Should there ever be any move to change the German named streets in Salem, Frederick street can prove an alibi, instead of being named after one of the Fredericks of a certain Prussian family, it is really Danish and named after a niece of Mrs. H. N. Wandt. Her name is Miss Frederick Peterson.

Three thousand new rolls wall paper just received. 15 cents and up. Buren's Furniture Store, Commercial street.
John Graber announces that, notwithstanding the many men who have gone into the service, or left for the ship yards, he will have a band of 20 pieces this summer that will compare favorably with the bands of former years when musicians were more numerous than at present. The band is now practicing and as soon as the June weather indicates summer, the dates for the evening concerts will be arranged. And they will be mostly in daylight during June and July.
It is understood that an ordinance will be presented to the city council at its next meeting prohibiting street carnivals. There seems to be no general opposition to merry-go-rounds and Ferris wheels, but to the old time carnival there is a decided opposition. The opinion is that the days of the old time carnival are past and that if a merry-go-round or Ferris wheel is permitted to come to the city, it should not occupy the best streets.
Andrew Gold escaped or rather eloped yesterday from the Oregon State hospital and as his home is in Multnomah county, he is probably heading that way. He was sent to the institution December 27, 1917, but had been in an inmate once before. Eloping seems to have almost become a habit with him as this is the second time he has concluded to seek other quarters. He is described as 26 years old and a blonde with blue eyes and not considered dangerous.
The body of William Boyle, who was drowned in Pudding river May 12, was found yesterday afternoon. No one saw the accident, and it was only his dog remaining on the bank and refusing to leave it that led to the suspicion that he was drowned. Pudding river is so full of logs and brush that it was impossible to drag it, and so the neighbors stretched a wire fence across the stream and it was entangled in this that the body was found.
About a year ago the slogan among poultry dealers was "swat the rooster." Now all this is changed but the rooster doesn't fare any better even with the new slogan "can the cockerel." The week ending June 3 has been designated by the federal poultry administrator for Oregon as "can the cockerel" week. The administrator claims that it is an extravagant waste of feed and effort to keep roosters after the breeding season is over. Hence the advice to housewives to dispose of Mr. Roostov. The administrator intimates that said rooster occupies the same position in the household as a boarder that doesn't pay and therefore as a war measure should be disposed of.
For the benefit of those who subscribed to the Third Liberty loan on the government plan, paying 5 per cent down, it may be said that 20 per cent of the loan may now be paid, but must not be delayed later than next Tuesday, May 28.—If the bond was for a $50 one, there is due not later than May 28, the 20 per cent, or $10. If a bond of $100, the payment of course is $20. The payment is to be made to the bank designated at the time the bond was bought and five per cent paid. Payments are only to the banks and there will be no collector out calling attention to the fact that the second payment is due.

A naval reserve recruiting party will arrive in Salem Monday and will make headquarters in the store room on State street formerly occupied by the Red Cross. The party will include seven Monday evening addresses will be made at the moving picture theatres and probably at the schools. The party will remain in the city three days, explaining the workings of the navy. Recruits will be sent to Bremerton for training before going to sea. Men between the ages of 18 and 35 will be accepted. Two women are in the party and are officially known as yeomanettes, doing the clerical work. All branches of the navy are open.

Fight for School Trustees May Become Interesting
J. Frank Hughes is the latest candidate to be urged for school director at the coming election and it is understood that petitions will also be presented asking that E. M. LaFore also become a candidate.
According to general information, it is understood that Mr. Hughes and Mr. LaFore will represent certain ideas as to the handling of the school district, while Harley O. White and Chauncey Bishop will stand for the administration of school affairs as handled by the board during the past year.
The election for school director in Salem June 17 will be the second election in which ownership of property is not necessary for the privilege of voting. Regardless of whether or not one owns property in the district or even pays taxes, he or she is entitled to vote if there has been a residence of six months in the state. If the voter is not registered, he may prove his right to vote by two free holders.
Bankers Elect Officers and Conclude Session
Bankers were urged to look with disfavor on loans for the purchase of automobiles where the purchasers really can not afford to buy such a luxury as an address delivered yesterday afternoon by Sam H. Garland of Lebanon before Group Two of the Oregon State Bankers association. He thought that the average purchaser had never figured out just what it costs to buy an auto, and keep it running.
A number of papers were read by the bankers on subjects of general interest to the banking business. The following officers were elected for the coming year:
President—George W. Wilhelm, of Harrisburg.
Vice president—Joseph H. Albert of Salem.
Secretary—J. C. Irvine of Albany.
Treasurer—W. H. Beard of Falls City.

