Albert Reber Writes from Naval Training Camp

Albert E. Reber who recently joined the navy through the local recruiting station, writes J. E. Adams, in charge at Salem as follows: "Well, at last I am one of Uncle Sam's men in the making, stationed at the naval training school near San Francisco. This detention camp is great stuff. Just had a shot in the arm, throat culture and a vaccination this morning. Feel rather groggy just at present.

"We are scheduled to get out of camp about June 9, and believe me, when I get on land, I am planning to tear up and down 'Frisee a bit. I expect to gain in weight before detention period is up as they sure throw a fellow a great line of grub and then besides, don't work him very hard."

Oscar N. Overlund, who enlisted in the navy recently from Silverton thru the local recruiting office, is another young man who finds things about right in the navy. He writes Mr. Adams as follows: "Well, I suppose you think I have been swallowed by a sea gull or some thing, by the way I am keeping my promise with regard to writing. Got here fine and dandy and with the rest of the 'rookies' judged up the long hill to D barracks.

"I gosh I could shake hands with you now that I am a little brother in the service. I sure feel fine with the new clothes on as I got a fine fit all around. I have lost my pretty hair and got a good tanning up. We get the best grub for 'chow' and fatities like ice cream, fruits and the like.

"We are drilling every day and we expect to be out of here by June 4. We have an excellent commander in our company who tells us the right thing to do and then makes us do it. I am beginning to discern the ranks of officers, the bugle calls and the right and left sides of myself now among other things. I am still in the hospital corps. There is a lot of good brains here in the same branch and I am trying to pick up all I can from the start."

"This airplane investigation that the newspapers say so much about is all camouflage. This government is making them by the thousands and I know where there are thousands all finished. These Dutchmen are going up some morning and see the largest flock of birds over their heads that they ever saw, and then is the time they are going to get it and get it good and plenty; that's my prediction. We have an airplane factory 13 miles from here, that was nothing but some old carbars six months ago, that is turning out 30 new planes per week and I wish you could see them fly; they are beauties."

Tells of Building Many Airplanes in the East

That the government airplane investigation about which the newspapers have said so much about lately is all camouflage, is the statement in a letter of George Rising, a cousin of Mrs. Elmer Roberts, of this city and who lives at Windsor Locks, Conn., in the midst of the district where airplanes and other engines of war are made, says the Eugene Register. Mr. Rising is manager of the Southern New England Telephone company. In his letter he says:

"I don't suppose you see as much war material there as we do here. All the motor cars that are made in the Middle West and in Michigan are run over the road and through here to Atlantic ports. They go by in droves. We saw 340 five-ton trucks in one flock, 125

if there is in the United States another city the size of Portland where in muck and filth is allowed to accumulate and remain on the principal streets from Saturday morning until Monday morning, then the public health officials and the citizens of that city should be thoroughly ashamed of themselves.
