There's a wonderful difference between a well-knit, all wool-of-high-grade, ribbed stitch sweater and the common sweaters that you buy in the dark, as it were.

Buy your next sweater or bathing suit carefully; look at the label, and if you find the name Jantzen thereon, you can rest assured that you are getting a garment that you will enjoy owning for a long, long time.

There's a Jantzen dealer in your town.

In Marion county, 441 registered who either had no party affiliations or at least refused to acknowledge any.

Outside of Multnomah county, where 992 registered as socialists, that party is strongest in Lane county with 642 registered, while the same element is strong in Coos county with 507 registering. Baker county and also Douglas county each have 352 socialists, while Marion county registered only 298.

In Portland and Multnomah county, 1486 are standing by the prohibition party. Outside of Portland, Yamhill county showed the strongest prohibition feeling with 898 standing firm, while Marion county lined up third with a prohibition registration of 552. The next strongest prohibition county is Washington, with 427 clinging to the past and then Lane county with 410. There are more socialists than prohibitionists in Lane county. Harney county with its registration of 2756 did not register a single prohibitionist or even one progressive.

In Marion county, 35 voters are swinging on to the old progressive party, 3953 registered as Democrats and 11,702 as republicans.

The city election is absolutely non-partisan and all official ballots look alike.

The time may come when voters will be able to cast a vote for city officials and county and state at the same voting place. But for the election Friday, the great majority of voters will vote according to their ward residence and then again in the precinct from which they have registered.

Labor Very Scarce In Polk County

Dallas, Or., May 13.—Although Polk county has approximately $147,000 in hand for road work, the money is lying idle for want of contractors to prosecute the work contemplated for this year.

Twenty one bridges in the county have been condemned because of their unsafe condition, yet it is only possible to secure sufficient help, and that at an extremely high wage, to render these structures safe for traffic.

Three weeks ago the county court advertised for bids for the improvement of 10 miles of road over what is known as Butler Hill, saving nine miles in connecting with the main Tillamook road. Not a single bid was received for the work, which would require the greater part of the summer to perform. The same is true regarding the operation of the county's two rock quarries. Notwithstanding that the court has made a liberal wage scale for workmen, it has thus far been unable to find even a small crew.

Usually at this season of the year the county has about 150 men engaged in road work, while at present there is only local patch operations underway.

insects, which drop on the platform. The plants spring back just as the second section comes along, and receive a double jolt just as they bend back over the platform. This almost completely knocks the remaining pests down to the rear platform.

The aphids are then scooped from the platform into a vessel and destroyed—either burned or buried.

America's Shipbuilding Program Is Increased

New York, May 13.—America's shipbuilding program probably will be increased fifty per cent, if the plans of Director General Charles M. Schwab materialize, it was learned today on Schwab's departure for Cleveland.

Before leaving on the first leg of his tour of inspection of the shipyards along the Great Lakes, Schwab declared that such an increase was feasible.

Similar occurrences were reported at Zhaliki and Omeli. Those suspected of being Bolsheviks were shot in the spot. Many persons were flogged. Old men were bound on horse saddles and dragged by mules.

stances except those of the utmost urgency will persuade General Foch to exhaust the Americans for defensive purposes. There is no other force of fighters left in the world that contains such splendid offensive material as the Americans. This is because America is the only first class power left that still has its young men intact; and it is the youths in the twenties who make the best offensive soldiers. It is improbable, too, that General Foch, who consent under normal circumstances to the permanent employment of these virile, active soldiers. Nor is it likely he will be agreeable to their employment for a major offensive until there are enough Americans in France to give a reasonable surty of success. The brigading of Americans during the present period of combats is an admirable procedure for completing their training. It is futile for soldiers to enter upon offensive operations with simply a training in the theory of warfare. Actual practice is absolutely necessary for the Americans and this they can get with maximum results through the brigading method. But, the brigading is only preliminary to the real thing, and the real thing will come when there are sufficient Americans in France for an offensive on a gigantic scale that may push the fighting front well into Germany between the Lorraine border and the Rhine. For the American armies to be held back until a plan such as this can be matured is the highest complaint the allies can pay the United States.

