ORDINANCE WOULD PREVENT LOAFING

Alderman Ward Would Compel All Able Bodied Persons to Work

Loafing will be made a crime in Salem should the council pass the ordinance to be submitted by Alderman Frank Ward at the meeting next Monday evening.

It seems that Mr. Ward has been taking note of the fact that the states and cities back east have decided that the days of the loafer are numbered and he sees no reason why Salem should not line up in the latest of war measures. The ordinance is to further define what shall constitute vagrancy and to also assist the city marshal and city recorder in finding employment for the unemployed.

Following the wording of the old vagrancy ordinance which forbids begging or lingering about or standing on street corners or alleys or public places without visible means of support; or loitering or strolling around the streets of Salem at unseemly hours of the night, the ordinance provides: "Or any able bodied male between eighteen and fifty years of age who shall, in day time, habitually frequent or visit pool halls, billiard rooms, card rooms and bowling alleys, or who shall in the day time habitually loiter or loiter around about or in such places, or depots, parks or other public places, is hereby defined to be a vagrant."

The ordinance also provides that it shall be the duty of the city marshal and policemen to frequent and inspect places where men are likely to congregate and to warn any idle persons to secure employment. The policeman or marshal are to inform any loafer found at the location of the office of the city recorder and of the fact that a list of available positions is kept there on file.

Besides helping the loafer to find a job, the police force is to be instructed to keep a record of the man found loafing. Another provision is that the recorder's office keep a register of persons who are in need of laborers, together with the nature of the labor and wages paid and to make a reasonable effort to keep in touch with employers of labor around Salem.

If the ordinance passes, there will be no idle rich or idle poor.

Chemist-Du-Dames sector, where American forces are fighting, our successful raid resulted in some prisoners.

"Northwest of Morencourt we took some prisoners. After a number of German attacks in the region of Hargarten-Saumur (where the British and French lines converge five miles south of the Somme, at Corbie), we finally retained the village and cemetery.

"West of Castel and in the region of Suzoy (in the neighborhood of Moreuil), German attacks were sanguinarily defeated."

Making Town Untenable

London, April 10.—The Germans this morning renewed their northern attack from east of Armentieres as far as Messines (five miles north of Armentieres) General Maurice, director of operations, announced this afternoon.

"They entered our line between the Lys and the Douve (one mile south of Messines) and captured a considerable portion of Ploegsteert wood (two miles south of the Douve)," he said.

"The enemy is carrying out its original program of attempting to bleed the British army white," Maurice said.

"The attack on the Messines front has been repulsed and no high ground has been gained by the enemy but the small advance made, together with yesterday's gains, may make Armentieres a very awkward salient. The enemy is now on both sides of Armentieres, which is a heap of ruins. If it is lost it will not be vital.

"Last night east of the old battle field, the French carried out a withdrawal from an awkward angle due to retirements of the Fifth army. Two French battalions were cut off and 2,000 taken prisoner. The French fell back to a strong line on the Ailette.

"We and the Portuguese lost guns in yesterday's attack between Armentieres and Bethune, and the Portuguese probably lost prisoners."

S. P. OFFICERS ELECTED

San Francisco, April 10.—All the officers of the Southern Pacific railroad company including President William Sproule, will continue in office as a result of the annual stockholders election, the result of which was announced today.

About the Motors Concerning the liberty motor, the committee said: "It is not designed for and cannot be used in the swift, single-seat fighting machine. A few of the motors are being flown in appropriate machines. The reports as recited to the committee indicate that with the latest changes the motor will be satisfactory for the character of work expected of it and that it bids fair to hold its own with foreign motors of similar power, weight and purpose. For the campaign of 1919 the liberty motor must undoubtedly be further improved in order to keep up with the evolution constantly going on along the front.

Steps are being taken in the design-

PERUNA Best All Around Medicine Ever Made

I Hope You Will Publish This Letter

Mr. W. H. Edgar, 49 Cooper St., Atlanta, Georgia, writes:

and most powerful is the Hadley-Page usefulness of the motor may be further extended and further improvements attained. Twenty two thousand, five hundred liberty motors have been ordered; 122 have been completed for the army and 142 for the navy. Four have been shipped overseas. Some of those already delivered are being altered to overcome the defects ascertained during the last few weeks.

