Street Commissioner W. S. Low stated today that the Anderson Boiler and Iron works company, the firm which was awarded the contract for repairing the city paving plant, was busy putting it in first class shape. After the plant is repaired the city will complete a stretch of paving on Church street, including a fill near the north end of the street at the intersection with D street, and at both ends of the Church street bridge. About a block remains to be paved this side of the bridge, with less at the other end. After the city is through with the plant it will be rented to the county for use on county roads. Commissioner Low stated this morning that it was doubtful if the work would be taken up before two or three months, as time would have to be given for dry weather to come and the fills made last year to settle before laying the pavement.

The benefit entertainment given Saturday night at Middle Grove under the auspices of the Red Cross auxiliary of that place, was a highly successful affair. Patriotic addresses were made by Walter L. Tooze and Louis Lachmond, of this city, and a quartette from the Christian church rendered several musical selections. Between 150 and 200 members were present and a total of $46 was cleared. Ten new members were secured for the auxiliary, making the total membership now 52.

The meeting is an open meeting and all the women of the city are invited to attend.

The meeting of the Floral society tonight at the Commercial club auditorium has been called for promptly at 7:30, to hear the address of J. W. Brewer, of the federal farm labor bureau. Mr. Brewer will speak on a subject which he announces as "Hash." A short musical program has been prepared which will be given if time allows. The meeting has been called at 7:30 instead of 8 o'clock in order to give those attending an opportunity also to hear the lecture by Colonel Leader at the armory.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Goebel, formerly of this city, returned last night to Portland, after spending the day with Mrs. Goebel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Christiance.

COLUMBIA RIVER SMELT 5 LBS. FOR 25c 50-LB. BOX FOR $2.00

Smelt belong to the salmon and trout family and are one of the best of salt water fish. The price is only a fraction of that of any other fish or meat. Salt, smoke, or can them in fruit jars and save meat. Buy now while the smelt run is on.

SAVE THESE RECIPES

Try canning smelt according to these recipes. If properly prepared they are delicious and you will like them much better than fresh. Smelt prepared in this way are similar to sardines, herring, etc. The cost is very small as they can be put in fruit jars now empty. The flavor is better after they have been canned several months and improves with age.

To Can Smelt Clean them and wash thoroughly. The heads may be left on if referred. Be sure to remove all blood around the backbone. Allow them to stand in salt water for one half hour. Then, if canning in glass cans or fruit jars pack the raw fish in the sterile jars. A pint jar will hold approximately one pound of fish. For each pint add 1-2 teaspoonful salt and 1/2 cup water; put on sterile rubber and top; adjust properly and place in boiler on a false bottom; cover with water and cook for one and three fourths hours after boiling begins. If it is a quart jar cook for two and one-half or three hours, after boiling begins. To each quart jar add one level teaspoonful of salt. They may be canned in any of the well known jars on the market, following the general directions given with each for canning meats or vegetables that require boiling in the jar. If you use a pressure cooker, follow the directions with it as to time to cook. Use common table salt.

To Can Smelt Paste For Sandwiches Fry the smelt, salted to suit taste, until they are brown. Then remove the backbones. Add thick tomato puree in which has been cooked onion and parsley to taste, and pack the jar a layer of fish and a layer of this heavy sauce. Spices can be added if desired, also mustard to suit taste. Cayenne pepper or Tabasco sauce may also be added if desired. Process as above.

To Can In Mustard, Catsup, Bordenaise or Other Sauce Prepare the fish and add salt same as for canning plain. Then simply pack the fish in the jars a layer of sauce and a layer of fish. Use prepared mustard. Process as above.

Spiced Smelt. Pack the fish in the jar, adding salt, same as for plain canning. Add 1-4 cup strong vinegar to which has been added sliced onion, 1/2 teaspoonful pickling spice, and one small bay leaf. Process as above.

To Can In Oil Olive oil, refined cottonseed oil or corn oil may be used. Pack the raw cleaned fish in the jars with salt same as for canning plain, as described above.

To Smoke Smelt Clean them and place in brine that is strong enough to float an egg. Allow them to remain in brine 48 hours. Then string on wires and smoke about three days, using a hardwood smudge, oak, vining maple, and willow are good. Do not use fir or pine. Salting is the quickest and easiest way to put up smelt. To Salt Smelt. Pack the smelt with coarse salt, half ground salt being considered the best. Use about one-half pound of salt for each pound of fish. Place a layer of salt in the bottom of the crock or keg.

then a layer of fish, and so on, until the fish are all packed, having a layer of salt on top. Then place a weight on them so the brine will cover the fish. Do not put any water on them. They will make plenty of brine in a few hours. Keep in a cool, dark place. It is generally conceded that they will keep better in salt if not opened and cleaned. If preferred, however, they may be cleaned and heads removed. When wanted for use they require soaking in fresh water about eight hours. Running water is more convenient. Otherwise change the water several times.
