SECURE TEACHERS FOR SCHOOL EARLY

County Superintendent Smith Urges Necessity of Prompt Action

School directors in the county outside of Salem are requested to hurry up with employing their teachers for next fall. County Superintendent Smith is sending out letters today suggesting that instead of the usual delays in arranging for teachers, the directors get busy and employ teachers while the employing is good as there will surely be a shortage this fall and the district that holds back will take the inexperienced teacher.

Knowing early in the summer just what teachers are already contracted for will give Superintendent Smith a chance to co-operate with directors in securing the best teachers not employed, and to assist in investigating the records of applicants.

School directors this summer will face two propositions. One is that of raising the salary of the past year and keeping their school up to standard, or of paying the same salary and lowering the standard. Teachers of recognized ability will demand and secure salaries considerably in advance of what has been paid the past year. The district that cannot see its way clear to line up with the majority of schools and rearrange the schedule of salaries will take their chances with the inexperienced teachers. This is the situation as summed up by Superintendent Smith.

The state superintendent's office has now completed its third Junior Rain-bow regiment, which means that the names of 3,000 pupils have been sent in, each of whom have sold more than $50 worth of War Savings and Thrift stamps, making a total of more than $150,000 sold by the school children of the state.

SALEM WILL REACH LIBERTY LOAN QUOTA

SAYS GENERAL STEINER

City Is Still Short $150,000 But Spirit of Workers Is Counted Upon

"The spirit of our men working on the third liberty loan drive is fine. We will stay with it until we raise the quota of Salem, $517,500, whether it takes two weeks or all summer. The people must come through."

It is with this spirit that General R. E. Lee Steiner sizes up the situation in the liberty loan drive. He estimates that by this evening, by including the purchases of the state and all state institutions, that Salem will be short $153,500 of the quota assigned to the city.

To secure this amount, the 38 captains will continue on the job and the 300 or more men working with them will not let up on the work until this figure has been subscribed.

The spirit of the workers is fine, General Steiner said. But there is also the spirit of determination, and when slackers are found, they are promptly reported to a special committee. A man who is financially able to buy, and does not, will be visited by a special committee and the turning down of the first solicitors does not by any means settle the matter. In fact, according to the program, the man who is financially able to buy and does not, is simply looking for trouble.

The meetings of the workers continue to be held every day at noon at the First Methodist church, where reports are turned in and the successes and failures of the day duly reported. The actual subscriptions received by the workers up to last evening amounted to $258,000. But with the state and state institutions coming in today, General Steiner figured that Salem was still short $153,500 of the required amount.

Salem Banks Third In Bank Deposits

In preparing a list of the towns in Oregon having on deposit in their banks a total of $1,000,000 or more, the estate banking department shows that Salem stands third in the list of 27 towns.

Portland of course ranks first with its 25 banks. Pendleton is given second rank with total deposits of $8,290,663 and Salem third with deposits of $5,602,284. The figures are made from the call for a report to be made by the banks March 4.

Astoria ranks fourth on the list, with deposits of $5,214,479 and Eugene fifth with $3,700,341. Albany comes in for the seventh rank with $2,416,329 in its three banks and McMinnville with the rank of 13 with deposits of $1,806,609 in its four banks. Silverton ranks 24 with deposits of $1,069,474 in its two banks.

The city of Portland with its 25 banking institutions holds 59 per cent of the total deposits, while 26 towns outside of Portland had on deposit 30 per cent, the remaining 135 towns carrying only 17 per cent of the money in the state.

BAPTIST ASSOCIATION IN SIXTY-FIRST SESSION

Dr. Holt of This City Presides In Absence of Dr. Young of Albany

The Central Baptist Association began its sixty-first session at the First Baptist church last evening. In the absence of the moderator, Rev. G. H. Young of Albany, Rev. G. F. Holt of Salem, was elected moderator. The annual sermon was preached by Rev. W. B. Stewart of North Palestine who is associational pastor.

