F. N. Woodry, the auctioneer is more than satisfied that the Willamette valley and Salem is the proper place in which to live. He is just home from a week's visit through Washington and eastern Oregon and after looking over that country and sizing up Pendleton and Walla Walla and also Tacoma, noting the general business conditions, he is once more back in Salem and intends to stay here. He will resume his business at his old stand at Ferry and Liberty streets.

An evening that was much enjoyed was spent at the joint meeting last night of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, the occasion being the celebration of the 99th anniversary of the founding of Odd Fellowship. Several prominent speakers from Portland were present, among them being past grand master Henry S. Westbrook and past grand master Dr. W. T. Williamson also of Portland. A feature of the evening was the presentation of 40 year veteran jewels to Geo. H. Burnett, P. J. Larson and William Steiger. Dr. Williamson made the presentation of the jewels, the response being made by Judge Burnett.
