

SOCIETY and CLUBS

By CAROL S. DIBBLE

LOOMING brilliantly among the lesser events listed in the social calendar of the season, and assuming paramount importance among the affairs of next week will be the Cherrian grand ball to be given on Friday, February 22, as a Red Cross benefit at the armory. The all embracing term of "most informal" has, of a necessity, been appended to nearly all social functions for so long, that it is with a sense of eager relief that at last an event appears on the social horizon, which may justly be heralded as both a formal and brilliant affair. Its very essence for being the ever increasing needs of the Red Cross, give full impetus for this Cherrian ball to outdistance all functions of the winter in point of elaborate detail, if it only bring equal remuneration to the Red Cross coffers.

A special ten piece orchestra has been secured and stepping enthusiasts are already anticipating the delight that is assured, when the musicians for a dance are masters of their art. As for the decorations, which will naturally be in keeping with Washington's birthday, there is much to be guessed and little to be said. For he it known, the decorations are in the hands of a committee, who are devoting much time and ingenuity to the setting of the Cherrian hall; but that is all that is known, except for an occasional rumor of some surpassing novel device which is being concocted for the eyes of the assembled guests on the night of the twenty second.

Out of town society folk including many Portlanders have signified their intentions of attending the Cherrian ball. And as the Cherrians hold a long record of "going over the top," when a big undertaking is to be launched, the eagerness of those planning to attend will, without doubt, be fully gratified.

The tickets, proceeds of which will go to the Willamette chapter of the Red Cross, may be had by applying to the members of the Cherrian organization.

The patronesses for the ball are: Mrs. James W. Thyer, Mrs. John B. Kay, Mrs. Ben W. Oloft, Mrs. John J. Roberts, Mrs. Thos. A. Lively, Mrs. William Burghardt, Jr., Mrs. W. M. Plimpton, Mrs. Wm. Hamilton, Mrs. H. H. Olinger, Mrs. M. L. Meyers, Mrs. C. S. Hamilton, Mrs. Hal D. Patton, Mrs. R. C. Bishop, Mrs. Curtis B. Cross, Mrs. P. G. Deckabach, Mrs. Clifford W. Brown, Mrs. P. E. Pullerton, Mrs. U. G. Shipley, Mrs. Wm. McGilchrist, Mrs. Z. J. Bligs, Mrs. G. G. Brown, Mrs. C. B. Webb, Mrs. Fred S. Stewart.

Miss Mable Moyer went to Portland today, where she will pass the week end.

So often in the past has it fallen to the Monday Night Dancing club to initiate the social events of a particular festive week, that by now, a special gala occasion, such as St. Valentine's Day would not be observed to the gayest utmost, if the Monday club did not do its eagerly anticipated share, by swinging in the calendar of the week with a brilliant dance.

Such was the party given by the club on Monday night at the Moose hall, amid a galaxy of tiny scarlet hearts suspended from red festoons of crepe paper, stretched from the corners of the hall and caught in the center of the ceiling by means of a huge crimson ball. In the center of the floor was a tall pedestal, enshrined with pussy-willows, while small, red hearts fluttered from the branches. Similar pedestals were also placed at the farther end of the room.

Under this canopy of gallant, little hearts, the dance went merrily on through the evening, the whole atmosphere charged with the Valentine spirit of frolic and youth, ending at last, only to be renewed immediately in the guise of numerous supper parties, given by the different club members for their friends. Conspicuous among these was the jolly party for which Mrs. C. B. Webb was hostess at the Spa, her guests numbering about thirty six of the dancing contingent who were: Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Sieck, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Chinnock, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Galloway, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Bonnell, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. William McGilchrist, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Geer, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kirk, Dr. and Mrs. Grover Bollinger, Mr. and Mrs. George Fox, Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Marvin, Mr. and Mrs. Will Walton, Mr. and Mrs. Art Wallace, Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Garbajosa, Dr. and Mrs. S. E. Edwards, Ernest Welch.

