L. J. SIMPSON MAKES PLAIN BUSINESS TALK

If Elected Will Work For Interests of Whole State and Not Play Politics

"There is too much politics in the state government and not enough downright business," declared L. J. Simpson, republican candidate for governor in his address last evening at the Bligh theater. "We've got to quit playing politics if we have a proper development in Oregon. I can assure you that if I am elected, I will not play politics. As to a clean sweep of the state house, I will say that if a man is in office and is fit, he should stay there."

Mr. Simpson pleaded in favor of a business administration, claiming that state affairs should be managed as a business man manages his business. "I believe Oregon has been asleep and too provincial. The question is when any new movement is suggested, what good is it to me. Oregon must awaken and cast aside all such prejudices and policies. What builds one part of Oregon builds the whole state."

He thought Portland should awake to the fact that state wide development meant business for Portland and that Portland capital should help in building up the industries of the state.

To the credit of Mr. Simpson, it may be said that he did not attempt to do the old political stunt of telling funny stories to get his audience in a good humor. He stated plainly what he stood for and why he thought he should be elected governor. And what he stood for was the development of Oregon and the care of returning soldiers.

WOOLPERT IS MADE LIEUTENANT COLONEL

Two Regiments Created—First Regiment of 8 Battalions, Gets Officers

Two regiments of Oregon Guard have been created with William C. North of Portland as colonel in command, on orders issued by Adjt General Whiet. Second in command is Major A. T. Woolpert, of Salem, who has been elevated to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

To fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Mr. Woolpert, Captain A. A. Hall of Company G has been promoted to the rank of major. Company G at its meeting next Monday night will elect a successor to Major Hall.

The first regiment of the Oregon guard is composed of a battalion of four companies in Portland and the battalion of Salem composed of the three companies here and the one company at Silverton. Acording to orders as now issued, a regiment can include but eight companies. Battalions at La Grande and Roseburg will constitute the second regiment.

For the First Regiment Oregon guard the ranking officers are as follows:

W. C. North, of Portland, colonel; A. T. Woolpert, of Salem, lieutenant-colonel, and A. A. Hall, of Salem major.

The officers of the three companies in Salem are:

Company E: Captain A. R. Wilson; first lieutenant, Fred Mangis; second lieutenant, A. B. Poole.

Company F: Captain Jesse H. Arnold, first lieutenant, Clifford W. Brown; second lieutenant, A. Lee Morelock.

Company G: successor to Major A. A. Hall to be elected Monday night; first lieutenant, M. L. Meyers; second lieutenant, Robert Duncan.

Company H, of Silverton: Captain Ernest M. Smith; first lieutenant, Reber G. Allen; second lieutenant, H. Gordon McCall.

Stayton has organized a husky Oregon Guard company with 100 enthusiastic volunteers with the following officers: Captain Lawrence S. Lambert first lieutenant, Emil R. Nelson; second lieutenant, John H. Thoma. The Stayton company will be known as Company I, but until further orders are received, will be attached to no regiment.

It is probable that within 30 days a battalion drill will be held in Salem with the three companies of Salem and the Silverton company. As there is no open space in the city large enough to accommodate the open work of a battalion, the drill will probably be held in the open space near the penitentiary.

As there are several expenses in creating a battalion that are not included in the appropriation, during the summer and winter a series of entertainments will be given to create a battalion fund.

HAVE LOST THEIR NERVE

Zurich, May 14.—British naval operations against German submarines are causing consternation among the crews and the German admiralty, according to information from Berlin received today.

Operations were suspended on new super-submarines at Wilhelmshafen and Kiel because they were too big and other faults were found in their construction.

It is admitted that many submarines have been destroyed, one whole squadron failing to return from a cruise in the Atlantic.

OVERMAN BILL PASSED.

Washington, May 14.—The house today passed the Overman empowering bill. All amendments proposed failed to pass and the bill was passed exactly as it came from the senate.

ELECTED OFFICERS

Willamette university yesterday elected the following officers for the student body for the coming year:

President, Harold Nichols.
Vice president, Leila Johnson.
Secretary, Helen Rose.
Treasurer, Robert Story.
Editor of Collegian, Homer Trask.
Manager of the Collegian, Royal Moore.

INTEREST IS DUE

Washington, May 14.—The first semi-annual interest payment on bonds of the Second Liberty loan will be due tomorrow.

BROUGHT DOWN EIGHT.

Paris, May 14.—Sergeant Bayless, the American aviator with the French army, has brought down his eighth German plane.

"Over the Top In Forty-Eight Hours"

That is the slogan which signifies the spirit of the Second Red Cross war fund campaign in Salem. The officially fixed dates for the campaign are May 20-27, 1918.

Salem will be headquarters for the campaign covering both Marion and Polk counties.

The quota for Marion county is $30,000, and for Polk county $9,000.

The plans, which seem to be abundantly guaranteed by the caliber of the men selected to carry them out, are to put both counties over the top in 48 hours.

Although attended by little ado, plans are going forward in Salem with the vigor and precision that has resulted from the several successful war fund drives, and from now on the public will be made familiar with them in detail.

Headquarters have been established on State street in the building lately vacated by the Postal Telegraph company.

Plans are being made for a thorough house-to-house canvas, and it is the intention to overlook none. It is felt that the people will come forward in much larger numbers and relieve the solicitors of much unnecessary pleading and arguments.
