(United Press Staff Correspondent.) With the Americans on the Marne, June 5.—Americans fighting the Ger-mans on the Marne furnished the most dramatic moment of the war since General Gallieni's "taxicab army" France. American infantry lies under saved Paris. Rushed from a distant cover of waving fields of green grain area under French command to Chateau-Thierry, they did work on the battle line at that point that is sur-passed in history only by the exploit of Gallieni's troops.
