To Make Men More Busy and Some Boys Less So Object of Ordinances

At the tonight session of the city council, besides the introduction of the ordinance by Alderman Ward making it unlawful for any man to have too much leisure time on his hands, another ordinance will be introduced to curb the boy who finds it convenient to raise money by selling merchandise to the junk man.

The ordinance will provide that the junk man shall purchase no merchandise from boys under the age of 21 years, unless the youth is accompanied by one of his parents while making the sale, or has the consent of one of his parents in writing.

The plain fact, as viewed by some of the aldermen, is that the small boy will occasionally steal not only from others but from his home and carry his goods to the junk man. While the junk man has been obliged to keep a record of these sales, yet there were no questions asked as to where the boy got the goods. A recent case in which a boy stole the dishes from his mother's table, and then sold them for junk, suggested to the aldermen that a more stringent law was necessary. Hence the ordinance to be introduced tonight.

High Prices Brings Horse Meat Into Use

Portland, Or., April 15.—Consumption of 17 horses weekly on Portland tables was only one of many indications today of an unparalleled shortage of meat in the northwest.

Meat prices touched new high levels today. Shipments of livestock were far below normal.

Portland received only 27 cars of livestock, whereas 110 is the average for Monday.

Shipments from four states were required to make up five carloads of hogs received at Seattle, according to reports here and two of the cars came from South Dakota. Three states supplied seven carloads of hogs to Portland.

Discontinuance of meatless days is a contributing cause to the shortage, according to market men. Top steer beef went to twenty cents to wholesalers today, with cow beef at 19 cents. Fresh dressed pork went up one cent to 24 1/2 cents for whole hogs and 30 cents for loins.

Market Was Strong and Prices Advanced

New York, April 15.—The New York Evening Sun financial review today said:

Today's stock market was strong, with some show of animation at the beginning but after the first hour trading lapsed into extreme dullness. The average advance was something over a point today. Distillers' securities was one of them and the gain achieved was over two points. American Sumatra and Tobacco products were in good form, as were the copper and steel. General Electric, National Enameling, Corn Products Refining, Baldwin Locomotive and American Can also stood out from the list. The rails were thin to a degree, nevertheless the few dealt in net advanced to a point to two points. In the afternoon points touched new high levels for the day and trading broadened to some extent, gains in some cases being as much as three or four points.

Greater Willamette Club Is Organized

The student body has taken up a new activity, known as the Greater Willamette club, the object of the organization being made known in the name adopted. The president of the student body is to be by virtue of his office, president of the club. A committee of five will be appointed to have special charge of the new movement.

Archie Walker, president of the senior class, is manager of this work for the present season. He and his helpers will seek ways and means of presenting information concerning the organization to prospective students, the greater part of whom soon will be sent out as graduates of the high schools of the state.

profits, dividends will be paid only to the common stock. G. B. Cellers, Geo. S. Shepherd and E. Mac Martin are the directors.

Among those from the state house who attended the meeting of the Northwest Society of Highway engineers at Seattle last week were Herbert Nunn, who is president of the society; G. Ed Ross, secretary and auditor of the State Highway commission; S. H. Roberts, R. A. Klein, C. A. Dunn, J. C. McCloud, H. N. Hackett, E. A. Skelly and other field men.

The speakers at the meetings included R. H. Thompson of Seattle and James Allen, of the State Highway commission of Washington. The aims of the society is to protect the public against incompetent engineers.

A hearing of the case known as the Mt. Shasta Arbitration has been ordered in Washington for May 4 before the Inter State Commerce Commission. This case is of vital importance to the northwest, as it involves the question as to whether the eastern roads in selling round trip tickets to the Pacific coast shall charge tourists $17.50 for returning home by way of Portland or Seattle. The case was brought before the Inter-State Commerce Commission some time ago and the extra charge against this section was ordered discontinued. Then the railroad secured another hearing and the first decision nullified, so that at present the tourist is paying $17.50 if the route is home by the northwest. The May 4 hearing will decide whether the thousands of tourists coming to the Pacific coast next summer will be given the option of returning by way of this northwest without paying the extra $17.50. Heretofore the northwest has been discriminated against, and is now, unless the Inter-State Commerce Commission makes a final ruling making one rate for the returning tourists by any route.

SALEM AND COUNTY BOTH EXCEED QUOTA

Excess in County Will Be Probably from $75,000 to $100,000

Although Salem has topped the $600,000 mark in subscriptions to the third liberty loan, fully one third of the workers were out today completing their districts in order that none might be overlooked.

Report received by the Commercial club indicate that the figures for today may reach close to $5000, as one group of workers turned in $1000 and another $500. The work will not stop until every one on the list prepared for the workers has been seen and given an opportunity to go on record.

Mass county outside of Salem has easily topped the $300,000 mark, according to Chairman Deckenbach, making the total for the entire county more than $900,000.

To Look After Morals of Theater Goers and Censor Movies

Mayor Walter E. Keyes, Chief of Police J. A. Poland and the police matron Sarah J. Dorsey, will decide what is best for the people of Salem in the way of moving pictures providing an ordinance to be introduced at the meeting of the council tonight meets with the approval of the city fathers. They are to act as a board of censors on any pictures to be shown in Salem.

The ordinance to be introduced provides that it shall be unlawful to exhibit any pictures that are obscene, indecent or immoral, and the censors are to decide what is and what isn't. Nor shall pictures be exhibited which shall provoke a breach of peace or incite a riot or are obnoxious or offensive to any loyal or patriotic citizen and the censors will decide this.

If the ordinance passes the council at the final reading, picture show fans will have the satisfaction of knowing that the picture was approved by the mayor, the chief of police and the police matron.

No Action Is Taken As the Second Unit of Fair Ground Coliseum

On account of the illness of A. C. Marsters, member of the building committee of the State Fair board, no action was taken today in regard to arranging funds for the building of the second unit of the coliseum at the state fair grounds.

It is probable that a meeting will be held tomorrow of the board in Portland whereby plans will be made for letting the contract for the second unit. O. C. Marsters is sick at the Good Samaritan hospital in Portland and the building committee will meet with Mr. Marsters at the hospital.

The first unit, costing $16,280 is already under construction by Sievers & Engstrom with some 12 men working. This second unit it is thought will cost about $26,000. It will include the four brick walls of the coliseum, to be 200 by 300 feet. Secretary A. H. Lea said that the interior work such as the seating, will not be done until another year.

Salem Starch Company Now Ready for Business

The Pacific Potato Starch Co. of Salem announces that it is now ready for business and that it has leased the West Salem Fruit Evaporating plant for the purpose of taking care of the surplus potato crop in and around Salem.

This 1917 crop will be made into potato flour for the farmers on the co-operative plan. For culls or for any potatoes, there will be a fixed price of 50 cents per 100 pounds, or the farmer will be given the option of taking two thirds of the amount of potato flour from the products delivered.

It is the plan of Mr. Griffith to erect a starch factory in Salem similar to the one at Beaverton to care for 1000 acres of potatoes, in accordance with co-operative contracts. With the establishment of this factory, the farmer will have a permanent market for his culls or unmarketable potatoes.

Those interested are asked to call at the Commercial club for contracts.
