GRACE LUSK'S

Forty year old school teacher and taunted her with being his play thing. And while the jury heard her own lawyers reveal her passion-torn soul, another was placed on trial before the bar of public opinion. Dr. Roberts, church pillar and solid citizen, saw his life tattered before his neighbors.

The alleged trips he took with Grace Lusk, even outside Wisconsin, were described by Henry Lockney, chief of defense. Miss Lusk, according to Lockney, yielded herself completely to the man. All she asked was his undivided love. She didn't demand marriage. Put off again and again, she became morbid and with suicidal intent purchased a revolver.

The weapon lay beside letters by which she sought to show Mrs. Roberts was the pursuer, not the pursued. Her reason snapped, according to Lockney, and after shooting down the wife, Miss Lusk shot herself and then held off police at a revolver point when she thought she was dying and dictated the statement "It's strange, but I love him still."

In reply to this the state sought to show by witnesses today that Miss Lusk had threatened Mrs. Roberts' life previously; that the shooting was a murder committed by a sane, highly educated woman. Captain (Dr.) R. E. Davis, who was first to reach Grace following the shooting, gave as his expert opinion that she was sane at that time, "although under tension."

Between Grace Lusk and Dr. Roberts never a sign of recognition passes in the courtroom. A probable refusal to discuss the case. Mrs. Roberts' mother, aged 70, and Grace Lusk's aged father are two other pathetic figures in the room.

WILSON INSISTS

osition, as wholesale inquiries into various departments in the government are directed, whether there is any necessity therefore or not.

The report pointed out that the military affairs committee possess all the power it needs under a resolution passed in April, 1917.

The president's letter to Senator Martin was construed by some as opposing any investigation and by others as not opposing an aircraft inquiry, but merely any probe that would go into the general conduct of the war in an embarrassing way.

The latter view was verified by information sent to the senate by an official who is extremely close to the president and who made his statement as to the president's attitude as strong as it could be made.

Other objections advanced to the Chamberlain resolution are that the appropriation of $10,000 for expenses of the inquiry would exhaust the contingent fund.

It is unlikely that the fight on the resolution will occur until tomorrow. Meantime administration leaders are working at top speed lining up votes. They already claim enough to defeat the resolution.

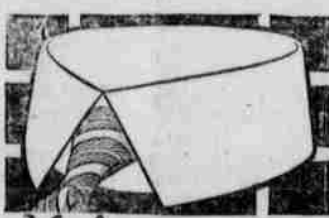

Senator Chamberlain said today he made no effort to organize a fight for the resolution. "If the senate defeats it," said Chamberlain, "I will take that to mean that the senate does not want an investigation."

President Makes Denial

With President Wilson En Route to New York, May 17.—President Wilson today authorized Secretary Tamm to deny emphatically that he is opposed to any investigation of the government's aircraft program.

He is, however, opposed to the "covert purpose" of the Chamberlain resolution which he declares he "knows and understands."

Here's a Woman With Regular German Moral Code

Chicago, May 17.—"The woman about to present the race with a war baby may be pardoned if she asks by whom she shall be forgiven and for what," Dr. A. Lindsay Wynkoop, Chicago woman physician told the State Mother's Congress.

"Woman can't give her life in battle as man does," said Dr. Wynkoop. "Her function is to reproduce life, when she does this without social sanction it adds to her sacrifice."

"For the race, is, or is it not more important that the man who loses his life should first have reproduced himself, with or without marriage?"

Dr. Wynkoop is in the government service as a morality worker, emphatically declared herself, however, against any laxity whatever in moral laws.

"The baby is the one to whom unmarried parents should go for forgiveness," she said. "He has the right to be born without a handicap such as the lack of a name. As to woman's sacrifice for war babies, it can't be said she immolated herself for the race. She did not sacrifice herself to help the nation."

Townsend Creamery Company Is Sold Out

Portland, Ore., May 17.—Further narrowing of the control of the industry of the Pacific slope was effected today when the T. S. Townsend creamery company of Portland was sold to A. P. Henningson. Henningson is said to have turned the latter division over to the Mutual Creamery company, of which he is a leading stockholder.

The Mutual Creamery company, is said to own 14 creameries in the territory west of the Rockies and Henningson has other creamery holdings, which give the combination control of practically the entire trade.

This point is designed to clear up conflicting interpretations placed by each press on his formal and informal communications to the senate on the point.