Gay spontaneity was the keynote of the little party given by Mrs. T. Edwards, at the Court apartments, when a small coterie gathered around the supper table, including Mr. and Mrs. William Walton, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Rahn and Mr. and Mrs. Edwards.

A blue color scheme was developed in the appointments at the dinner preceding the dance, for which Mr. and Mrs. William McGilchrist, Jr., were hosts. A Japanese garden centerpiece, on the edge of which hovered very realistic, little blue birds, decked the table. Exquisite white narcissus were also in fragrant evidence. The blue bird motif was also carried out in charming detail in the place cards.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Marvin, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Geer, Dr. and Mrs. Grover Bollinger, Mr. and Mrs. James Chinnock, Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Harding.

Among the out of town guests accorded the compliment of much informal but delightful entertaining this week was Mrs. Ralph Watson of Portland, a former Salem resident. Mrs. Watson was accompanied on her visit to Salem by Dr. Watson, they being the house guests of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Olinger during their stay in the city.

Among those entertaining for the Watsons early in the week were Mrs. and Mrs. Milton L. Meyers, who were hosts at a gay little S. O. S. card party on Tuesday evening. The guests, who helped to provide future cheer for the Salem soldiers were Mr. and Mrs. Watson, Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee Steiner, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Olinger, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Durbin and Dr. W. H. Byrd.

Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Watson was the motif of a charming little knitting tea, sponsored by Mrs. John Coughell at her home on North Twenty first street.

A lovely little dinner party for the honor guests of the week, was the contribution of Mrs. Edwin L. Baker on Wednesday evening. The ever beautiful flowering almond graced the center of the table, a subtle reminder of spring's near arrival. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Watson, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Olinger, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ramp.

Thursday Mrs. O. C. Locke presided at a charmingly appointed luncheon for Mrs. Watson, asking as additional guests, Mrs. John Coughell, Mrs. E. L. Baker, Mrs. W. H. Lytle, Mrs. H. H. Olinger, Mrs. Charles Ramp. After the luncheon, Mrs. Charles Ramp entertained for the honor guest with a line party at the Oregon, followed by a dainty lunch at the Spa. The table circled by Mrs. Ramp's party was handsomely centered with red roses, the favors of little red baskets, developing a Valentine motif. The bidden beside the guest of the day were: Mrs. Charles Ramp, Mrs. Harry Olinger, Mrs. E. L. Baker, Mrs. E. C. Patton, Mrs. O. C. Locke, Mrs. Louis Lachmann, Mrs. John Coughell, Mrs. J. A. Wilson, Mrs. G. G. Brown.

A distinctive wedding to which is attached a decided military interest, will be solemnized at Portland at six o'clock this evening, when Miss Gertrude Buell of Eugene, becomes the bride of Lieutenant Miller McGilchrist of Salem. The service will be read at St. Steven's Pro-Cathedral.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner will be served at the Benson hotel, for the bridal party and their guests. Lieutenant McGilchrist has been granted a ten day's furlough, during which time, the young couple will enjoy a wedding trip. They will make their home at Dupont near Camp Lewis, where the officers of the cantonment reside. Miss Buell accompanied by her sister, Miss Edith Buell, and father, J. L. Buell, of Eugene, went to Portland yesterday.

Going up today from Salem for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. William McGilchrist, Sr., and daughters, Miss Hazel McGilchrist and Miss Ethel McGilchrist, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McGilchrist and Mr. and Mrs. William McGilchrist, Jr.

The Cherry City Social club was pleasantly entertained Tuesday night by Mrs. Edgar Hartley at her home on Court street. Effective decorations were formed by the abundant use of ferns, intermingled with daffodils. Cards and music provided entertaining diversion for the members and additional guests. Mrs. Hartley was assisted by her sister, Mrs. R. E. Downing.

The Sweet Briar club held its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. O. Moll on the Wallace road. Festal Valentine decorations were in gay evidence throughout the room. Red cards, from which were suspended little swinging hearts, were stretched diagonally across the drawing room, and caught in the center at the chandeliers. Bewitching little Cupids beckoned from every conceivable nook and corner.

