Heavy Rains Needed In Eastern Oregon

Portland, Or., May 11.—Unless heavy rains visit the ranges in Oregon and Washington east of the mountains before July 1, serious injury will result to the sheep industry, Thomas P. Mackenzie reported today.

Mackenzie, who is assistant district forester at Portland headquarters, returned today from an inspection trip covering eastern Oregon and Washington.

Already young lambs are shrankling because of the extreme dryness, he said. The grass in the foothills is very short. The national forests are being thrown open earlier than usual to aid the sheep growers.

SALFM LITTLE FOLKS DELIGHTED BY ONES IN FAIRYLAND'S TRIP

May Festival Under Direction of Mrs. Ralph White, Great Success

There really was a bit of fairyland staged at the opera house last evening in the May Festival, given under the direction and training of Mrs. Ralph White. And although one or two of the little faeries did fall asleep and did drift into the vale of real fairyland, it all added to the interest of the evening.

And while the average citizen is not quite sure whether an entertainment given by children really is an entertainment, the fact was shown last evening that when properly drilled, the little ones can do some artistic work as well as the grown ups. The audience was most liberal with encores and it was simply because the audience was most wonderfully pleased.

The winding of the May pole by the little girls, the opening number show ed a stage wonderfully set with banks of flowers and lights in harmony with the setting. The dancing of the youngsters was graceful and they did it as if really enjoying themselves.

The strowing of flowers by the two and three year old girls and their banking on the steps of the throne made a pretty scene and evinced the hearty applause of the audience.

After noting how well the children were dancing and how carefully they had been trained, the audience proceeded to enjoy itself, encouraging the dancers with generous applause. And when some little tot proceeded to almost fall asleep or take the liberty of walking off the stage right in the midst of the show, it really amused all as well as the regular numbers.

It was a good show and those who failed to see it missed one of the really entertaining evenings of the season. For when the little ones enjoy their stage work, as they did last evening, it all adds to the joyousness of the occasion.

For those who weren't quite sure whether the entertainment was worth while, it may be said that the children really did wonder, the costuming was really gorgeous and everybody enjoyed themselves, including the children.

EFFECTIVE BLOCKADE

establishes that since the inspired announcement by the entire German-Austrian press regarding the impending offensive against the Italians, indications are daily apparent of a complete reorganization of the Austrian armies in that theatre and of preparations for an offensive.

The Austrians have inaugurated a campaign of raids and reconnaissances usually the prelude of a major attack. The Austrian high command apparently has divided its forces into two groups the armies of each being commanded separately.

The effective divisions holding down the Italian front, which were allowed to decrease during the winter, have been reinforced. The number of companies has been increased and the artillery filled out.

From various sources it is learned that extensive efforts are in progress for the purpose of restoring the combative quality of the Austrian army.

While these preparations seemingly indicate an offensive against Italy, allied military officials recognize that this new military concentration could easily be thrown against the Franco-British front.

Reports from the Macedonian front state that after a winter of inactivity the French and British have begun activities, capturing several villages during the past month.

The Macedonian front is now held exclusively by Bulgarians. The German divisions formerly there have been transferred to the French front and into Asia Minor and Syria. Although German officers are still commanding the artillery and aviation units and the Bulgarians presumably are acting under the German imperial staff, they do not give any evidence of an offensive.

I. W. W. Organ Opposed To All Government

Chicago, May 11.—Excerpts from "Solidarity" of Chicago and the "Industrial Worker" of Spokane, branded as "anti-registration" propaganda, went into the records of the I. W. W. trial here today. These varied from paragraphs quips on the "plunder war" to long articles on I.

W. W. creed professed by the 112 defendants.

"Slaves are good as fighters or fertilizers. What are you good for?" was one of alleged anti-conscription appeals read from "Solidarity" by the government attorney.

"This war is neither for principle nor for peace," was another. "It is for plunder."

"Members joining the military force have always been expelled from the organization," was another quotation.

Mary Roberts Rinehart, the "Industrial Worker" intimated, was a sabotage victim during a trip through Yellowstone Park. The party's cook, becoming displeased, threw a sudden epidemic of illness. Also, fish caught by the party was stolen by a "cat." "Cat" is I. W. W. slang for sabotage, it was explained.

Hun scientists, it is reported, have developed a chemical formula that makes starving to death a comparatively happy experience. You simply have to hand it to those Germans when it comes to efficiency.

Insulation

Every part of your electrical system must be made leak proof by insulation.

Inside your battery is the most important insulation of all—that which separates the positive from the negative plates, for this prevents the battery from "short circuiting," and thus putting the whole system out of commission.

In the Still Better Willard, the insulation is made of durable, acid-resisting rubber.

Thus Willard Threaded Rubber Insulation means a better insulated battery, a more durable, more efficient battery.

Government Will Go Out of Shipping Business

San Francisco, May 11.—The division of operation of the United States shipping board will be discontinued after June 1, according to an announcement at the local office of the United States shipping board.

According to this statement the government will go out of the ship operating business entirely and will turn over all its vessels to private companies.

The reason given by shipping board officials is that foreign trade development is not proceeding satisfactorily under government management. Members of the ship control committee, who are mostly officials of steamer lines, were said to have convinced the shipping board heads that foreign trade could be handled successfully only under private control.

JURY ACQUITS WOMAN

San Francisco, May 11.—A jury on which four women sat acquitted Mrs. Irene Fucelli of a charge of murder after a deliberation of just one hour late yesterday. The entire trial lasted only a few hours.

Mrs. Fucelli testified that she shot and killed her husband on March 29 after he had threatened to kill her because another child was to be born.
