torney Gehlbauer appearing for the state and an attorney for Portland representing the defendant. The case was called at 2 o'clock. At 3:20 o'clock the evidence being all in, Judge Webster bound the defendant over to the grand jury in the sum of $500.

F. G. Dockebach, chairman of the Marion county Liberty loan committee is in receipt of a letter from the executive chairman of the Oregon central committee expressing "its sincere gratification at the magnificent result attained by Oregon in winning the first national Honor Flag. Also, the excellent manner in which the campaign was handled in Marion county. It is the wish of the executive committee that every volunteer worker in the state should understand how commendable his work has been."

Albany folks can save ten cents by coming to Salem for a hair cut. Just recently the Albany barbers figured there wasn't enough money in a 35 cent hair cut and while boosting the figures, went to Salem one better and raised the price to 50 cents while in Salem the limit is 40 cents.

For the purpose of service and also the giving of better pressure, the Salem Water company announces that during the months of June, July, August and September, water for irrigation purposes during the usual hours would be furnished houses having even numbers on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday. Houses with odd numbers will be allowed to irrigate on Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. By this arrangement every house will be given four days in the week water for irrigation.

In many cities, the water companies require the holding of the nozzle during irrigation as a means of preventing waste, but nothing has been done in this city by the local company.

The Colonel Insists Its "Too Good To Be True"

There has been a persistent rumor circulating through the city that in case Mr. Unruh received the republican nomination for the office of justice of the peace, he would resign or withdraw in favor of J. H. Cradlebaugh. The utter silliness of the rumor is shown by the fact that Mr. Cradlebaugh has not received the nomination and may not. Assuming that he will, he desires to say that Mr. Unruh has no intention of getting out of the race in his favor. The Colonel is getting along in years and in the course of all of them nothing ever happened to him like someone deliberately getting out of his way, and passing him the turkey. It is much like the old fellow whose wife ran away from him, and who was visited by an old friend who was not aware of the elopement. He asked about the wife and proceeded to mention what a high regard he always had for her, winding up with the statement that she was one of the best women in the world.

"Yes," said the bereaved one as the tears trickled down his cheeks, "she was a good woman, Bill, a fine woman. She was too jerned good to be true." This is correct.—J. H. Cradlebaugh.

Cherry City Mills Buy Capital City Mills

The building committee of the city council took a look over the site of the Capital City mill and the proposed paving to be done on Church street by the mill owners.

At a recent meeting of the city council the Cherry City Mills were given permission to move the mill to a site adjoining the Capital City Mills. A short time ago the Cherry City mill owners bought the Capital City mill and it is their plan to unite the two mills.

As the paving on Church street did not connect with the mill property the council gave permission to the mill to do some additional paving. After the Cherry City Mill has been moved to Church street and united with the other mill, all the incoming business will be conducted from Trade street and the outgoing business from Church street. It will be remembered that the Cherry City Mill wanted a spur built to the mill on Trade street a few years ago but the supreme court held the street was in the residence district and upheld the injunction of the lower court prohibiting the railroad from building the spur.

Patriotic Rally Well Attended Last Night
A fair sized audience greeted the speakers at the armory last evening, George L. Rauch of Portland talking on the conditions of the Willamette valley after the war and Sergeant Christy on his experiences at the front. Mr. Rauch said that the resources of the valley had scarcely been touched and that at the close of the war, there would be a rush to agricultural lands by people who might be thrown out of employment. He predicted that many farms that had been abandoned in the valley would sell at a premium. Taking a view of the general situation at the close of war, Mr. Rauch predicted a great period of prosperity. Sergeant Christy thought the war might continue for three years longer and that the American people must get accustomed to reverses. He was not especially discouraged that the allies had lost ground during the recent drives, taking the stand that it was better generalship to yield gradually than to sacrifice troops.
