home demonstration agents and 169 city home demonstration agents. These are highly trained and experienced women who are devoting some time to the garden campaign and who will assist in teaching the sowing of the surplus products during the summer and fall.

Through the boys' and girls' agricultural clubs organized in the forty eight states, a huge army of farm boys and girls is enlisted annually for productive work. It is too early to estimate the number in these clubs. Based on the increase already reported over last year's enrollment, the number of rural boys and girls in these clubs will probably be more than two million and a half engaged in larger productive enterprises, such as corn clubs, gardening and canning clubs, pig clubs, etc. In addition to these, a large number of home gardens were produced by boys and girls and adults in cities and towns last year and will be enlisted by the department this year.

The state and county councils of defense, state food administrators, and their county representatives are very greatly interested in the garden campaign and are cooperating with the department and the colleges in many ways.

The bureau of education is enlisting the interest of teachers and other school authorities to enroll school children and give them leadership in home or back yard gardening in many larger cities and towns. These will add materially to the huge garden program of the department of agriculture. The boy scouts of America, the girl scouts and campfire girls, and the junior Red Cross are also organizing for productive gardening or club work, and are correlating their work with that of the department and the colleges and receiving instruction from county agents, club agents, and other extension employees.

Three important bulletins have been published by the Department of Agriculture on this subject:

Farmers' Bulletin No. 934. Home gardening in the south.
Farmers' Bulletin No. 936. The city and suburban vegetable garden.
Farmers' Bulletin No. 937. The farm garden in the north.

The department and the state agricultural colleges have many other publications which will be found valuable if you are not connected with this home garden movement, which includes a vast army of adults as well as boys and girls, communicate with the extension service of your agricultural col-

Assistant Secretary.

In three weeks the postoffice force at Astoria has lost seven members, while the business is growing so fast that, between the two, the lot of Postmaster Wise, the Astorian says, is not a happy one, as it has been impossible, so far, to fill the ranks.

HOME GARDEN CAMPAIGN

"A productive home garden on every farm and a back yard garden for every village, town and city home," is the slogan of the United States Department of Agriculture. Many forces and different organizations are helping in the garden campaign, but the United States department of agriculture and the agricultural colleges are carrying the biggest end of the work of organization and instruction. There are approximately 3,000,000 additional families in cities and towns up to 25,000 population. In the entire United States there are about 21,000,000 families, but a portion of these in the large congested centers of the population can not have gardens. A home garden for every possible family is the aim. The work is well under way, already having been organized in January of this year's campaign of food production.

Caution
The department is emphasizing economic production of food through these gardens and, therefore, points out the following important cautions:
(a) No home garden should be raised except by labor of the family for the use of the family; in other words, a home garden with hired labor is not advocated. The hired labor should be released to engage in general farming to add to the food stores of the nation.
(b) Garden seed, especially of certain important standard crops, such as beans and peas, must be conserved and not wasted.
(c) Good soil, sunlight, and air are necessary for good gardens. It is a waste of seed and labor to plant on land not suited or where shaded a large part of the day.
(d) In small back yard gardens, plant only those crops which produce large quantities on limited area, such as string beans, tomatoes, lima beans, beets, or onions. Corn, peas, potatoes and other such crops require more space than is needed for the other crops.

Organization
The United States department of agriculture, in cooperation with state agricultural colleges, has one of the most extensive organizations ever possessed by any country to put this campaign into effect. The horticulturists employed in the department of agriculture have charge of the department's campaign. They represent both the bureau of plant industry and states relations service. In almost every state there is a home garden specialist representing the extension service of the college and the department. (In some states two or three men are employed.) In addition to these special men, the department of agriculture, in cooperation with the state agricultural colleges, has a very large force of men and women at work in the field, who will assist in the home garden campaign as a part of their great campaign for food production. There are at present 2260 county agricultural agents and their assistants, trained in agriculture, who are actively engaged in the food production campaign, including its home gardening phase. There are also 1186 county

"Conservation"

The Government is asking every one to conserve essentials.
Time is one of the most important essentials and should be conserved.
The Automobile is one of the main essentials for it conserves time.
It is good business, and essential, that every farmer and business man should own a light car for it conserves time.
The high price of hay and grain makes the price of horse-drawn vehicles almost prohibitive.
The low priced light automobile is as necessary to the farmer as the plow or binder. It saves time which is money.
The Chevrolet Model Four Ninety is the logical car for nine men out of ten to own, for the reason that the first cost is low (the lowest priced electrically equipped car in the world) and can be operated at less expense than any car built.
When you own a Chevrolet you conserve time, Money, Hay and Grain, and you are in accord with the Government's request.
Should you spend double the amount of money you would get no more satisfaction or service than you get in the Chevrolet Four Ninety, selling at $765 f. o. b. Salem; and this price will not last long.