"The production of liberty motors to date is, of course, gravely disappointing. The testimony shows that experts of the highest reputation and experience have, since last July, repeatedly warned the officials of our government that the perfecting of a newly designed motor must inevitably involve many months of painstaking experiment accompanied by many setbacks and disappointments. In spite of the unanimous testimony of motor experts along this line, the government officials having the manufacture of the liberty motor in charge have made the mistake of leading the public and the allied nations to the belief that many thousands of these motors would be completed in the Spring of 1918.

Not Borne Out By Facts. "Information of this sort, not borne out by facts, has been injurious and its constant dissemination the committee regards as misleading and detrimental to our cause."

Declaring that the production of combat planes has thus far been a substantial failure and constitutes a most serious disappointment in our war preparations, the report said: "We had no design of our own; neither did we adopt any one of the European designs until months after we entered the war. Much time was consumed in discussion as to types. Innumerable changes in designs and specifications of the types finally decided on have cost further delays. In all, five types have, at one time or another, been adopted. Two of them have been abandoned after the expenditure of much time and money.

"The three remaining types still left on our program are now in the course of manufacture. Of these, the largest and heavy bombing machine, designed to carry as many as six men, eight machine guns and a heavy load of bombs, and to be driven by two liberty motors. "The history of the negotiations of the adoption and manufacture of this plane afford a remarkable illustration of procrastination and indecision too long to recite. Suffice it to say that the designs and specifications of this plane which had been used with marked success by the British and placed in production by that government, were offered to our officials as early as May, 1917. The testimony before your committee shows that the signal corps finally decided on the manufacture of a number of sets of parts of this machine about January 1, 1918."

ALLIES WILL MEET

The sending of American forces through the crisis came home with full force today from England's action in raising the military age to 50 years of age and her proposal to conscript Irishmen. President Wilson cleared the way by sidetracking the idea of a political offensive against Austria and by declaring that hereafter unstinted force will be America's role. Lloyd-George, authorities pointed out, staked his political career and ran the risk of serious rebellion in Ireland in forcing the conscription issue.

Only a really grave need for men would force these steps. British General Failed

The shelving of General Gough, leader of the beaten Fifth British army, plus appointment of General Foch as chief strategist, evidently superseding the Versailles council plan—reveals untold features of the western battle. Britain and France have been through the fire and close to a fatal conflagration, according to military men.

Something went wrong with the Fifth army, they say. And Lloyd-George himself pointed out that only part of the story of that western hell has been told to date. Enough now is revealed, however, to convince military authorities here that England and France have drawn heavily on reserves to halt the Germans before Amiens.

America will play a vast part in the coming days. Her troop shipment schedule is geared high, and she will have a surprising representation on the west line in the next three or four months.

This addition, with Britain's new men, is counted on definitely to check German ambitions.

The situation in England and Ireland, aside from the question of furnishing Americans more rapidly, offers embarrassing problems for American statesmen. The alien draft treaty, while not now mentioning Ireland, is so framed that when conscription is enforced in Ireland, it can be used against Irishmen here.

The general belief here is that conscription in Ireland will stick and that in time the agitation against it will subside. America will probably take no steps to draft Irishmen until this quieter stage is reached.

London Indorses It London, April 10.—The London morning newspapers, for the most part, praise Premier Lloyd-George's courage in demanding Irish conscription. They hold it purely a matter of justice, requiring Ireland—though belated—to pay a portion of the cost of world freedom.

Though it is realized the enforcement of conscription in Ireland is fraught with possibilities of a serious nature, there seems to be a desire for a showdown. There is confidence that possible organized resistance in Ireland would be defeated, because it is believed that such resistance would not represent all Ireland's opinion, but merely the fragment which is responsive to the obstructionist politicians.

After all, it is held by the London press, it is the government's duty to enforce all measures for the country's safety, upon all subjects.

The Express said: "We are warned that conscription will unify the nationalists and Sinn Feiners in rebellion against the British. We do not believe this. If Ireland does not respond to conscription, strong orders from the government must govern the situation."