UNITED STATES SENATOR
Charles L. McNary

Because United States Senator Charles L. McNary has made good himself in the republican primary, May 17th.

From the day he became senator he has loyally championed the prosecution of the war, and during his term of office has accomplished more for Oregon than any other member in congress in a like period.

Among his colleagues he is known as "the man on the job," and during the present war crisis Oregon should consider itself fortunate in having an opportunity to return him and not be compelled to send to Washington a new, untried man.

Believing that the supreme obligation he owes his country is to help win the war, Senator McNary, instead of returning to his state to conduct a political campaign, is at his post in Washington working for Oregon and aiding in the prosecution of the war.

Always since entering the senate he has been a friend of our soldiers and sailors and has introduced legislation giving them preferential homestead rights and repeatedly championed their cause when their welfare was in jeopardy.

Championing the cause of the Oregon farmers, Senator McNary procured for them a primary wheat market, saving thereby several million dollars to the wheatgrowers of the northwest.

Realizing the present food control law fails to fix prices for many commodities, Senator McNary has introduced, and is laboring for the passage of a bill, striking at profiteering and fixing prices on the necessities of life.

defensive alliance against Russia has been renewed, according to a dispatch to the Neuwasser Zeitung today from its Vienna correspondent. The details of similar alliances against other countries will also be worked out it was said.

Considerable bitterness has been engendered between the German military party and Austro-Hungarian leaders because of the latter's refusal to lend troops to aid Germany, particularly on the western front, and in Ukraine.

Members of the Austro-Hungarian legislative bodies have also openly protested against German exploitation of her victory over Russia.

Real American Woman —You Bet She Can Vote!

Among the hundreds of questions asked the Attorney general during the year none more concisely put or based on so solid a foundation was ever presented.

The letter follows and speaks for itself leaving absolutely no possibility for comment, for the woman said it all:

Port Orford, Or., May 5, 1918.
Dear Mr. Brown: My husband, S. P. Peirce, joined the Canadian forces and went overseas, has been through this drive the last month in the Ypres sector with the British Canadian forces in the Royal engineers. He wanted to get in the U. S. engineer service but he was over age limit. Now what I want to ask is can I vote?

All my folks have gone with the U. S. A. Three nephews under 21 enlisted and are now at the front. My brother is going next week. Am I an American subject or what? I am running the ranch. I have plowed and helped put in 12 acres of grain. I am milking 14 cows and running a dairy of 30 cows. Make all the butter and do all the house work and I bought a bond also.

Now don't tell me I am not an American, because I keep the old flag flying all the time.

Wishing you all the success in the world.

Your old time friend,
MRS. S. P. PEIRCE.

The attorney general's answer was: "You are still an American citizen and have a right to vote."

Aphids by the Bushel Are Caught in Dozer

Corvallis, Ore., May 13.—Vetch aphids are literally caught by the bushel in a simple, home made dozer devised in response to the demand for some way to stop the destruction of the vetch crop in many parts of Oregon.

"This should be the means of saving $35,000 to $40,000 to the vetch farmers if you can get the information before them through the press," says Prof. A. L. Lovett, the station entomologist. "If used on the fields at once it will save most of the crop."

The device, 10 feet long or more, consists of a front and a rear section attached to each of them about 18 inches apart. The front section is made as follows: One or more boards from the bottom, which is 18 inches wide. The back and ends are made of inch boards 12 inches wide. The back ends are made of inch boards 12 inches wide. It is mounted on three low runners about 1 1/2 inches high. Wires or light ropes are attached to the front of the outside runners and brought together at the single tree, which is held high by the breech straps to keep them from knocking down the aphids.

The rear section is made just like the front, with the addition of a cloth backdrop stretched full length of the board forming the back, and an inch strip is tacked on the front edge of the bottom, to keep the aphids from crawling off.

The operator mounts the horse and drags the dozer over the field, going in a brisk walk. The edge of the first section strikes the beech stalks near the ground and dislodges many of the