The devotional service this morning was led by Rev. S. L. Boyce of Lacombe. An interesting feature of the morning session was the reading of the church letters. This was followed by a conference on Association Organization and Responsibility, and Associational Missions, Church Efficiency, Missionary Contributions. The conference was conducted by Rev. O. C. Wright of Portland, secretary of the Oregon Baptist Convention. The following program was held this afternoon:

2:00 Devotional Service, led by Mrs. Chas. McAllister of Shelburne.
Kingdom Activities and Opportunities 2:15 In the State, address, Rev. G. F. Holt, D. D.
2:40 In the Nation, address, Rev. W. A. Waldo, Ph. D., pastor White Temple, Portland.
3:10 For and by Young People, Rev. O. C. Wright, Portland.
Music.
3:45 World Wide address—The Great Problem of Foreign Missions, Pres. L. W. Riley, D. D., president of McMinnville College.
4:15 Address, Mrs. D. C. Graham, Sui-fu, China.

This evening the men will be served a lunch at 6:30. H. S. Gile presiding. This is a joint meeting of the Brotherhood of the Baptist church of Salem and the men from other churches attending the association. The principles speaker will be Dr. W. A. Waldo of Portland. His address will be followed by a conference on continuation and perfection of the Layman's organization.

At seven o'clock the women will hold a session at which addresses will be given by Miss Millsbaugh, of Portland, on Home Missions, and Mrs. D. C. Graham of Sui-fu, China, on Foreign.
At eight thirty the choir of the First Baptist church of this city will render a cantata entitled "Prayer, Promise, Praise."
The association will close with tomorrow morning's session as follows: 9:00 Devotional Service, led by Rev. W. P. Elmore.
9:30 Reports and Business—Conference—Service which the State Convention's Commission on Religious Education May Render to the Churches of the Association. Opened and conducted by Prof. C. P. Coe, McMinnville College. Adjournment.

Moore Lease Extended by Board of Control

The lease of Jason C. Moore on the soda and salt deposits of Albert and Summer lakes was practically extended six months yesterday by the board of control. This extension was granted to Mr. Moore and the company to which he has assigned his interests, the Standard Portland Cement Corporation of San Francisco, on condition they appear before the board by April 22 and put up a surety bond to pay the state $15,000 by December 20.

Secretary Olt was inclined to not favor any extension and thought others interested should now be given an opportunity to utilize the deposits of the two lakes. T. B. Kay felt that the state's interest would be protected if the $15,000 surety bond was put up by the new company and the governor agreed, excepting that he thought the state was entitled to a higher royalty. As the matter now stands, if the Standard Portland Cement company puts up its bond by April 22 of $15,000, it will have until December 20 to fulfill the contract lease assigned to it by Jason C. Moore.

Part of the work of the annual meeting of the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters of the state of Oregon, held in Salem yesterday, was that of the conferring of the super-excellent degree on a large class of candidates, mostly from Salem, by Multnomah Council, No. 11, of Portland.
The Grand Council at the business session yesterday morning voted the sum of $250 for the purchase of third liberty loan bonds, and as the session was held in Salem, authorized the retiring grand master, G. G. Brown, to make the purchase in this county.
G. G. Brown, retiring grand master of the Royal and Select Masters of Oregon, was presented with a jewel, the presentation address being made by Justice George H. Burnett of the Oregon supreme court.

Judge Kelly Renders Decision In Kay Case

Judge Percy R. Kelly has rendered a decree in the case of Fannie Kay Bishop, an administratrix for the estate of Ann Kay against T. B. Kay, wherein an accounting was asked; that "the accounting discloses nothing due from defendant to plaintiff."
The findings set forth that the account of Ann Kay was kept by the bookkeeper of the T. B. Kay Woolen Mills, which served as a repository for the funds of Ann Kay.
That T. B. Kay had full access to the books while the plaintiff Fannie Kay Bishop did not and could not be apprised of conditions.

That Ann Kay received the income from her interest in the estate.

That T. B. Kay acted as agent for Ann Kay and transmitted business under a power of attorney.

That the plaintiff, Mrs. Bishop, was unable to obtain information as one of the executors of the estate as to properly enable her to administer on the estate of Ann Kay.

That the failure to keep a strict account of sources from which disbursements were made prevented an exact accounting of the estate of Ann Kay.

That plaintiff, Mrs. Bishop, and Leonard K. Roberts did not understand that the meeting at the office of George G. Bingham consummated the settlement of the estate.

That with the exception of real Oregon, the funds and property have been fully disbursed in part to Ann Kay to defray her living expenses to maintain property and partly for certain beneficiaries and distributing among heirs.

That the defendant, T. B. Kay has strictly accounted for the estate of Thomas Kay and Ann Kay and that "the evidence discloses that disbursements have been honestly made so far as the defendant, T. B. Kay is concerned."
