USED ZEPPELINS

it were absolutely necessary. The only development that could excuse the Von Hindenburg inefficiency of this character would be the gradual establishment by the allies of control of the air along the west front. Von Hindenburg, in fact, can no longer give up many of his airplanes from the battle lines.

America's participation in this vital factor in the war is becoming increasingly felt. For the next offensive, the help of America's aviators may even be sufficient to blind the German general staff by clearing the air of the Hun machines. That is the aeronautical ideal which the allies are striving to reach. Von Hindenburg's use of Zeppelins to raid England shows he is uneasy at the prospect.

Although the 369 men required will be inducted out of class I in sequence of their order numbers, this important exception will be made:

Because of the scarcity of farm labor, the president has given orders that "the call to the colors of men actively, completely and assiduously engaged in the planting or cultivation of a crop, but who are in Class I, and within the quotas, should be deferred until the end of the new quota."

"Instruct your local boards, therefore," continues the order, "that the president directs that, in filling this emergency call, they shall pass the order numbers of such men and defer their call for the present. It must be born in mind that this step is taken solely in the need of the nation and not for the benefit of any individual."

"Therefore, while boards should consider it a grave duty to exercise this power to conserve and augment the agricultural production, they should observe closely the conduct of those deferred and immediately upon becoming convinced that any person so deferred is not giving his entire time and earnest attention to agricultural duty, or that he is trifling with the deferment thus granted him, the board should forthwith call him to the colors."

"All citizens should assist in making this expedient forthwith and in bringing to the attention of the boards cases

BERT LYTELL
The former star in "Empty Pockets," now appearing in "Empty Pockets," says the movies have something coming to them. First, if they haven't already done so, they should get and read Rupert Hughes' story, "Empty Pockets." Tomorrow for three days when Herbert Brown's dramatization of the story is shown at Liberty theater, they should go and see it. Reviewers say it is the kind of photoplay that keeps one all wrought up. Barbara Castleman and Bert Lytell head a big cast of--not just actors--but real New York types. Brown is one of those producers who believes stories are more important than stars. "Empty Pockets" proves him to be right.

DUMP CARTS TURNED BACK TO COMPANY

Carts for Use On Highway Work from Aurora South Will Be Rented

State Highway Engineer Nunn announced today that the Loggers and Contractors Machinery company of Portland had agreed to take back the 19 dump carts, found by the state to be defective, and to make a restitution of the $6,000 paid by the state. The carts will be delivered at once to the company.

The carts were bought by the state highway department under the supposition that they were in condition. Later it was found that they were defective and the Southern Pacific railroad company is said to have refused to allow them on their trucks. It was discovered that instead of being worth $1,000 each as the state agreed to pay, they were not worth more than $300.

Mr. Nunn stated that arrangements had been made to rent carts from the railroad company for the work of paving the Pacific highway to Aurora. Arrangements are practically complete with the company. Work on the highway project is to start soon, and the preliminary arrangements are being made.

qualified for service will be inducted under this call. Men should be inducted out of class one in sequence of order numbers except that the president directs that in filling this emergency call, the men who are needed actively, completely, and assiduously in the planting or cultivation of a crop should be passed for the present, bearing in mind that this step is taken, not for the benefit of an individual, but for the benefit of the nation.

FRANCE IN FAVOR OF JAP INTERVENTION

Wants Japan to Act In Siberia --England Awaiting Hunch From America

By Ralph H. Turner
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Tokio, Mar. 13.—France favors unconditionally Japanese intervention in Siberia, according to authoritative information here today.

Great Britain's attitude, however, is contingent upon America, which fears arousing Russian hostility, according to the same source.

Pending word from Washington, the foreign advisory council postponed its special meeting. The ministry is undecided concerning opinions abroad.

Political students expect intervention within a month. The press is more prudent in its forecasts, although the extreme tension is illustrated in a story from a British source, published in the conservative Jiji that the Germans have succeeded in transporting—in parts—five submarines to Vladivostok. The newspaper declared that Japan is the only power which can check the march of German influence eastward.

The fear is growing of the dangers from enemy war prisoners in Siberia, thousands of whom have been freed.

Francis Will Stay

Washington, Mar. 13.—Ambassador David R. Francis, at Volzga, cabled the state department under date of the 11th the tidings that he and the other diplomats had been entertained at dinner by the mayor. Francis apparently has no present intention of moving and evidently is in no danger.

Army of Prisoners
London, Mar. 13.—Numerous reports have been received of an army of German and other enemy prisoners in Siberia, Lord Cecil, British minister of blockade announced in the house of commons today.
