine from American occupation. Von Hindenburg is in the unenviable position of not knowing definitely whether General Pershing really intends making a drive close to Switzerland. The American section of the French front centers at present at Xivray, which is 150 miles north of the Swiss border. If General Pershing moves forward from Xivray his objective will probably be Metz and not the Rhine at all. The fall of Metz would be brought appreciably nearer if Von Hindenburg had previously caused his reserves to be slaughtered in useless offensives to save the Rhine, at a point far from the main American position.

German troops near Switzerland are keeping the Swiss uneasy but they are being kept far more uneasy themselves by the secrecy which is successfully veiling General Pershing's forthcoming offensive.

000 tons and this year they will be further cut to 26,000,000—and consist almost entirely of war materials.

"That's why I say England and America must at least shed her coat," he said. "We hear frequent complaints that there is profiteering in Great Britain. There may be individual cases there, as in every other country—but they are isolated cases."

"It is complained that England is exporting luxuries, such as clothes. But she must make some effort to maintain a trade balance for if English credit goes the allies are gone."

"So the English are exporting goods which take up the smallest tonnage possible and yet net the largest financial return."

Just how much imports must be cut has not yet been determined. The estimate that at least 50 per cent must