HOP GROWERS THINK ACREAGE REDUCED IN SALEM DISTRICT

Many Growers Have Plowed Up All or Part of Their Former Yards

Hop growers are inclined to the opinion that the acreage will be materially reduced this year. The market at present is quiet at 15 and 16 cents which they figure does not mean an especially profitable crop considering the increased cost of labor. According to reports of the various fields that are being plowed up this spring, the indications are the acreage will be reduced fully one-third of that of one year ago.

Donald McCarthy of Oreville has plowed up part of his hop yards this spring and it is understood Gilbert & Patterson have plowed up about 40 acres. Richard Patterson of Wacanda has plowed up all of his old yards.

Merrill Harding will put the land used for his 50 acre hop yard to other uses this year. Homer Goulet living near Brooks has plowed up his 40 acre tract and Romeo Goulet is devoting all his hop lands to other crops.

It is understood that L. H. McMahon has plowed up about 50 acres of hops. The E. Clemens-Horst Co., of Independence last fall plowed up part of its single tract of 650 acres and it is understood the remainder of the tract will be plowed up this season. This was the largest hop yard in one tract in the state.

There is no demand from England for hops at present and even if there was, no ships could be found for the business. Almost all breweries in the country have seen the prohibition handwriting on the wall and are putting in machinery for the manufacture of soft drinks. A soft drink is anything in the way of a liquid that contains not more than one-half of one per cent alcohol.

The great Anheuser-Busch brewery at St. Louis is making Bevo and the Schlitz people are selling Blitz. Other soft drinks on the market are Silver Foam, Emoh, Rancier, Luxo, Malta, Life-staff, and various malt extracts and it is from the manufacture of these inebrious drinks that the hop market is to be maintained.

WOMEN COULD CARRY RURAL MAIL ROUTE

Twenty-five Applications Now In Before Civil Service Commission

The women are nowadays taking a rather important part in the world's affairs and they seem to be willing to tackle almost any job offered by the government. That is, judging from the number of inquiries received at the postoffice regarding the civil service examination to be held May 25, for mail carrier for rural route 3.

Notwithstanding the fact that it has been announced that rural route 3 is the hardest one to travel of the nine rural routes, already twenty-five women have made application to Paul W. Miller, local secretary of the Civil Service Commission for information and it is probable that the greater number will appear for the examination May 25.

Besides the opening for a new carrier on the route, with the greatest number of hills, the chances are that rural route 1, into Polk county will soon be open for a new carrier and also one running out of Turner.

Polk county route number 1 runs to within a quarter of a mile of Hopewell. Its route is northwesterly along the Wallace road to the county line between Polk and Yamhill counties. It then continues to the Four Corners, skirts the hills around Spring Valley through Zena returning to Salem by the way of Brush college school and the Wallace road. This is the prettiest scenic route of the nine and rural route 3, is the hardest road to travel.

There is now before congress, and in fact it has already passed the senate, a bill providing for an increase of 20 per cent of all postal employees and this of course includes rural route carriers.

At present the salary is $100 a month and the carrier furnishes the mode of travel, whether auto or horse.

It is not yet too late to call on Mr. Miller at the postoffice and put in an application for the May 25 examination and face men as well as women are eligible. A few men may try for the job.

United States Civil Service Calling to Women for Help

The United States Civil Service Commission is calling for more women to work in government offices. The list now includes 60 occupations in the various branches of the clerical and office work. Included among the occupations are, of course, stenographers, typists, and bookkeepers. But then anyone who can qualify as an operator of an adding machine or an addressing machine is welcome. Proof readers, law clerks and telephone operators are wanted. Also trained nurses, library assistants, finger print classifiers and inspectors of undergarments. The commission urges women to offer their services as so many men are called to the colors. Any one interested in government employment should apply to Paul W. Miller at the postoffice. He is local secretary of the Civil Service Commission.

Information Bureau of the Woolen Mill Store

One of the largest drives in manufacturing circles in the U. S. is now in process of development. Is the slogan "Made in the U. S. A." The textile industries are taking an active part. A measure has been introduced in Congress known as the Pomerene National Trade Mark Bill. It is believed to be an Administration measure designed to round out the whole plans for American foreign and Home trade of the future. The Department of Commerce approves of it; the substance of it will be that when Uncle Sam puts his stamp on a manufactured article it will be exactly as represented.