National Director Will Not Bother Small Roads

The Public Service commission has received a letter from John Barton Payne, legal advisor to Director of Railroads McAdoo, to the effect that the federal government is not bothering about small side railroads, and that the matter of getting the large or main lines to absorb the local charges of these roads for shipping apples is a matter for the state officials to handle. This means that the Public Service commission, can take the matter up with the Interstate Commerce commission, and whatever is done will be satisfactory. At present the local charges on apples at Hood River on the Mt. Hood road is 12 cents a box. Other side roads, such as the Great Southern, running south from The Dalles charge about the same rates and it is to do away with this that the effort is made. Government figures show it costs $1.02 to raise and box a box of apples at Hood River and that the average price for five years has been 93 cents.

Ten Counties Yet To Be Officially Reported Will Decide Close Contest
With official returns from 26 counties the contest between Hoff and Ryan show as compared with the official returns gains for Hoff of 149, and for Ryan of 96, or a net gain for Hoff of 53. The greatest gain was in Yamhill county where the official figures showed Hoff had 98 more votes than he was credited with. The official vote added to the unofficial, the latter being Hoff 11,573 and Ryan 10,486 make a total of Hoff 17,653 and Ryan 17,567, which gives Ryan a lead of 12. There is a report out that Ryan is credited with more votes than he is entitled to in Clackamas county but the figures given in the list below are verified by the Capital Journal today on the authority of the Oregon City Enterprise.

FAIRBANKS HOLDS ON.

Indianapolis, Ind. May 25.—Charles Warren Fairbanks today was reported as its top figure on Friday was 1107-8. The other steel, and all standard shares in fact, were similarly depressed, including such recently buoyant performers as Baldwin Locomotive, Marine Preferred (United States Rubber, National Enameling and Stamping and so on. The tobacco group was distinctly weak, except American Sumatra, which at intervals made some show of strength.
Railroad shares participated in the general heaviness. Some of the rails made a better showing in the second hour. Reading for example, which had sold below 86, rallied to above 87 and the early loss of Union Pacific was made good. New Haven went up about a point. The industrials continued heavy, although still more or less irregular in their movements. Bonds were but moderately active and steady. Liberty 4 1/8 were at new low level at 97.36.

No White Flour Sold Beginning Next Week

The good housekeeper of Salem may save herself the trouble of telephoning her grocer Monday morning to send a supply of wheat flour. There won't be any wheat flour on sale Monday nor Tuesday nor any other day of the week. By advice from the federal food administrator for Oregon, F. W. Stensloff, county food administrator, has issued instructions that no wheat flour shall be sold in the county from Monday May 27 to Friday May 31 inclusive, excepting to bakeries and logging camps.
Instructions have also been issued to every grocer and baker in the city to meet at the Commercial club at 2 o'clock next Friday for the purpose of putting into effect the recent resolution of the county food administrators whereby Oregon is to go on a wheatless basis.
Hence the chances are that beginning Monday next, Oregon will line up with Texas and for the next few months get along without wheat flour. While the order prohibiting the sale of wheat flour in the county is for five days beginning next Monday, the probabilities are that at the Friday meeting orders will be received to continue the prohibition on the sale of wheat flour for several months.

Fear Jeff Baldwin Has Murdered Boy

Corvallis, Or. May 25.—Fearing that a boy's dead body marks the path of Jeff Baldwin, convict who escaped from the state prison two weeks ago, Sheriff Gollaty of Benton county began today a search of the rough country about Blodgett and Alder west of here.
Two boys were seen leaving Newport for Independence last week. Later one of these was seen in the company of a man closely resembling the outlaw. The boy carried a 22 calibre rifle. Later the man appeared at a lumber camp, but the boy has not been seen for a week. It is feared Baldwin killed the boy and took his gun.
Eight members of the military police are still in this district aiding the sheriffs of Benton and Lincoln counties.
