Flag Raising Exercises at Mill Saturday

At the Spaulding lumber yards near the office on Front street the Spaulding Logging company has erected a flagpole more than 100 feet in height and Saturday afternoon of this week there will be an appropriate flag raising. Special speakers have been invited for the occasion and the event will be attended by all of the Spaulding employes.

Underneath the American flag, 16 by 24 feet, will fly the flag of the Loyal Legion. As the lumbermen of the northwest are closely connected with the government, all loyal workers have been organized into the Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen. On May 1, a special representative of the government, Lieutenant Dean, was in the city and organized the lumbermen and those associated in any way in the production of lumber for ships and airplanes.

Members of the Loyal Legion take an oath to the government to devote all their time and all their efforts toward the production of logs and lumber for the manufacture of army airplanes and ships.

It is the members of this patriotic organization that will take the principal part in the raising of the flag pole Saturday and in flying the flag of the Loyal Legion. Every employe of the Spaulding Logging company has signed as a member of the Loyal Legion and each has been given a card.

Official Canvas Marion County In Progress

The official canvass of the votes cast at the recent primaries is under way with Justice George Mays, Sr., of Mt. Angel, and Justice W. P. Mulkey of Mehama acting with the clerk as the board. The work promises to be a tedious one, as in each and every precinct names were written in and each of these has to be counted as though they had been candidates. Two years ago it was May 30 before the canvass of the vote was completed, the clerks working a short time on that day to complete it. Just how long it will take cannot even be guessed at but it will be a week or ten days it is believed. County Clerk Boyer says the returns are far more complicated than at the last election, and from this alone judges the official count will be delayed longer than usual.