Though curious as to the course of events on the western front since the German attack, especially in view of Lloyd-George's statement that the British army command had advanced knowledge of the German plans, the morning newspapers mostly expressed willingness to await further information before stating their opinion.

Calls it a Blunder San Francisco, April 10.—T. P. O'Connor, Irish leader, and former member of parliament, regards Premier Lloyd-George's proposal for conscription in Ireland as an "insane blunder."

A cablegram was dispatched by O'Connor today to John Dillon, M. P., declaring conscription would "encourage our bitterest enemies in this country."

O'Connor's message to Dillon follows: "Must at once record solemn warning against conscription in Ireland. It will paralyze friends and encourage bitterest enemies in this country. This insane blunder would again render futile best efforts of Irish leaders everywhere." "T. P. O'CONNOR."

officially announced to be tied for the honor of being the first in the land to finish their quota. All reported over-subscription shortly after nine o'clock Saturday morning.

Coast Leads Country. San Francisco, April 10.—Pacific coast liberty loan subscriptions today forged ahead rapidly toward the goal of $210,000,000. Definite totals from the seven states comprising the Twelfth federal reserve district were not available, but every message received at headquarters today told of subscriptions greatly larger than those of either of the previous loans. At the present rate, officials said, the Twelfth district will have attained its quota in another week.

A message from Portland today said subscriptions in Oregon totaled $12,314,000 to which must be added the city's subscriptions estimated at $2,000,000, since Monday, making a total of more than $14,300,000 as against a state quota of $18,495,000.

Los Angeles reported that Bill Hart has sold $105,000 worth of bonds and Charley Chaplin $50,000.

A cablegram received today from O. F. Nelson at Apia, Samoa, ordered a $1,000 bond. Nelson, not an American, added that he was buying the bond because he had recently visited the United States and was "interested."

Chicago Has $40,000,000. Chicago, April 10.—With Chicago's total liberty bond subscription nearly $40,000,000, Secretary of the Navy Daniels came here to aid. Jackies from the Great Lakes naval training station welcomed their chief with a 19 gun salute.

More than 15,000 persons are expected to attend the "melting pot" meet tonight in the stockyards auditorium, at which Daniels will be the principal speaker.

New York Has a Fifth. New York, April 10.—New York opened the fourth day of her drive for $900,000,000 for the third liberty loan with an unofficial total of $177,150,900 in subscriptions to her credit.

ment, opening at 4:05. It continued for an hour or two, then died down. A couple of hours later a sudden barrage was put down from Armentieres to the northward of Lens, the German infantry following in its wake.

Heavy, continuing fighting resulted which was particularly hot east of Peurbourg.

Long range guns shelled Bethune, Estaires, Laventie and practically all the villages in the back area. Von Quast used several fresh divisions.

The weather was misty and the sky overcast throughout the day. The ground is very muddy owing to the rains.

Hindenburg, foiled in his attempt against Arras, Vimy and Notre Dame Lorette, perhaps hopes to flank the British positions from the north.

British Retake Town London, April 10.—Heavy fighting continued north of the LaBassee canal yesterday evening and last night, Field Marshal Haig reported today. The British are holding desperately along the Lys and Lawe rivers. A counter attack on the southern flank resulted in the recapture of Giveneby by the British.

"On the southern flank, Giveneby was recaptured in a successful counter attack. We took 750 prisoners here."

"East and north of Armentieres, as far as the Ypre-Canines canal there was a heavy hostile bombardment early this morning with fighting on the southern portion of this front."

"On the British front south of the Somme, there was local fighting," Field Marshal Haig reported. "The situation is unchanged."

Heavy Artillerying Paris, April 10.—"Great mutual artillery fighting" along a wide front held by French and American troops, from south of Verdun to east of St. Mihiel was reported by the French war office today.

"Along the left bank of the Meuse, in the Apremont forest and in the region of Flirey, there was great mutual artillery fighting," the communique said. (The Meuse flows northward through St. Mihiel and Verdun. It is in this sector that American troops took over additional trenches to reinforce French forces for the battle of Picardy. Apremont is five miles southeast of St. Mihiel. Flirey is 15 miles east of St. Mihiel. Both of these places are in that portion of the line officially referred to as the "Toul sector.")
