For the benefit of the housekeeper who may not notice the item published today, it may be said that after tomorrow, potatoes will not be a substitute for wheat flour. From now on for a time potatoes are just potatoes to be eaten on their merits and not because so many pounds of potatoes permits the purchase of a certain amount of wheat flour.

Walter A. Denton thinks that if the government adopted a policy regarding the cultivation of land similar to the one now in force in England, there would be mighty few unutilized spots in Oregon. He is just in receipt of a paper from Yorkshire, England, with a notice that a prominent woolen manufacturer had been fined $450 for his failure to cultivate land in accordance with a notice given him by the West Riding War Agricultural Committee. It seems that the head of the big woolen mills owned a house and farm but that he had not cultivated the land according to instructions from the Agricultural committee.

Thursday of this week, May 2, has been set by the Salem floral society as the date for its second exchange day. The event will be held in the vacant store building on north Commercial street located next door south of the Max O'Brien furniture store. The floral society is holding a second exchange this spring to further stimulate activity in war gardens and urges all members and all who have vegetable plants and seeds to spare or to exchange for some other variety to bring the same to the building on Thursday. Flower plants and seeds are not to be neglected entirely, however, but the greater interest is to be placed on war gardens.

Once more will the people living in the vicinity of Salem have the pleasure of hearing Captain Richmond P. Hobson speak on the prohibition question as it is announced that he is to appear at the city armory on the evening of Thursday May 1st. The subject of his address is "America in War," and he comes under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League of America. Captain Hobson's fame comes of course from the Merriam adventure and later the kissing episode in Kansas. He denies the latter and is content to let his fame rest on his services as a naval officer during the Spanish American war. However, he is a forceful speaker and made a very favorable impression when he visited Salem a few years ago.

W. M. Hamilton, of the P. E. L. & P. company, is sponsor for the following. On a certain day recently his telephone bell rang and on taking down the receiver these words poured into his ear by a woman in extreme haste: "What's the matter with you folks? I've been trying to get your trouble department for the last ten minutes and not a single answer. One of the electric wires in the attic is on fire and I want you to send a man out quick to attend to it. Our number is—north Summer street. Now, hurry, please." Mr. Hamilton lost no time in dispatching a "trouble man" to south Summer street. The latter was welcomed by an eager lady and shown the way to the attic. Reaching there, he found a tiny hole in the shingles where a ray of sunlight was shining through. That was the "electric wire on fire". The good lady's name is withheld.

Other companies will probably follow in Marion county. Already Silverton is about ready with a company.

The companies now mustered into service in Salem are known as E, F and G. Company E meets Tuesday evening at the armory, company F on Friday evenings and company G on Monday evenings. The substitute in the Oregon militia is for two years or for the duration of the war and no service is required outside of the state

ITALIAN WOMAN IS ARRESTED FOR LARCENY

Charge Made In California May Have Been Trumped Up By Husband

A young Italian woman giving her name as Rosa DeMarco was arrested at the depot this morning as she stepped from the 6:05 northbound Southern Pacific train, on the charge of grand larceny. The girl's mother, Mrs. Jack Ross lives at 2153 north Liberty street, to whom she was coming to live with from Siuson, Calif.

The young woman formerly lived in Salem and about two months ago went to Siuson to cook and keep house for her father. According to her story, she had only been there a few weeks when her father forced her to marry another Italian who was a friend of her father's. She wrote to her mother here, saying she had been forced into the marriage, but she did not care for the man she had been made to marry and that she was very unhappy and miserable.

Her mother wrote for her to come home and live with her. The young woman, who is confined at the police station awaiting the arrival tonight of a constable from Siuson to take her back to California, says that her father and husband watched her and would not give her a chance to run off. She finally succeeded in doing it, however, and boarded the train at Siuson yesterday arriving here this morning.

She brought her clothing and all her belongings in a little satchel. Among her effects was a .32-calibre Colt's automatic revolver which her husband claimed was his, on which claim he had her arrested here for grand larceny. The constable of Siuson, an Italian named Piluso, wired the officers here to hold the young woman unless she could arrange to take her back to Siuson. Piluso will arrive at 6:05 a. m. tomorrow.

The young woman is about 18 years of age and until being induced to go to California lived with her mother in Salem. Her mother is an Italian, the father's present husband being the girl's step-father.

GERMAN OFFICIALS SENT TO PRISON

San Francisco, April 30.—Sentences of two years each in federal prison and $10,000 fine—the maximum penalty under the law—were pronounced today on Franz Bopp, former German consul, Eric Von Schaeck, former vice consul, and Lieutenant Wilhelm Von Brincken, military attaché, for conspiracy in the Hindia revolt plot.

In passing sentence, Judge Van Fleet declared the penalty was entirely too small, and urged United States District Attorney Preston to ask Washington to draft a new law with a more severe penalty attached.

The 25 others convicted were sentenced to various terms up to 22 months in jail and $5,000 fine. Judge sentence was passed, Attorney Theodore Roche for the German defendants, made a final appeal, declaring the sentencing was not within the province of the court. Judge Van Fleet said that any such legal objection should be taken up in a higher court.

Former chancellor Kaufmann's sentence was postponed until May 4. "A jail sentence for Kaufmann would be a death sentence," pleaded his attorney, Judge Van Fleet then said he would fine his $5,000 and eliminate the jail sentence. Kaufmann said he had no money. Bopp offered to put up the money, but Prosecutor Preston declared Bopp's money was tied up by the alien property custodian. The sentence of S. Ghalli, a Hindu, also was postponed when Preston said Ghalli was wanted as a witness in the federal grand jury investigation.

Huston's Withdrawal Cause Much Trouble

In regard to the withdrawal of S. B. Huston as candidate for United States senator and as to what the county clerks shall do in regard to placing his name on the ballot, the matter has progressed no further than a request by county clerk U. G. Boyer to district attorney Max Gehlhar asking for advice. Today Mr. Gehlhar has the matter under advisement. In the meantime, county clerks from all parts of the state are holding up the printing of their ballots awaiting some legal advice from state authorities as to whether they can legally omit the name of Mr. Huston, since his name is on the official ballot. As the office of district attorney is part of the legal machinery of the state, it is more than probable that Attorney General Brown would give an opinion should the case be referred to him. In the meantime county clerks are wiring into the office of Secretary of State Ben W. Olcott asking what shall be done. As the matter now stands, the matter is beyond the office of secretary of state and up to the legal departments.

I am convinced that American thrift will respond to the call of my country and will contribute to her help so important in this combat."
