POLITICAL ISSUES CENTER OF INTEREST UNTIL FALL ELECTION

Lid Has Been Ripped Off Congress Since Most Members Desire Re-Election

By L. C. Martin, (United Press Staff Correspondent.)
Washington, May 13.—The political lid has been ripped off congress. With one-third the senate and the entire house up for re-election this fall, all members are preparing their trench work for the hottest war time congressional election in the country's history. Champ Clark, in his speech Saturday night at Fort Wayne, Ind., announced the democratic issue.

"We will fight on our record," he said. "During our tenure of office we have passed more constructive legislation than the republicans did in two decades." Today the republican leaders "came back" at Clark with what they say will be their campaign issue—alleged failure of the democratic party to efficiently wage the war.

The first issue of the National Republican to be published in Washington has appeared with heavy headlines linking the democratic party with the growth of the socialist movement. In a frank statement of the political situation regarding congressional election, a leading republican in the senate said today: "Members seeking re-election wish they could make their records in congress the issue. But, despite the excellent record of congress in supporting the administration through speedy passage of war legislation, the country will not be satisfied to elect on this basis."

Manufacturing Concerns Put On Sugar Ration

Portland, Or., May 13.—All manufacturing concerns using sugar in their products are to be put upon a rationing basis, beginning May 15, under a new Food Administration regulation just announced by Assistant Federal Food Administrator W. K. Newell. After that date no manufacturer must buy sugar nor wholesale or retail dealers sell sugar to any manufacturer, without the surrender of a certificate issued by the food administration.

SIMPSON WILL TALK TO SALEM VOTERS AT BLIGH THEATER

Candidate For Governor Is Meeting Voters of Capital City Today

L. J. Simpson, republican candidate for governor, will speak this evening at the Bligh theater, which will be thrown open free to the public that it may hear Mr. Simpson and learn just what he would do should he become the next governor of the state.

Before the address is made several reels will be shown, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. And as this is to be especially for voters, the theater this evening is for adults only and children will not be admitted.

Mr. Simpson takes the stand that when he becomes the governor of the state, he will live in Salem, make this his home and entertain visitors who may come to the city. And more than that, when prominent eastern people come to Portland, they will be invited to visit Salem before returning east and be entertained by the governor. Mr. Simpson stands for the following: Do all that can be done to encourage manufacturing plants in the state to increase the state's payroll and prevent raw materials from being shipped east.

Commissioner Believes Labor Will Be Sufficient

Labor Commissioner Hoff, reviewing the labor situation, especially on the farms, is of the opinion there will be no serious trouble on account of labor shortage. That there is a shortage is not denied but it is not sufficient to cause worry. The crops will all be made by J. W. Brewer shows a variation of help from 10,000 for all the year help to 17,000 during haying and harvest. The census of 1910 shows 46,070 farms in Oregon and 33,312 farm laborers. Allowing for an increase of ten per cent there should be this year in round numbers 50,000 farms and 36,000 farm laborers.

Mr. Hoff expects the greatest shortage of help will be in the berry fields and orchards. The farm survey estimates there will be at least 10,000 recruits, from the cities and which will relieve the situation. It also shows the wheat situation is much better than last year. There has been a material increase in acreage in both winter and spring wheat. The outlook is for a yield above normal. Last year the yield of winter wheat was 35 per cent below normal and the spring 40 per cent below. The estimates for Oregon's total yield for this year is 19,759,000 bushels.

Each manufacturer must make and submit to the Food Administration. Under this system fictitious demands will be eliminated, and every phase of the manufacturing business has been so carefully considered that injustice and unfair discrimination will be avoided, and interference with business kept at the lowest possible minimum consistent with the essential saving of sugar.

Carnival of Bicycle Stealing in Salem

There has been a carnival of bicycle stealing both here and in Corvallis for some time, and Constable Varney came to the conclusion there was some connection between the two facts and the thieves working on this theory he made arrangements by which Hall Harrington was arrested in Corvallis, Saturday on a charge of larceny of a bicycle. Varney had held two bicycles here, believed to have been stolen, for some time. One was an Indian and the other a Pope. Through Watt Shipp he learned from the state agent for the Indian bicycle at Portland that the machine had been sold to Long & Cooper of Corvallis, and they in turn sold it to a man named Moore who is attending O. A. C. Harrington brought this Indian bike, it was then learned, to Salem, and traded it to Mr. Schindler, the second hand dealer, for a motorcycle. It was following this discovery that Harrington was arrested at Corvallis. Varney went to Corvallis after him Saturday but the local authorities decided to hold him and try for his conviction there. If he is convicted by his sentence, and if acquitted will be brought here at once.