At the refreshment hour, the guests adjourned to the dining room, where they circled small tables, each centered with a cluster of yellow daffodils. Assisting Mrs. Moll in the serving were Miss Helen Taylor, Mrs. Al Steiner and Miss Mildred Inlath.

Sixteen club members were present with Mrs. Will Patrick of Portland, the house guest of Mrs. G. W. Gibson, and Miss Mildred Inlath as additional guests.

Mrs. William Brown and Mrs. W. H. Eldridge were joint hostesses for the Thursday Afternoon club this week, when they entertained the club members and Mrs. Edward M. Tillson of San Francisco, as the additional guest of the afternoon. The affair took the form of a charming S. O. S. party. It was given at the residence of Mrs. Brown on State street.

Masses of greenery and ferns provided an exceedingly pretty setting for the meeting of the Monday Bridge club, which was entertained by Mrs. William P. Babcock, at her residence on South Commercial street this week. The players circled three tables of cards, the high score falling to Mrs. R. E. Downing. Miss Amelia Babcock assisted the hostess at the serving hour. The table was centered with white narcissus and ferns.

Additional guests for the afternoon were: Mrs. Edwin Baker, Mrs. O. C. Locke, Mrs. W. H. Daney, Mrs. Al Jones, Mrs. H. S. Poissal, Mrs. J. W. Woodruff.

Exquisite pastel shades prevailed in the color scheme at the distinctive dancing party, held Wednesday night at Collin hall, when a coterie of high school girls were charming hostesses for a number of the boys of the school. Tastefully intermingled with the delicately tinted streamers were masses of greenery, a profusion of ivy being used and offset by the stately arrangement of palms. The feature number on the program was a confetti dance.

Chaperones for this gay little stepping party were Mr. and Mrs. James T. Chinnock. Those dancing, among the younger set were: Miss Edna Ackerman, Miss Isabelle George, Miss Clara Breitenstein, Miss Grace Humphries, Miss Grace Hunt, Miss Tora Mortensen, Miss Annabelle Golden, Miss Gretchen Brown, Miss Lucile Jones, Miss Lucy Leonard, Miss Margaret Goodin, Miss Ethel Everett, Miss Florence Cartwright, Miss Merle Whitney, Miss Mary Toland, Miss Mary Bayne, Miss Sarah Rowland, Miss Esther Bush, Miss Edna Magers, Miss Lucile DeWitt, Miss Ina Proctor, Miss Amelia Babcock, Miss Mildred Gill, Reed Rowland, Kenneth Wilson, Amory Gill, Moss Lathan, Guy Croisan, Richard Slater, John Luckner, Bernard Notting, Lyle Bartholomew, Devey Provost, Harold Walling, Roland Reinhardt, Wolcott Buren, Arthur Bess, Wyndham Buren, Walter Woodcock, Donald Brown, Robert Brown, Armin Berger, Herbert Darby, Kenneth Power, Hugh Lathan, John Griffiths, Leslie Springer.

Mrs. L. Sorenson of Portland, a former Salem resident, is the guest of Mrs. John Sholund over the week end. Mrs. Sorenson was in the State Accident commissioner's office, when she lived in Salem.

A myriad display of the national colors rendered a gay and patriotic background, when the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Laflar on South Liberty street was thrown open on Thursday night to the members of the P. E. O. and their husbands, at the annual, social meeting of the club, when the members' husbands are made the honor guests of the occasion.

Reps of bright red crepe paper were strung from chandelier to corner, and swaying from these were scores of glowing, cardinal hearts, an inner heart of each being cut out to form a bold, little cupid. The walls were gracefully draped with banners and flags of red, white and blue, while the delicately, yellow-shaded lights, were spotted with red, white and blue stars. Merriment could not do otherwise than reign supreme in such gala surroundings, and the guessing games waged between the guests were keen ones. Mrs. H. C. Epley, Mrs. Bert Bower and Mrs. John Brophy came out ahead in the riddle of pictured movie stars. While the mystery of the various president's names, guessed according to initials, was solved the most completely, by Dr. W. R. Walton.

Readings and musical selections contributed to the pleasure of the evening, as did the impersonation of a country preacher by Dr. Epley, to the hilarity of the guests.

A unique feature, proving exceedingly popular, was the railroad lunch counter, in the dining room, where the regulation short order bill of fare was eagerly seized upon by the merry makers. Throughout the evening an orchestra played softly in an adjoining room. Mrs. Gordon McGilchrist, Mrs. W. R. Walton, Mrs. Tom Townsend and Miss Alice Hollister assisted Mrs. Laflar.

Additionally bidden to this jolly party were Mr. and Mrs. S. S. East and Mr. and Mrs. John Brophy.

Miss Mattie Baaty, Mrs. John E. Brophy, Mrs. A. J. Parkhurst and Mrs. Eugenia Gillingham were additional guests, when Mrs. Edward Gillingham entertained the Monday Afternoon Bridge club this week, at her home on Leslie street.

Assisting the hostess at the serving hour was Mrs. Eugenia Gillingham. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. George Watson.

Mrs. N. T. Hellyer presided at a distinctive luncheon on Monday, at her home on the Liberty road, when she entertained the members of the Monday club. The honor guest of the day was Mrs. Bert E. Bower, who is leaving Salem shortly to take up her residence in the Waldo Hills.

The decorative scheme was tastefully developed to serve as a reminder of Lincoln's birthday, which fell on the following day. Novel little place cards bearing Lincoln quotations, married the covers. The centerpiece was formed by an effective arrangement of the national colors.

The members of the Monday club devoted their meeting hours to study and general reading of an informing nature, taking for their subject this year, South America. Beside the guest of honor, the club members present were Miss Lillian Best, Mrs. Jessie Robertson and daughter, Catherine, Mrs. H. W. Brose, Mrs. Caroline Selge, Mrs. Bert Mahoney, Mrs. Merriah, Mrs. Mary Chapman, Mrs. Elbert Thompson, Miss Ella Moody, Mrs. Hellyer.

About ninety freshmen of Willamette University made merry Monday night at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Steeves, when several students who are leaving college at the beginning of the second term, were accorded a farewell reception. They were Miss Mildred Lawson, who is called to Washington on account of illness in the family, Loren Basler, who left for Breckerton this week to join the navy, Jay Coulter, who also has enlisted in the navy and Roy Williams, who will be located at Portland this year.

Potted plants and ivy transformed the room into veritable bowers of greenery. A number of jolly games were participated in by the young people, who, making the most of the brief reminder of the honor guests' stay in Salem, revelled through a gay round of festivities. Miss Muriel Steeves was assisted in serving refreshments by the girls of the freshmen class.

Mrs. Fred H. Thompson was hostess at a very pleasurable Valentine party Tuesday evening at her home on North Twenty first street, when she entertained the members of the young married people's Sunday school class of the First Methodist church. The rooms were gayly decorated with hearts, cupid and a varied array of Valentine insignia. The evening was passed with games suggestive of Valentine's Day. Mrs. E. L. Utter assisted Mrs. Thompson at the serving hour. Miss Cassie Thompson of Albany, a sister of Dr. Thompson, was an out of town guest for the evening.

The Rain and Sunshine club met "all on a rainy day" with Mrs. Charles Elgin on South Capitol street this week, when she presided at a very very daintily appointed luncheon for the club members and a few guests. The Rain and Sunshine club, which was originally a Little Kensington club, has always carried out the unique idea of meeting either on a strictly sunny day, or its opposite, a rainy one.

The table was centered with a large bowl of lovely ivory daffodils, while ferns were profusely used in decorating throughout the room. Mrs. Elgin was assisted in serving by Mrs. A. H. Moore. The afternoon was passed with fancy work. Next month Mrs. J. R. Pollock will entertain the club.