HIGHER GAS RATE WANTED IN SALEM

The Portland Railway, Light & Power Company this morning filed a petition with the Public Service Commission asking a hearing, and an increase in its rates on gas furnished plants in Salem. It shows that the schedule heretofore fixed by the commission is wholly inadequate to meet the expense of carrying on the business of supplying gas to the city. It alleges that the value fixed on the company's property for rate-making purposes is $211,797.24 and that since this valuation was fixed the company has made additions to its plant at a cost of $3,779.54. The Public Service Commission has fixed the amount properly allowed for depreciation at $3,320. The petition alleges the minimum return which the company has the right to expect is 6 per cent and this amounts to $12,934.60. The gross operating income for 1917 was $38,990.82 and the net operating revenue was $2,353, or 1.09 per cent upon the value of the plant as fixed by the commission.

MRS. LUST CONFIDENT OF HER ACQUITTAL

Waukesha, Wis., May 13.—Fully confident, and apparently unaffected by her long residence in the county jail, Miss Grace Lusk was called into court today on a charge of murder—the shooting of Mrs. Mary Newman Roberts, on June 21, 1917.

Emotional Insanity Is Probable Defense of Mrs. Roberts' Slayer

Emotional insanity is expected to be the plea of Miss Lusk's attorneys. The shooting took place when Mrs. Roberts called on the school teacher to discuss the latter's relations with Dr. David Roberts. Since his wife's death Dr. Roberts has sought seclusion.

Big Appropriations For Heavy Ordnance

Washington, May 13.—The war department today asked congress for an appropriation of approximately $5,000,000 for heavy ordnance. This is in addition to the estimates of $15,000,000 placed before the house military committee by Secretary Baker last week. The big ordnance estimate was placed before the house appropriation committee this morning by Brigadier General John R. Barrette, acting chief of coast artillery, and from it the fortification bill will be framed.

BREAK BUILDING RECORDS

Philadelphia, May 13.—Breaking all previous records for building a ship, the New York Shipbuilding plant, South Camden, N. J., will give the collier Tuckahoe its trial trip Wednesday morning. The ship was launched a week ago yesterday, twenty seven days after the keel was laid.

FIRST HALF OF MONTH HAS LITTLE RAIN FALL

This is a weather story comparing the first half of this month with the same period of May in the four preceding years. There is always a saying that the "mate is changing. The observations of the weather bureau in Salem as officially reported to the official weather observer at Portland for this district gives the actual weather conditions, and does not show any change in climate.

Less Than One-Third of An Inch Rainfall—Which Is Below Average

The present month started in much warmer than the average for May, with maximum temperatures of 72, 70, 75, 70, 72, then drifting down into maximum temperatures the past week of 62, 63, 70 and 71.

The minimum temperatures for this month were also much higher than the average for several years, as the official records show, 50, 52, 54 and 48, with minimums for the past week of 43, 39, 43 and 41. This is warmer than one year ago at nights for the first half of May.

In 1914, the first half of May showed a maximum temperature running from 56 to 72, with an average of 69, while the minimum average was about the same as this month. For 1915, the weather was a few degrees cooler with the night temperature as low as 54 degrees. For 1916, the May weather was somewhat cooler than this month with an average of 68 maximum and the minimum average a degree or two lower than for this month.

The first half of May, 1917, was considerably cooler than so far this month as the highest temperature reached the first half of the month was 68 and the average was 63. May of one year ago was one of the coolest months for years and so far the month of May has been above the average in warmth.

The official weather report for the month of May of 1908 proves that the climate is not changing to any great extent. The maximum of May for 1908 opened with 64, 75, 77, 73, and then dropped for several days to 59, 62, 67, 74 and 66, much the same as in years past while the low night temperatures averaged along 44, 47, 46, 39 and 50, just as it has been doing for years past.
